Finns Admit Reverses; Call More Men to Arms

ISTHMUS ARMY FIGHTS ON WITH 'BACK TO WALL'

President Appeals Again for Aid.

Reds Claim 100 Forts

MOSCOW, Feb. 15, Thursday (AP).—The soviet high command early today announced the occupation of 16 additional Finnish defensive fortifications in the Red army drive on the Mannerheim line, making a total of 100 positions claimed to have been captured in the last six days. The Finnish defenders were falling back and suffering "heavy losses" before the soviet onslaught, the Russians said.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 14 (AP).—Finland called more men to the colors tonight as furious fighting on the Karelian isthmus front, along the bent but unbroken Mannerheim line, seemed near a climax in the Finnish-Russian war's greatest battle.

Russian gains on the eastern part of the Summa sector were conceded by a Finnish communique which declared that "a few foremost positions" had been captured, but that "at all other points enemy attacks were repulsed with heavy losses."

The class of 1897—men 42 and 43 years old—was the latest mustered to strengthen the nation's armed forces, admittedly fighting with their backs to the wall.

No Choice but to Fight.

"Every one knows we are outnumbered 50 to 1," he said, "but the issues at stake are clear. We appreciate the sympathy shown us by Americans in our struggle to be free—indeed to live at all—but we really hope our cause might stir onlookers abroad to offer us material help, for we are defending the interests common to all civilized peoples.

"If, however, help does not arrive, we cannot change our course. Regardless of the overwhelming odds we would still carry on our fight—even if it must be alone. The alternative is extinction for our nation."

Renew Bombings of Cities.

Viipuri, Finland's second largest city, on the Karelian isthmus, was bombed repeatedly today by Russian planes, which also raided other Finish civilian centers—Hamina and Lappeenranta among them. Numerous buildings were burned in the towns.

Finland's plight was made worse by the fourteenth day of concerted Russian battering on the isthmus front where the Finns likened fighting to the world war siege of Verdun.

The advance posts on the Summa sector, a 10 mile stretch of shell plowed terrain, fell to the Red army, further advances were checked before the Russians penetrated to the next Finnish fortifications.

"Thousands of enemy fallen and dozens of wrecked tanks were strewn before our lines," the Finnish communique said.

Break Ice Under Tanks.

Russian tanks crawling across the ice at the east end of the Gulf of Finland, in an attempt to outflank the Mannerheim fortifications, were halted by artillery fire from Koivisto Island which blasted the ice to sink many of them.

In the Kuhmo sector in the north, Russia's 54th division was said to be in serious difficulties about 30 miles inside Finnish territory. The communique said a Russian battalion had been destroyed and several enemy positions captured there.

Estimating that "many hundreds" of warplanes flew over Finnish soil, the communique reported 17 enemy aircraft had been shot down.

Doubt Reds' Endurance.

The Finnish ministry of information disclosed that the foreign office had sent notes to foreign governments declaring the Russian forces were violating international principles of war fare.

While not minimizing the seriousness of their position, the Finns nevertheless indicated confidence that soviet troops could not long continue

BRITISH SINK 2 U-BOATS; MEAT SHIP TORPEDOED

6,000 Tons of Beef Go to Bottom.

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—The destruction of two more German U-boats, one of which had sunk a big meat-laden freighter half an hour before, was stamped on the credit side of Great Britain's sea warfare ledger tonight by the admiralty.

Announcing that four submarines have been sunk within five days, the British now claim they have destroyed more than 40 German U-boats since the start of the war.

The meat ship, which went down, was the 12,306 ton Sultan Star. She was bringing 6,000 tons of Argentine chilled beef for British dinner tables. The Sultan Star was torpedoed 230 miles southwest of Land's End, England. The crew abandoned ship.

Five Other Ships Sunk.

The sinking of five other ships—two British, two Danish, and a Norwegian vessel—was also disclosed.

The British Triumph, a tanker of 8,501 tons, capsized and sank last night after an explosion in the North sea, with the loss of 5 of her 47 crewmen, and the Gretafield, also a British tanker of 10,190 tons, was sunk off the northern coast of Scotland by "enemy action." The latter went down in flames with 13 crewmen missing.

The two Danish ships which went to the bottom were the Chastine Maersk, 6,177 tons, and the Martin Goldschmidt, 2,095 tons.

Plane Sights Lifeboats.

The Chastine Maersk was sunk by a submarine between the Shetland Islands and Bergen, Norway. A British plane, sighting the lifeboats of the destroyed steamer, called a Norwegian ship which saved all of the crew of 30. The survivors arrived at Aalesund, Norway, tonight and reported the submarine had fired 27 shells into their vessel.

The Martin Goldschmidt was sunk off the northwest coast of Scotland, according to a British press service [Reuters] dispatch from Oslo, Norway. Fifteen of the crew were lost. Five were rescued by a Norwegian ship. Whether the ship was torpedoed or struck a mine was not disclosed.

The destroyed Norwegian ship was the steamer Elka, 1,503 tons. She was sunk by a submarine while en route from Spain to Norway. A message from the Norwegian consulate at Hamburg, Germany, to Oslo said a U-boat landed two survivors at Wilhelmshaven. The Elka, carrying a crew of 18, had been unreported since Jan. 27.

Report French Tanker Sunk.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—German authorities today announced the sinking of the French tanker Picardie. The manner in which the ship was destroyed was not made public. The Germans claim that 26 British and French oil tankers have been sunk since the beginning of the war.

ITALY PUNISHES 28,150 PERSONS AS FOOD HOARDERS

ROME, Feb. 14 (AP).—Police, who are bearing down on food hoarders and profiteers, disclosed today that 28,150 persons had been penalized for violating regulations since the outbreak of the European war. The drive brought a total of 32,410 persons into court.

Eight offenders were sent to prison, five more placed on probation, 15,089 fined, while for 7,578 their places of business were temporarily closed or their licenses suspended. Others were let off with a warning.

At the outbreak of the war special food vigilantes were organized among the regular police to combat food hoarding and profiteering.

Wrecks 3 Story Building to Find a Place to Park

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP).—Plaster Manufacturer Arthur N. Johnson warned during a traffic regulations drive: "If the police tag another car parked in front of our office, we'll tear down a building and make a place to park." The police tagged his car. Today Johnson gave orders for demolition of a three story brick building owned by the firm and adjoining the office.

THE DOUBLE EDGED SWORD

2 Nazis Shirk Work; Sent to Jail for Year

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—A Berlin court today sentenced two Germans to 12 month jail terms, one for having quit his job and the other for failure to accept the dictate of the German labor office on where he was to work.

The man who quit left without notice after a few days and the second offender did not turn up at the position selected for him.

Equivalent to Insubordination.

In sentencing the men, the judge declared that the refusal to follow the official labor bureau's order was equivalent to insubordination in the army.

The sentences were based on a decree issued by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering giving the labor authorities the right to order workers to accept jobs regarded as of vital importance.

Farmer Is Fined.

A farmer who fed rye to his cattle when no other feed was available today was fined 120 marks [nominally about $48] and the miller who ground it for him was fined 500 marks [$200].

Each must spend three weeks in a concentration camp. Both were residents of Muenster. They violated the law forbidding the use of cereals to feed animals.

HE HAS $10,000 A DAY; CAN'T GET ONE 'THANK YOU'

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—Sir John Reeves Ellerman, Britain's richest young man, whose income is about $10,000 a day, has given the British admiralty a $150,000 torpedo boat—and it can't even thank him. It doesn't know where he is.

Ever since 1933, when Sir John, who is 30 years old, inherited the bulk of his father's $171,709,771 estate, he has made a fetish of secrecy.

Shortly after he inherited his wealth he married Esther De Sola of Montreal, Que.

TANKER LOSES RUDDER IN STORM OFF SANDY HOOK; SENDS OUT S O S

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—The tanker Aztec, caught in the blizzard whipping the Atlantic coast tonight, sent out an S O S from 50 miles southeast of Sandy Hook, Mackay Radio reported.

The call for help said, "Steering gear carried away; vessel helpless in full gale; all ships close by please help."

Lloyd's shipping register lists the Aztec as a 3,262 ton vessel, built in 1916. Its home port is Baltimore.

The coast guard cutter Chelan bucked waves estimated as high as 25 feet as it pounded toward the disabled New Bedford fishing dragger Palmers Island, 22 miles southeast of Martha's Vineyard Island.

The United States coast guard put out extra patrol boats to guard steamship lanes from the menace of drifting pleasure craft ripped loose from their moorings.

TO THE LOCKUP, SAYS JUDGE, AND IT'S NO LULLABY

"Daddy's gone a-hunting," crooned the fatherly looking man, peeking once more into the perambulator he was pushing down 63d street, "to get a little rabbit skin to wrap his Baby Bunting in."

Three policemen beamed, last Saturday, until they saw the lullaby singer draw a jug from beneath the blanket that they thought was covering Baby Bunting.

Judge Matthew Hartigan asked an explanation yesterday when Ralph Maher, 49, no home, disorderly conduct, faced him. "I was walking down the street with a jug," Maher explained. "It was heavy. A kindly gentleman gave me the perambulator to carry it in. I would push a while and sip a while."

"Thirty days in jail," said the judge.

Patsy's Bark Saves Pair from Fire, but She Dies

Henry Raddatz, whose farm is 3 miles south of Marengo, and his wife were awakened early yesterday by the frantic barking of Patsy, a fox terrier dog. The warning enabled the couple to escape from the house, which was on fire. They had no time to release Patsy from a leash and the dog burned to death.

Citizens Fight Housing Plan; Charge Deceit

"Our neighborhood may be known as Little Hell or Black Hollow to the federal housing authorities, but it is home to us and we want to stay there."

That was the sentiment yesterday of a committee representing 160 property owners and residents of the near north side area which the Chicago Housing authority seeks to acquire for its latest housing project, to be financed by the federal government. The committee appeared before Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of the city council housing committee, to protest the housing authority's proposal. The members accused the authority's agents of deception and unfair tactics.

Action to Be Deferred.

Later Ald. Lindell and council leaders conferred with Mayor Kelly. The mayor then announced that council action on the proposed project probably will be deferred several weeks to give the property owners time to develop some other plan for neighborhood improvement.

The Chicago Housing authority plans to build the $10,002,271 project in an area bounded by Larrabee, Division, and Sedgwick streets and a line one-half block north of Chicago avenue.

Attorney Lawrence Marino, 902 Cambridge avenue, one of the spokesmen for the protest committee, said: "Some of the men sent to appraise our property pose as G-men. Some of the men told our people their neighbors had already agreed to sell their property when their neighbors hadn't.

Charges They're Kept in Dark.

"We have asked the housing authority for some idea of the price they will give for our property. That might help us in planning our own future. But we have been kept in darkness."

"You aren't the only ones," Ald. Lindell remarked. "The housing authority keeps the city council in the same darkness. We didn't know they planned to build a project in your district any sooner than you did."

"Seventy-five per cent of the residents of the district are property owners," spoke up Dr. A. J. Lendino, 1429 Sedgwick street, a dentist.

"We did have a reputation for crime and delinquency and at one time had the name of Little Hell, but our north side civic committee has been cleaning things up. We now have seven Boy Scout troops."

Worker Beaten by 6 Goons in Factory Strike

Labor terrorists traveling in a gang of six beat a workman to the ground yesterday while he was on his way to his job in a St. Charles factory where a union membership drive is in progress. The goons left their victim helpless where he fell.

The victim is Herman R. Stern, 30 years old, who supports his wife and two small children on the wages he receives from the St. Charles Manufacturing company. He was in bed last night, under the care of a physician. It was believed that he was partially paralyzed.

Describes Other Threats.

Stern said last night that he had been threatened twice before at the door of the factory and that terrorists had forced his car into a ditch last Friday. He was walking to work across the prairie yesterday because his car had broken down.

"Suddenly I noticed a number of men running toward me," he said. "I told them I was on private property. One of them said, '— — you, we told you not to go back to work. Now you are going to get it.' One grabbed my arm. Some one cracked me in the nose and beat me on the head. Two more began hitting me in the head and face. I made a dive for the ground with my hands over my face.

"One of the men got astraddle of me and pounded my head for what seemed a couple of minutes. Then he began kicking me in the back. They walked away and left me on the ground."

Stern said he had taken no part in the labor disputes, but had continued to work at his job of metal polisher because he needed the job to care for his family.

Four men were arrested for questioning after the attack. They were released later on bonds of $500 each. The bonds were signed by Leonard Gromer, financial secretary of the Elgin Truck Drivers' union local, and William Eastman, business agent of the Aurora Electrical Workers' union. Both these unions are American Federation of Labor affiliates.

Organizing Drive Begun.

The factory, on the northwestern outskirts of St. Charles, manufactures kitchen cabinets and portable ovens. American Federation of Labor organizers began a campaign several weeks ago to enlist the 165 employés in the machinists' and drop forge hammer operators' unions.

A week ago today the A. F. of L. organizers declared a strike in progress. Work has continued since then, but with a reduced force, as many of the workers left their jobs. Seventy were still working yesterday.

40 Picket Factory.

Picketing was begun by about 40 men. Robert A. MacNeille, president of the company, charged last night that most of them are nonemployés who came by truck from Elgin and Aurora.

Deputies under command of Sheriff Marcus Damish of Kane county have been patroling the neighborhood of the factory since the trouble began. The sheriff said last night that the guard will be continued in the hope of preventing further lawlessness.

The men questioned in the terrorism are Harry Minard, 46 years old, and Phil Neu, 35, of Aurora; and Walter Van der Pluym, 25, and Louis Greviskes, 28, of Batavia. All denied taking part in the attack, but Stern named them as members of the goon gang. He said there were two sluggers he did not recognize.

MR. KASH FINDS BREVITY IS SOUL OF CENSUS TAKER

When a census taker entered the tailor shop of Martin Kash at 816 Madison street, Gary, yesterday, and made his interrogation, Kash was suspicious. He asked the statistics gatherer to wait. Then he called the police.

"This guy must be a phony," he said. "The government wouldn't let me off just answering a half dozen questions when he's got at least 50 on the blank."

The police admitted it did look queer, and sent a squad. Meanwhile Kash called the postoffice and learned that the census taker had the right credentials and probably had asked all that Uncle Sam wanted to know about Kash.

British Wholesale Prices Rise 27½ Pct. in a Year

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—The Board of Trade Journal reported today that wholesale prices generally in Great Britain have risen 27½ per cent since January, 1939. Food is up 33½ per cent, it said, and industrial materials and manufactures 24 per cent.

STATE BLAMES JUDGE AND QUITS BERWYN TRIAL

Verdict of Acquittal Then Is Ordered.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Ernest W. Mau, treasurer of Berwyn, and Matthew Berg, former treasurer, were freed of a charge of embezzling funds from the suburb yesterday in an action without precedent in the Criminal court. The jury in Judge William J. Lindsay's court, which has been hearing evidence since Jan. 22, signed a not guilty verdict in the jury box under direction of the court.

Judge Lindsay.

The trial, which has been featured by wrangling between the judge and the attorneys for both sides, ended after the following extraordinary court actions:

1. Judge Lindsay ordered contempt proceedings against the state's two star witnesses and disbarment action against one of them. Often judges have taken such steps against defense witnesses, but seldom if ever against prosecution witnesses.

2. The assistant state's attorneys staged what the judge called a "sitdown strike" and abandoned the prosecution. They charged that the judge's action had made it plain that he had no confidence in their two chief witnesses.

Bars Further Prosecution.

The action of the state bars further criminal prosecution of Berg and Mau for alleged peculations of some $50,000. Items totaling $3,726, involved in the trial, were the only ones within the three year statute of limitations. An audit introduced during the trial showed a $300,000 shortage in the Berwyn special assessment fund over the last 20 years. Prosecutions for these shortages also are barred by the statute.

The abandonment of the case came after Judge Lindsay had taken disciplinary steps against the state's main witnesses, Attorney Harry H. Hitzeman of 6030 North Oakley avenue and his wife, Mrs. Rosalyn Nye Hitzeman, Mau's former secretary.

Mrs. Hitzeman testified during the trial that she was the unwitting tool of Mau and Berg in cashing a Berwyn special assessment fund check for $3,726. She insisted during a five day siege on the witness stand that she merely performed a courtesy for her former employer and for this received a gratuity of $100. The defense attorneys accused her of evasion.

Lawyer on Witness Stand.

Attorney Hitzeman testified he directed his wife to go downtown and cash the check for Mau and Berg. He too claimed it was an innocent transaction. On cross examination, however, he admitted that in 1935 he had a similar special assessment check for $4,179 cashed and placed the money in his bank account. This, too, he said, was done as an accommodation.

Mrs. Hitzeman left the witness stand about noon yesterday, and the state prepared to close its case. Judge Lindsay said lunch time had arrived.

The jury was excused. Judge Lindsay turned to Assistant Public Defender Frank Ferlich, whom he had summoned to the courtroom, and directed him to draw up contempt and disbarment proceedings against Hitzeman and contempt proceedings against Mrs. Hitzeman "for obstructing the orderly processes of the court by not answering questions as ordered by the court."

State Objects to Action.

"But your honor, the state protests," interposed Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright.

"The court is doing this on his own initiative and is not asking the state for assistance," replied the judge. "Court is adjourned until 2 o'clock."

After the recess Prosecutor Wright started the fireworks. The proceedings follow:

PROSECUTOR WRIGHT—Now, if your honor pleases, the state feels it is called on at this time to present a matter with reference to the case now on trial. The jury is not locked up and will read in the newspapers what occurred this morning. The state protested your action at the time.

JUDGE LINDSAY—The court said the matter was none of your business. You are not taking the court by surprise with your remarks now.

Regrets to Take Position.

PROSECUTOR WRIGHT—I regret very much that we find ourselves compelled to take the position which we are about to take because of facts and circumstances that have occurred. In view of the court's public expression regarding the state's two main witnesses, the court has made it manifest that it has no confidence in either of these witnesses. I submit in reference to Mrs. Hitzeman's testimony that she did not at any time refuse to answer a single question.

JUDGE LINDSAY—What is the purpose of these remarks? Get to the point.

PROSECUTOR WRIGHT—For the reasons I have already touched upon and others I have not, the state's attorney does not intend to have any further connection with this prosecution. We will not press the prosecution further.

JUDGE LINDSAY—If the state makes a motion to nol pros the case or makes any of the usual motions of legal proceedure, the court will rule.

Puts It Up to Court.

PROSECUTOR WRIGHT — The state's attorney makes no motions. This matter is now up to the court. The state abandons the prosecution.

The prosecutor then sat down abruptly.

JUDGE LINDSAY—When you sit down like a C. I. O. striker it does not mean a thing. Make it plain what your motion is.

PROSECUTOR WRIGHT—I say the state decides to abandon this prosecution from this moment on. I would suggest, with all due respect for the court, that the defendants are entitled to whatever the court determines. The sole responsibility in criminal prosecutions does not lie with the state's attorney.

JUDGE LINDSAY—Let the record show the state is abandoning its case.

At this point Prosecutor Wright and his associate, Assistant State's Attorney C. Vernon Thompson, picked up their books and turned as if to walk from the courtroom.

JUDGE LINDSAY—Don't you dare walk out on me. You are an officer of this court and subject to its directions.

PROSECUTOR WRIGHT—O, no, your honor, I was not walking out. I assumed everything was over.

Defense Lawyers Speak Up.

Attorney James M. Burke, representing Mau, and Attorney Joseph Harrington, counsel for Berg, then spoke for the first time. They made separate motions for directed verdicts of not guilty. The judge called for legal authorities and summoned the lawyers to his chambers. Attorney Harrington produced a book and read some legal citations.

JUDGE LINDSAY—Does the state care to cite any authorities?

PROSECUTOR WRIGHT—The state does not care to cite any authority. We have abandoned our case. But merely by way of suggestion to the court, I might say that the jury has sufficient evidence before it to make a decision on the case after deliberation.

JUDGE LINDSAY—I agree with you. If you will submit an instruction on the subject and it complies with the law I will give it to the jury. You may go and prepare such an instruction and I will confer with Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach as an adviser to the court.

Instead of preparing an instruction the prosecutors put their feet on a table in an anteroom and waited.

Explains Matters to Jury.

After a wait of 30 minutes without a communication from the prosecutors Judge Lindsay mounted the bench and explained to the jury what had occurred. He handed the jurors not guilty forms of verdicts and ordered them to sign the documents. The weary jurors smiled as they complied. They had listened for three weeks to the evidence in the case.

State's Attorney Courtney refused any comment. His first assistant, Wilbert Crowley, said:

"Mr. Wright and Mr. Thompson acted with my knowledge and content."

Attorney Hitzeman last night said:

"Mrs. Hitzeman and I have told nothing but the truth about what we knew about the facts in the Berg-Mau embezzlement trial. We did not, in my opinion, try to evade any questions by attorneys for either side or to hold back any truthful facts."

POLICE SEIZE 2 MORE FUGITIVES FROM MANTENO

Two of five inmates who fled from the Manteno state hospital for the insane on Tuesday were arrested yesterday by the Maxwell street police. They are Robert Taylor, 27 years old, 1047 West 14th street, and Russell Crump, 20, of 4641 Langley avenue, both colored.

Sergt. Al Woodrick, who made the arrests, said Taylor escaped from Manteno on Jan. 4, and broke into a home before he was recaptured and returned to the hospital.

Frank Murphy, 35, who escaped from the Kankakee State Hospital for the Insane Sunday night, was arrested last night at 47th street and Woodlawn avenue. He was taken to the Pyschopathic hospital and will be returned to Kankakee today.

Principals in Trial

FIND 13 ARRESTS IN FILE ON JURY FIX CASE FIGURE

Sam Orlando's Record Bared by Courtney.

State's Attorney Courtney disclosed yesterday that Sam Orlando, 11th ward Democratic precinct captain and central figure in a pending trial involving charges of vote fraud and jury fixing, has a record of 13 arrests since 1926.

Courtney said the most serious charge was one of conspiracy and robbery in connection with the theft of $20,000 in 1928 from the Industrial State bank. Orlando, Courtney said, then used the name Sortino. The charge later was nol prossed.

Both Names on Card.

The records show that Orlando has been arrested six times under the name Sortino and seven times as Orlando, according to Courtney. In one instance both names are on the card in the bureau of records, Courtney said. In all but one case, however, the same address is given: 250 West 31st street. In the other the address is 26th and Wallace streets, where Orlando runs a saloon, the Nightingale. The saloon license is in the name of John Sortina, known as Orlando's half brother.

Orlando, questioned recently in his saloon, at first denied knowing any one named Sortino, or Sordino, as the Industrial bank indictment read. A moment later he remembered a family of that name, then said the Sortino referred to was a "cousin" of his, now in New York.

Courtney was aided in his investigation by his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, and James Shea, an investigator. The prosecutors said that altho there are no finger prints of both Sortino and Orlando for comparison, the testimony of arresting officers, similarity of addresses, and confidential information had combined to convince him that both men are the same.

Accused of Vote Frauds.

Orlando was charged with vote frauds, with an associate, Joseph Vinci, last Dec. 20. Both later were acquitted. A five week investigation by Courtney's office, however, resulted in the indictment of eight persons, including a state policeman with a criminal record, on charges of jury bribery and conspiracy to obstruct justice. Sortino and Vinci also were indicted on new vote fraud charges. Both trials are pending.

The Sortino-Orlando record includes eight disorderly conduct charges, two other minor charges, the two robbery charges, and one charge of receiving stolen property, Courtney said. All the major charges were dropped, but fines were levied in five of the minor cases.

The state policeman who figured in the case was John Howe. Three robbery charges against him have been reinstated. Yesterday he was released in $22,500 bond by Judge John Bolton in Criminal court.

TELLS OF PLAYING BOOTLEGGER TO NAB 'FIX' FIGURES

Alcohol Agent Re-Enacts Drama at Trial.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

A veteran alcohol tax agent, a master of disguise and make believe, told a federal court jury yesterday of one of his starring rôles in the old drama of the law versus crime. It was played on a south side street corner before a select audience two years ago. Posing as a bootlegger, he said he took a pair of real bootleggers into camp by outwitting them so completely that they accused him of being a hijacker.

The agent, Patrick Donoghue, testified in the sixth day of the trial of five men charged with operating a case fixing ring in the District court.

Ex-Prosecutors on Trial.

Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske, two of the defendants, are former assistant United States attorneys. The others are Attorney Alfred Roth, Anthony Horton, colored, a professional bondsman, and Louis Kaplan, a known alcohol peddler. The case is being tried before Federal Judge Patrick Stone of Madison, Wis.

Donoghue, as Irish as his name, matter of factly told his story:

He had learned the language of the racket thru long association with bootleggers. And he had secret information that an illicit still could be traced thru a hardware store at 11824 Michigan avenue.

Clad in overalls, a three days' growth of beard on his face, he marched into the store one January night in 1938 and told Pete Hodorowicz, brother of the owner, that he wanted to buy some "stuff" to take back to Indiana. He mentioned the names of a few known alky peddlers in the section he said he came from, and that, he said, was enough to convince Pete.

Loads Up Government Car.

Then he pulled out a roll of money and peeled off five $20 bills which Pete took and gave back $5 change. The agent said he watched while Pete and a partner, Walter Hort, loaded 10 cans of liquor into a government automobile.

Next came the denouement. Donoghue said:

"You're under arrest. I'm a federal man."

The bootleggers refused to believe him, the agent testified, and accused him of being a hijacker. But Pete and Walter soon found themselves locked up in the Kensington police station.

Records show that this case was withdrawn from grand jury consideration by the defendant, Glasser, the day after an indictment was voted. At Glasser's request, according to the grand jury minutes, the grand jury reversed itself and consented to have the matter placed on the pending call where it has remained ever since.

Charge Ring "Fixed" Case.

Another witness yesterday was Ralph Sharp, 22 years old, sallow of complexion and slightly built. He said he began working at various bootlegging stills as a handyman at the age of 17. Following his arrest in a raid in 1936, he related, he borrowed $250 from relatives and friends and gave the money to the defendant, Kaplan, to fix the case. Records show that the charges against him were dismissed on the motion of the defendant, Kretske, who was representing the government at the time.

Frank Hodorowicz, owner of the Michigan avenue hardware store visited by Agent Donoghue, was on the stand as a government witness thruout the morning. On Tuesday he testified he paid Kretske $1,300 to fix two cases, but was convicted after failing to pay $1,000 to fix a third.

After his indictment in the third case, he testified, he went to see Glasser.

Relates Talk with Glasser.

"You're going to jail for five years; I can't do anything about it," he quoted Glasser as telling him. "For all the money in the world I couldn't help you. This isn't an ordinary case. Agents are in town from Washington."

Under direct examination by Prosecutor Martin Ward, the witness told of paying other bribes, totaling $800, to a bootlegger identified as Frank Miller to fix two earlier alcohol tax cases. This brought to $2,350 the total of alleged bribes Hodorowicz has told of paying.

Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart, trying to impeach yesterday's testimony, introduced a transcript of Frank Hodorowicz's testimony during the trial of one of the cases which, the government charges, was fixed. It developed that Hodorowicz denied before Judge Charles E. Woodward that he was in the bootlegging racket or that he had ever tried to influence the outcome of cases.

The witness admitted that was his previous testimony, but added:

"I wasn't ready to tell all I knew then."

LOUISE ROLFE WIEBRECHT.

Mrs. Louise Rolfe Gebardi Wiebrecht, 31 years old, the widow of "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, appeared before Judge Joseph Drucker in Felony court yesterday, and it was a sad occasion for her, even tho charges of disorderly conduct were continued against her until today.

It was St. Valentine day, and 11 years before occurred the St. Valentine's day massacre of seven members of the north side gang of George [Bugs] Moran. Mrs. Wiebrecht came to notice for the first time as a consequence, acting as the "blond alibi" of McGurn, who was a favorite suspect in the case. Four years ago, on St. Valentine's day, McGurn, whom she had married, was killed by other mobsters.

The charge against Mrs. Wiebrecht is based on the fact that police found a revolver used by Edwin Rozelle, 30, in a robbery in a drawer in her apartment at 5058 Sheridan road after Rozelle was arrested and told police he had left the weapon there.

Carl Hubert Erickson, thin, bespectacled, and of scholarly mien, yesterday began his struggle to prove that he did not commit the "perfect murder" which he confessed to the police in December. He is charged with the slaying of Herbert Wolff, once his best friend. The case is being heard by a jury of nine women and three men in the court of Judge Joseph A. Graber.

Among the witnesses against him are two women. One is Mrs. Grace Wolff, widow of the murder victim. The other is Miss Alice Marjorie Wells, who told investigators that Erickson laughingly told her the police were fools and that he knew much more about the killing than they did. Tests have shown that he is the most intelligent person accused of murder ever to be examined by the city's behavior clinic.

Victim's Widow Testifies.

Mrs. Wolff, 20 years old, took the stand yesterday to tell of the Damon-Pythias friendship of the two men—and of how Erickson borrowed money from her after Wolff was dead. On two occasions, she said, she lent him $50, none of which was repaid.

She first met Erickson, the widow said, at the time of her marriage in October, 1938. Wolff was without funds and the couple moved into Erickson's flat at 230 East Ontario street at his invitation. They moved out in April, 1939, but remained on friendly terms with Erickson.

"He came to dinner with us several times," she testified, "and he was the godfather to our baby."

She was asked if Erickson had talked to her about the murder when he borrowed money from her.

Discussed Murder with Her.

"Yes," she said. "He told me he would like to get his hands on the man that killed Herbert."

Sergt. Robert E. Ryan of the Chicago avenue police told of how Erickson "coöperated" with the police in their search for the slayer. Wolff was shot to death on Sept. 28 in a garage at 145 East Grand avenue, where he was employed, and Erickson was not arrested until Dec. 12.

"At least 12 or 15 times," the sergeant said, "he came to the station to give us tips on how to find the murderer. Once he suggested that he and Wolff had been undercover men investigating Nazis and communists and that this may have furnished a motive."

Repudiates His Confession.

Erickson's confession in detail was made soon after he was seized on Miss Wells' information. He has repudiated the confession on the ground it was made under police threats and torture. In the statement he said he killed his erstwhile friend because Wolff had taken the garage job from him. Erickson got the job back after the murder.

The jury was excluded yesterday afternoon while Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin argued for the admission of the confession into evidence. This was opposed by Attorney Samuel Hoffman for the defense, and Erickson himself testified to being struck and threatened by policemen. Judge Graber is to rule on the admission today.

GUN GIRL'S TRIAL IN SHOOTING CASE NEARING JURORS

The case of Miss Lola Flowers, 34 years old, accused of shooting Policeman Frank Cowgill of Michigan City, Ind., last June 7, is expected to be given to a jury in Michigan City today.

Cowgill was shot when he and another policeman attempted to question Virgil Heikert and a woman companion. Heikert is serving a robbery sentence in Missouri. Miss Flowers, a former Kansas City, Mo., bookseller, surrendered last October.

Miss Flowers testified yesterday that Heikert forced her to train a revolver on the policeman. She said the gun was discharged when the policeman began beating her with blackjacks.

The defendant said she met Heikert while hitch hiking from St. Louis, Mo., to Kansas City and that he invited her to go with him to the New York world's fair. She said she did not know he was a criminal. Her attorney is Louis E. Kunkel, former state prison warden.

3 ADMIT ROBBING CHINESE.

Tom Yan Quang was robbed of his car and $2 near his Chinese restaurant at 3044½ 59th street on Feb. 4. Yesterday police said that Emil Sunta, 19 years old, of 4952 South Wolcott avenue; Stanley Majkut, 19, of 5303 South Honore street, and John Varck, 19, of 5128 South Maplewood avenue, have confessed the robbery.

ESCAPE FOILED; LEADER OF TEN FOUND HANGED

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 14 (AP).—A carefully planned scheme of 10 long term convicts to lead a wholesale break from Eastern penitentiary was disclosed today with discovery of two freshly dug tunnels and the suicide of one of the ringleaders.

Several hours later reports of new trouble circulated as detectives were summoned to the prison. Warden Herbert Smith said, however, he had asked police to check houses at one end of a tunnel and that everything is quiet.

Guards found the body of James Wilson, 25 years old, of Williamsport, Pa., hanging in his cell soon after prison officials discovered the tunnels, one 33 and the other 38 feet long, extending from a cell block on the first floor toward the prison wall. The tunnels had not been dug far enough to make escape possible.

The plotters were placed in solitary confinement. Two are life termers.

TROOPERS HUNT NEGRO SUSPECT IN COLD SWAMP

Snow Hill., Md., Feb. 14 (AP).—State troopers searched in a cold, blizzard swept swamp today for a Negro suspect wanted in the slaying of a farmer, after two Negro women, rescued from an angry mob last night, had been placed in the safety of a jail at Bel Air, Md.

A posse of about 75 officers and civilians reported that the swamp was surrounded. They predicted the storm and falling temperature would drive the suspect from hiding.

THAT FRANCHISE DEADLOCK—HERE IS OWNERS' SIDE

What They'll Win or Lose by Transit Unity.

The Traction Problem

Chicago's traction problem is complicated by many factors. Among them are: Claims of the security holders, claims of the car riders, and claims of the city which much be satisfied before a franchise is granted. Herewith THE TRIBUNE prints the first of a series of articles intended to explain the divergent points of view.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

For more than 13 years numerous unsuccessful attempts have been made to unify and modernize Chicago's local transportation service. Unused plans directed toward unification have cost more than 6½ million dollars of car riders' street car and elevated fares.

Representatives of the city and the surface and elevated lines are currently trying to agree on the terms of a franchise for a new, unified company. The city and the lines agree that under the franchise the company would spend $60,000,000 in the next three years for transit improvements.

The chief obstacle to the program is a disagreement between securities holders, or owners, of the present companies and the city on what obligations the new company should undertake in return for the franchise. [Owners of the present lines would be the owners of the new company, under a merger plan already drawn.]

How Much Is Invested?

Who are the owners or investors? How much money have they put into the transit lines? What have they been paid on their investments? Would they gain or lose if the traction lines are unified? What is behind their bonds and stocks?

The complexity of the present tangle is indicated by the fact that the four street car companies, which operate the lines, were formed by consolidations and reorganizations of 35 previous companies, dating from 1858 when horse car service was started in Chicago.

Thirty-three years ago—in 1907—when the city council and the four street car companies first came to terms on a plan to coördinate street car service, the properties were valued at $55,775,000. This figure was fixed jointly by the city and the companies, and 20 year franchises were granted to the service lines. New securities were sold to investors on the basis of this valuation.

$95,000,000 More Put In.

By 1920 investors had put an additional $95,000,000 into the street car lines. This was paid in cash for first mortgage bonds and the proceeds were spent for new equipment and extensions.

In 1924 the four companies which owned elevated lines in the city were merged into one system operated by the newly formed Chicago Rapid Transit company. Investors in the elevated lines have paid $46,000,000 for mortgage bonds in the system since 1896, in addition to more millions for securities with junior claims.

All of the surface lines' bonds—about $150,000,000—fell due in 1927. The franchises to the car lines, however, were due to expire in the same year and no agreement was, or has yet been, reached for franchise renewals. Having no franchises to operate, the car lines could not borrow new money to pay off their old bonds. The bond default forced the surface lines into receivership, altho their earnings were at the highest level in history.

"L" Lines Forced to Default.

The elevated lines went into receivership in 1932 because of poor earnings which forced a default in interest on their $46,000,000 of bonds.

A number of representatives of the city in the current traction franchise controversy assert that the traction investors, particularly in the surface lines, have fared as well or better than the city's car riders in the last 13 years.

They point to the fact that 5 per cent interest has been paid regularly to the surface lines' first mortgage bondholders thruout the receivership. They also recall that the first mortgage holders since 1927 have been repaid 15, 25, or 35 per cent of their original investment, depending on the bonds they hold. This has reduced the first mortgage holdings in the surface lines from $95,000,000 to $72,000,000.

Representatives of the securities holders contend, however, that the investors have fared badly as a result of the long receivership and delay in reorganizing the properties and getting a franchise.

Security Holders Total 75,000.

There are more than 75,000 investors—50,000 in the surface lines and 25,000 in the elevated lines. They hold 27 different types of securities issued since 1859. Most of these investors are small holders, according to securities representatives. They report that the average surface lines bondholder has $3,000 in bonds and the average elevated bondholder has $1,500 of bonds.

Many of the surface lines bonds are held by insurance companies whose policyholders are affected by the traction situation, representatives say. Many present holders bought their bonds years ago at par, they report.

Members of the securities protective committees, in arguing their case, say that only 25,000 of the 75,000 holders are now receiving any return on their investment, 13 years after the interest defaults. These are the surface lines' first mortgage bondholders. The holders of $60,000,000 of junior bonds, moreover, bond representatives argue, have received no interest since 1927 because of lack of a francise, altho the surface lines have earned this interest in 9 of the last 13 years.

Sell for 50 Cents on Dollar.

The first mortgage holders assert also that they can now sell their bonds for only 50 cents on the dollar, altho they were supposed to receive 100 cents on the dollar in 1927.

The franchise controversy, they contend, has depressed the value of their bonds during a period when good earnings have justified a higher market value.

The position of the elevated's investors differs somewhat from that of the surface lines. The "L" was forced into receivership by poor earnings and has had to reduce its bonded debt more drastically in proportion than the surface lines. Elevated lines' security holders are, like street car lines' investors, interested, however, mainly in reorganizing their properties to try to earn a return on their investments.

Call Merger Plan Workable.

Securities committees of both lines say that their agreed merger plan is workable if they can get a suitable franchise from the city to operate. They assert that their plan calls for a sound capitalization. As evidence they cite these points:

The proposed merger would reduce the number of classes of securities from 27 in the present companies to four in the new unified company.

Interest charges on bonds would be cut from more than $9,000,000 a year accuring on present bonds to $4,000,000 on bonds in the new company.

The amount of bonds outstanding would be reduced by $100,000,000 from $180,000,000 in the present lines to $80,000,000 in the new system.

On the basis of this plan, the transit lines have been negotiating with the city for a franchise since last May.

DOCTOR BLAMES POLLUTED WATER IN MANTENO TRIAL

Bowen Ignored Warnings, Jury Is Told.

Two staff physicians of the Manteno State Hospital for the Insane told from the witness stand in Kankakee yesterday of the typhoid epidemic at the institution last summer in which 415 patients and employés were stricken and 53 died. They testified at the trial of A. L. Bowen, state welfare director, who is charged with malfeasance as an outgrowth of the epidemic.

Today, Dr. A. C. Baxter, state director of public health, and five of his assistants will be summoned to the stand as State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro continues his attempts to prove the epidemic was caused by polluted drinking water. He told the jury and Judge James V. Bartley yesterday that Bowen had failed to take action after the health department warned him the Manteno water was subject to contamination.

Blames Scourge on Water.

Dr. A. H. Golmar, a physician at the hospital since 1931, testified he thought the epidemic ws caused by the water.

"I have been a physician for 40 years," said Dr. Golmar, "and have been thru three other typhoid epidemics. They were caused by polluted water and I think this one was."

The other physician who testified was Dr. D. Louis Steinberg, assistant managing officer. Dr. Steinberg was indicted with two others on charges similar to that against Bowen, but the indictment was quashed when it was found Dr. Steinberg came to Manteno July 1, only two weeks before the first death from typhoid.

Dr. Steinberg said 389 men and women were suffering from the disease at the peak of the epidemic.

Emil Theis, another of the eight state witnesses called, was chief engineer at the hospital until his resignation was announced last Dec. 9. Theis said one of the four wells from which drinking water was obtained was only 150 feet from a sewer line.

Sewage System Overtaxed.

"The sewage system was designed for 2,500 persons," Theis testified. "When the number was exceeded the sewage overflowed into Salt creek, which runs thru the grounds."

In March, 1939, there were 6,093 employés and patients at the hospital. The prosecution contends that the overflow of sewage and subsequent seepage thru the limestone rock strata under Manteno contaminated the water supply.

Theis said, on cross examination, that installation of a new double unit sewage plant has eliminated the overflow danger. L. E. Workman of Urbana, of the state geological survey, described the underlying rock formation to the jury.

Paul Henrisey, Manteno village clerk, set the total typhoid deaths in the hospital itself at 51 between July 15 and Nov. 17. Victims who contracted the disease there and died elsewhere raise the total to the accepted 53, it was said. A. J. McNeil, town clerk and health officer, said 415 typhoid cases were reported at the hospital, three in Kankakee and three in the village of Manteno.

PWA RELEASES $500,000 MORE ON SUBWAY GRANT

A check for $500,000 was released to the city of Chicago yesterday by the Public Works administration as part payment on the PWA's $18,000,000 subway grant to the city. This brought the total PWA payments under the grant agreement to $5,000,000. The city so far has taken an additional $10,000,000 from its traction fund for the subway account.

The total cost of the subway is estimated at $46,000,000, to be shared by the PWA contribution and $28,000,000 from the city. Under the terms of the grant agreement the city is now required to deposit the remainder of its $28,000,000 share before any more funds will be released by PWA.

FACES 23 BURGLARY CHARGES.

Frank Dluzak, 26 years old, 2016 St. Paul avenue, will be arraigned today in the Felony court charged with 23 burglaries of groceries in the last 18 months. He was arrested Saturday.

HEARINGS BEGUN ON CANADIAN AIR LINK TO CHICAGO

Plea Is Presented for Great Circle Route.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—An examiner for the Civil Aeronautics authority today began hearing testimony on Northwest Airlines' application for operating rights over a Chicago-Toronto-New York airway. The application was made under terms of the aviation pact signed with the Canadian government last August following a conference at Ottawa, Ont.

The proposed route, which is not flown now by any air transportation operator, would virtually make Chicago an international seaport. It would open a great circle air route via Toronto and thence by Trans-Canada Air Lines to the Canadian terminals of the trans-Atlantic airways at Botwood, Newfoundland, and Shediac, N. B. Any approval granted by the CAA must also be authorized by the Canadian government.

Points to Advantages.

Croil Hunter, president of the Northwest, is in Washington to appear in connection with his company's proposal. He said today that he is anxious to obtain a transcontinental route for his own company — which the operation into New York would give him—but he also believes that he can tap a source of considerable business and provide an important service by linking Chicago with Trans-Canada Airlines at Toronto.

He pointed out, in an interview outside the hearing rooms, that the direct Chicago-Toronto-Botwood connection would save some 450 miles and about three hours of flying over the present route, which is from Botwood to New York to Chicago. Trans-Canada Air Lines had an application for the route from Chicago to Toronto on file, but withdrew it last Monday.

Air Representatives Heard.

The hearing today was devoted to testimony of representatives from Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Elmira, N. Y., on the applications of Northwest, American Airlines, Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, and Canadian Colonial Airways, Inc., for the Toronto-New York section of the route. Northwest's application for the Chicago-Toronto section has been made a part of this action.

It is expected that several days may elapse before Hunter will take the witness stand to submit evidence concerning the Chicago-Toronto route. After the examiner has passed upon the evidence the matter is submitted to the members of the CAA for determination. A ruling on the matter is not expected before April 1.

Seeks Public Defenders for the Federal Courts

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—Attorney General Robert H. Jackson urged congress today to establish a system of public defenders in federal district courts. "It would be an important step in the improvement of the administration of criminal justice," Jackson wrote the senate and house judiciary committees.

M. J. BOYLE, HEAD OF ELECTRICAL UNION, INDICTED

Named with 16 Others in Monopoly Probe.

Michael J. Boyle, czar of the electricians' union, was indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury investigating trade restraints in the building industry. The jury also named 16 other defendants, among them the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, local No. 134. Boyle is business agent of the local and vice president of the international.

The indictment charges a conspiracy and combination in violation of the Sherman antitrust act to restrain interstate trade in the electrical phase of the building industry. Federal Judge John P. Barnes, before whom the indictment was returned, fixed bail for the defendants at $1,000 each.

Fourth Division to Be Hit.

The indictment was the fourth in a series since the grand jury began its building investigation Jan. 2. Indictments had previously been returned against 41 individuals, corporations, a trade association, and a union in the tile division of the industry, and 25 defendants in the plywood and cut stone industries. The total of defendants now under indictment is 83.

ants now under indictment is 83.

The evidence is being presented to F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general, and his chief aid, Daniel Butt.

Five concerns manufacturing electrical fixtures, the presidents of each, the union, and five other business agents of the union were indicted with Boyle.

"The defendants," states the indictment, "have conspired and combined with the sole intent and purpose arbitrarily and unreasonably to hinder and prevent the shipment of electrical fixtures from the states where they are manufactured into the Chicago area, and not with the intent to increase wages, shorten hours of labor, better working conditions, or promote or effectuate any other legitimate or normal object of a labor union.

"As a result of said combination and conspiracy, the cost of installing electrical fixtures in homes, schools, and buildings in the Chicago area has been substantially increased."

Charge Link with Makers.

The union was charged with organizing and representing fixture workers employed by the defendant manufacturers, and the manufacturers with entering into working agreements with the union under which the union would only install fixtures stamped with the union label. It was charged that the manufacturers warned prospective purchasers that union workers would not install fixtures that did not bear the "fabri-stamped with the union label.

fixtures had to be made in Chicago, chiefly in plants employing members of the union.

The defendant concerns and their presidents are the Beardslee Chandelier Manufacturing company, 216 South Jefferson street, and Fred Farmer; Curtis Lighting, Inc., 1123 Jackson boulevard, and Darwin Curtis; Mutual Metal Manufacturing company, 4832 Division street, and Henry Goodfriend; Solar Light company, 718 Washington boulevard, and Abraham Lazerson, and M. A. Van Esso, Inc., 620 North Michigan avenue, and M. A. Van Esso.

The five other business agents of the union indicted are Michael J. Kennedy, Walter Sheffer, Morris E. Sklare, William Ryan, and Thomas Murray. The union has offices at 49 North Ogden avenue.

Indicted Many Times in Past.

This is the second time Boyle has been indicted by the government for violating the Sherman antitrust law. In 1917 he was convicted with 10 union associates and switchboard manufacturers of conspiring to prevent the use here of switchboards made outside Chicago. He was sentenced to a year in prison and fined $5,000. He began serving his sentence Dec. 6, 1919, but was released six months later on a presidential pardon.

In 1923 Boyle was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of court because he refused to tell what he knew about jury fixing in the case in which Gov. Len Small was acquitted on charges of defrauding the state of $2,000,000 in public funds. He served only 50 days when Small commuted the sentence.

Thirty years ago Boyle was indicted more than a dozen times for extortion and conspiracy in calling of strikes on electrical installation jobs.

2 WOMEN GET JAIL TERMS FOR RELIEF FRAUD

Mrs. Ruby Gates, 31 years old, a former case worker for the Chicago Relief administration, was sentenced yesterday to six months in the county jail by Judge Joseph Drucker in Felony court. Her sister, Mrs. Beatrice Holcomb, 35, whom she brought here from Arkansas and placed on the relief rolls, was sentenced to five months in jail. Both are colored.

They pleaded guilty to conspiracy to defraud the CRA of $284.91, the amount obtained by Mrs. Holcomb between last July 17 and Nov. 10. In addition, Mrs. Holcomb received 90 articles of clothing and bedding.

Attorney G. B. Foley of the CRA showed that Mrs. Gates came here from Little Rock March 24, 1938, and obtained an appointment as a temporary case worker in November of that year. She later went to Little Rock for her mother's funeral. Altho Mrs. Holcomb's husband was working there for $25 a week, Mrs. Gates persuaded her sister and the latter's three children to come here and go on relief.

Mrs. Gates lives at 3808 South Park way and Mrs. Holcomb at 4800 Indiana avenue.

MADDEN ADMITS NLRB BLACKLIST DEAL WITH RFC

Accused Employers' Loans to Be Withheld.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Existence of a government blacklist of business firms which are barred from receiving Reconstruction Finance corporation loans because of alleged violations of the Wagner labor act was disclosed to a congressional investigating committee today.

The committee learned that an arrangement has been made between the National Labor Relations board and the RFC whereby disbursement of authorized loans is withheld when the labor board so recommends. A similar agreement has been made between the RFC and the wage and hour division of the labor department, it was learned.

J. Warren Madden, chairman of the labor board, was in the witness chair before the committee investigating the administration of the labor act, when the blacklist was revealed. He defended the scheme.

Prosecution Is Demanded.

Madden's prosecution upon charges of violating the criminal code was demanded yesterday after the committee presented evidence that he and other board officials had lobbied at government expense against reduced appropriations for his department and amendments to the Wagner act.

Such activity is prohibited by the United States code which provides a fine and imprisonment of one year for convicted violators.

Committee Counsel Edmund M. Toland placed in the record a letter revealing the blacklist arrangement between the RFC and the NLRB. Written by Nathan Witt, secretary of the NLRB, to George R. Cooksey, RFC secretary, it referred to a conference between officials of the two organizations last August and added:

"We will inform you whether a charge has been filed with the board alleging that the company has committed unfair labor practices. We will then inform you whether the board's investigation of the charge indicates that it cannot be substantiated or whether the board has issued or will issue a complaint.

Asks for Delay of Loans.

"In the event the board has issued a complaint against the company, or will do so, we will request you to withhold disbursements under the loan that has been authorized.

"If the board finds that the employer has not engaged in unfair labor practices, we will suggest that you resume disbursements under the loan. If the board finds that the employer has been guilty of violations of the national labor relations act, we will recommend that you continue to withhold disbursements."

The names of companies suffering under this arrangement were not made known.

Madden also admitted that he had recommended to the procurement division of the treasury department that it withhold government contracts from companies found by the board to have violated the Wagner act.

Asked under what law he proceeded in taking this action, Madden said it was the law of common sense.

Madden was followed on the stand by David J. Saposs, named as a communist by the Dies committee on un-American activities. Saposs is chief economist of the labor board. He admitted that he was a left wing disciple, but denied he had ever advocated the overthrow of the government.

Wee Willie Chastened

Wee Willie, Crandon avenue's favorite squirrel.

Wee Willie, the sociable squirrel of Crandon avenue, now has taken to dropping in around tea time at the Ackerman home—No. 7937. Last Sunday he surprised the folks at Mrs. Clara Smith's house, just a few doors south of the Ackerman's, popping into the living room from the fire place.

The Smiths set a rat trap. Then they barricaded the chimney flue. Then they called the police. Willie sprung the trap. Then he eased thru the barricade. The third time he left the police holding the laundry bag, in which they proposed to catch him, deferring his call until after their departure. He was back again yesterday morning, and took pain to ingratiate himself by putting on a clown act of tail chasing and acrobatics on the coffee table.

At dusk Monday Dan Ackerman was sitting in his living room reading. He heard a scratchy noise in the fireplace, looked up, and there was Wee Willie. The same thing happened Tuesday. But this time Willie's sooty tracks over the rosy Chinese rug moved his host to drastic action. Willie was boosted out the front door on a broom. Yesterday Willie called again—but at the back door, where he politely accepted a handout of salted pecans.

MYSTERY SHOT KILLS GROCER AS HE PLAYS CARDS

Frank Tomaino, 51 years old, was shot to death last night while playing solitaire in the kitchen of his two room flat, adjoining his grocery and delicatessen at 1336 Larrabee street. There were no witnesses to the mysterious slaying.

Tomaino was shot once below the heart. He staggered back to the flat of Mrs. Juanita Hicks, colored, who lives at the rear of the grocery, asked her to call a doctor, and then collapsed.

Tomaino's brother, Louis, 62, of 1335 Larrabee street, told Chicago avenue police he had been visiting his brother and left only 10 minutes before the shooting. He could supply no motive for the murder, which, the police said, evidently was not robbery. In the store till was $4. Tomaino was conscious only a few minutes before he died, en route to the Henrotin hospital.

Ex-Convict Found Guilty in Slaying of 7 Years Ago

Marion, Ill., Feb. 14 (AP).—Melvin Roberts, 50 years old, a former convict, was found guilty by a Circuit court jury today of murder charges in the slaying seven years ago of Arthur M. HUNT TEACHER ON CHARGE OF RAPING TWO YOUNG GIRLS

He's Reported in Flight to Canada with Bride.

Du Quoin, Ill., Feb. 14 [Special].—A young schoolmaster, believed to be fleeing to Canada with his bride, was sought in Illinois and adjacent states tonight on a warrant charging him with raping two young girls who had been in his charge.

The young man is Herbert Van Hoorebeke, 23 years old, a member of a respected family at Sesser, Ill. Until his sudden departure, he had been teaching at the Green Brier rural school, nine miles northeast of Du Quoin, since the beginning of the term.

Parents Confront Teacher.

A week ago the teacher was visited at his Sesser home, which is not far from the school, by the fathers of four girls ranging in age from 11 to 13 years who attend the Green Brier school. According to Perry County State's Attorney L. W. Wiley, the fathers accused Van Hoorebeke of raping their daughters.

Van Hoorebeke indignantly denied the charges, the prosecutor said, and mollified the parents by promising to prove his innocence before his accusers in school the following morning.

A delegation waited long for him at school the next day, but he didn't appear. The parents of two of the girls then obtained a warrant charging him with rape. It was learned, upon attempts to serve the warrant at Sesser, in adjoining Franklin county, that he had fled the night before.

Sweetheart Also Missing.

Also missing is his sweetheart for three years, Miss Mary Catherine Hayes, 20 years old, of Christopher. Her mother, Mrs. Bertha Hayes, said Van Hoorebeke picked up Mary at her home Wednesday night and that she had not seen either of the young folks since.

"Herbert told me," his father, Dolph Van Hoorebeke, related, "that he and Mary were going to be married. He said the men had told him he couldn't teach school around here any more, so he figured he would go away somewhere and get a job. I didn't think he would go, but I guess he did."

Prosecutor Wiley said relatives of young Van Hoorebeke had received a letter from him telling of his marriage. The suggestion was made to him, Wiley said, that the newlyweds might be heading for Canada.

Illinois state police today broadcast from their Du Quoin station a request to neighboring counties and states for help in finding Van Hoorebeke and his bride.

CARMODY HINTS HE MAY ASK FOR MORE WPA FUNDS

John M. Carmody, administrator of the Federal Works agency, indicated in Chicago yesterday that he may ask congress for a deficiency appropriation for operations of the Work Projects administration during the rest of the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Carmody spoke before members of the Association of Commerce at a luncheon meeting in the Palmer House.

"I haven't yet had to ask congress for a deficiency appropriation, but I won't say definitely that it might not happen in my time," Carmody told the association members.

[The latest United States treasury report to the President and congress shows that WPA spent $729,000,000 in the first six months of this fiscal year, or slightly more than half of its total appropriation of $1,427,000,000 for the year. The peak of the need for WPA expenditures has in past years, occurred in March with January and February following close behind.]

MADDEN ADMITS NLRB BLACKLIST DEAL WITH RFC

Accused Employers' Loans to Be Withheld.

"We will inform you whether a charge has been filed with the board alleging that the company has committed unfair labor practices. We will then inform you whether the board's investigation of the charge indicates that it cannot be substantiated or whether the board has issued or will issue a complaint.

Asks for Delay of Loans.

"In the event the board has issued a complaint against the company, or will do so, we will request you to withhold disbursements under the loan that has been authorized.

"If the board finds that the employer has not engaged in unfair labor practices, we will suggest that you resume disbursements under the loan. If the board finds that the employer has been guilty of violations of the national labor relations act, we will recommend that you continue to withhold disbursements."

The names of companies suffering under this arrangement were not made known.

Madden also admitted that he had recommended to the procurement division of the treasury department that it withhold government contracts from companies found by the board to have violated the Wagner act.

Asked under what law he proceeded in taking this action, Madden said it was the law of common sense.

Madden was followed on the stand by David J. Saposs, named as a communist by the Dies committee on un-American activities. Saposs is chief economist of the labor board. He admitted that he was a left wing disciple, but denied he had ever advocated the overthrow of the government.

Judge Union W. Youngblood will sentence Delk tomorrow.

Wee Willie, Crandon avenue's favorite squirrel.

Wee Willie, the sociable squirrel of Crandon avenue, now has taken to dropping in around tea time at the Ackerman home—No. 7937. Last Sunday he surprised the folks at Mrs. Clara Smith's house, just a few doors south of the Ackerman's, popping into the living room from the fire place.

The Smiths set a rat trap. Then they barricaded the chimney flue. Then they called the police. Willie sprung the trap. Then he eased thru the barricade. The third time he left the police holding the laundry bag, in which they proposed to catch him, deferring his call until after their departure. He was back again yesterday morning, and took pain to ingratiate himself by putting on a clown act of tail chasing and acrobatics on the coffee table.

At dusk Monday Dan Ackerman was sitting in his living room reading. He heard a scratchy noise in the fireplace, looked up, and there was Wee Willie. The same thing happened Tuesday. But this time Willie's sooty tracks over the rosy Chinese rug moved his host to drastic action. Willie was boosted out the front door on a broom. Yesterday Willie called again—but at the back door, where he politely accepted a handout of salted pecans.

MYSTERY SHOT KILLS GROCER AS HE PLAYS CARDS

Frank Tomaino, 51 years old, was shot to death last night while playing solitaire in the kitchen of his two room flat, adjoining his grocery and delicatessen at 1336 Larrabee street. There were no witnesses to the mysterious slaying.

Tomaino was shot once below the heart. He staggered back to the flat of Mrs. Juanita Hicks, colored, who lives at the rear of the grocery, asked her to call a doctor, and then collapsed.

Tomaino's brother, Louis, 62, of 1335 Larrabee street, told Chicago avenue police he had been visiting his brother and left only 10 minutes before the shooting. He could supply no motive for the murder, which, the police said, evidently was not robbery. In the store till was $4. Tomaino was conscious only a few minutes before he died, en route to the Henrotin hospital.

Ex-Convict Found Guilty in Slaying of 7 Years Ago

Marion, Ill., Feb. 14 (AP).—Melvin Roberts, 50 years old, a former convict, was found guilty by a Circuit court jury today of murder charges in the slaying seven years ago of Arthur M. Howard, 23, and his punishment was fixed at 14 years' imprisonment. Howard died Dec. 23, 1932, five days after he was shot at the Newman Phaup's home.

HUNT TEACHER ON CHARGE OF RAPING TWO YOUNG GIRLS

Du Quoin, Ill., Feb. 14 [Special].—A young schoolmaster, believed to be fleeing to Canada with his bride, was sought in Illinois and adjacent states tonight on a warrant charging him with raping two young girls who had been in his charge.

The young man is Herbert Van Hoorebeke, 23 years old, a member of a respected family at Sesser, Ill. Until his sudden departure, he had been teaching at the Green Brier rural school, nine miles northeast of Du Quoin, since the beginning of the term.

Parents Confront Teacher.

A week ago the teacher was visited at his Sesser home, which is not far from the school, by the fathers of four girls ranging in age from 11 to 13 years who attend the Green Brier school. According to Perry County State's Attorney L. W. Wiley, the fathers accused Van Hoorebeke of raping their daughters.

Van Hoorebeke indignantly denied the charges, the prosecutor said, and mollified the parents by promising to prove his innocence before his accusers in school the following morning.

A delegation waited long for him at school the next day, but he didn't appear. The parents of two of the girls then obtained a warrant charging him with rape. It was learned, upon attempts to serve the warrant at Sesser, in adjoining Franklin county, that he had fled the night before.

Sweetheart Also Missing.

Also missing is his sweetheart for three years, Miss Mary Catherine Hayes, 20 years old, of Christopher. Her mother, Mrs. Bertha Hayes, said Van Hoorebeke picked up Mary at her home Wednesday night and that she had not seen either of the young folks since.

"Herbert told me," his father, Dolph Van Hoorebeke, related, "that he and Mary were going to be married. He said the men had told him he couldn't teach school around here any more, so he figured he would go away somewhere and get a job. I didn't think he would go, but I guess he did."

Prosecutor Wiley said relatives of young Van Hoorebeke had received a letter from him telling of his marriage. The suggestion was made to him, Wiley said, that the newlyweds might be heading for Canada.

Illinois state police today broadcast from their Du Quoin station a request to neighboring counties and states for help in finding Van Hoorebeke and his bride.

E. C. Yellowley, head of the federal alcohol tax unit, and a detachment of agents raided a bungalow at 1521 North Hamlin avenue yesterday, seized a 700 gallon still, 9,160 gallons of mash, and 165 gallons of alcohol, and arrested two men.

CARMODY HINTS HE MAY ASK FOR MORE WPA FUNDS

John M. Carmody, administrator of the Federal Works agency, indicated in Chicago yesterday that he may ask congress for a deficiency appropriation for operations of the Work Projects administration during the rest of the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

"I haven't yet had to ask congress for a deficiency appropriation, but I won't say definitely that it might not happen in my time," Carmody told the association members.

[The latest United States treasury report to the President and congress shows that WPA spent $729,000,000 in the first six months of this fiscal year, or slightly more than half of its total appropriation of $1,427,000,000 for the year. The peak of the need for WPA expenditures has in past years, occurred in March with January and February following close behind.]

Judge Dismisses Vagrancy Case Against Labor Chief

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP).—Municipal Judge D. P. Galen today dismissed charges of vagrancy by loitering against William Finegan, president of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, and two companions. Judge Galen ruled there was no evidence to support the charges on which Finegan, Zish Schiffer, and Hyman O. Friedland were arrested last Sunday. Their $25 cash bonds were returned. Schiffer and Friedland are projectionists in Cleveland movie theaters.

NATION INVOLVED IN 2 FUSSES OVER FREEDOM OF SEAS

Rights Under Fire by Both Germany and Britain.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—In its spirited defense of the freedom of the seas, the United States today found itself involved with both Germany and Great Britain over the rules of warfare relating to neutrals.

Lord Lothian.

As the state department sought to ease the strain in British relations, caused by seizure of American mails, the German government gave it a new problem by claiming its U-boats have a "theoretical right" to torpedo American vessels en route to allied ports or contraband control bases.

Germans Defend Dutch Sinking.

Germany maintained that it makes no difference whether the United States vessels enter contraband control points or allied ports for inspection voluntarily or by compulsion.

Germany advanced its argument by citing German prize law to justify the sinking of the 6,853 ton Netherlands freighter Burgerdijk, 15 miles off the southwest coast of England, last Saturday. The liner, German authorities said, was heading toward an English port before proceeding to Holland.

Torpedoing of the ship has aroused a storm of protest in the Netherlands. Dispatches from Amsterdam said the vessel had no intention of calling at a British port and that it was carrying a cargo of grain for the Netherlands government.

Hull Points to Law.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, shortly before a conference with Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, on the British contraband control system, declined to comment on Germany's announcement of position other than to say that the right of belligerents to sink neutrals is well defined under international law.

On capitol hill, Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, called upon Great Britain to remove the danger of the torpedoing of American vessels by relaxing her rigid contraband practices, which he asserted are alienating American sympathy for that country.

Senator Pittman declared the British practice of forcing American vessels into British and French ports for examination is in violation of international law. He said Britain has the right to halt American ships on the high seas and search them for contraband, but finding none should allow the vessels to proceed on their course.

Calls Torpedoing "Inhuman."

"Germany knows it is unlawful for American vessels to be armed and that our vessels are not armed," Pittman said. "Therefore it is unjustifiable and inhuman that such vessels should be submarined without notice. It also is unjustifiable and inhuman for the German government or any other government to submarine a neutral vessel departing from the port of a belligerent country—especially an American vessel which Germany knows did not enter the port voluntarily and was forced to enter such port."

Under the law of nations, belligerents may stop and search neutral vessels and take them as prizes when their cargo is more than 50 per cent contraband. If it is impossible for a belligerent to take such a prize to port, it is permissible to sink the vessel after provision is made for the safety of the crew and passengers.

Under the United States neutrality law, American ships are forbidden to enter that area stretching from Bergen, Norway, to the Spanish coast. The zone was defined by presidential proclamation in an effort to prevent incidents involving neutral rights.

Most Popular Model

[Acme Photo.]

KAY WILLIAMS.

New York, Feb. 14 [Special].—Miss Kay Williams has been selected as the year's most popular model by the Society of Illustrators in New York. The 23 year old Erie, Pa., girl has been a model for three years. She is blonde with blue eyes. Other facts are: Weight 115 pounds, height 5 feet 6 inches, 34 inch bust, 25 inch waist, 22 hat size, 9½ gloves, size 12 dress, 9½ hose, and 6½ shoes.

RAP NEUTRALITY PATROL; REFUSE NEW SEAPLANES

$1,699,000 Cut from 'Appropriation Bill.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—After two senators had criticized the administration's neutrality patrol, the senate appropriations committee today slashed an appropriation for the purchase of coast guard airplanes.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and Rear Admiral R. R. Waesche, coast guard commandant, pleaded for $2,199,000 to acquire 15 planes of 2,500 mile range to augment the patrol, but the committee voted only $500,000, or $1,699,000 below budget recommendations of the President. The $500,000 was the same figure approved by the house.

A Job for the Navy.

The criticism of the patrol was voiced at a committee hearing some time ago and was made public today.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], who was chairman of the senate group, questioned the wisdom of a double system of patrol by the navy and coast guard.

Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] said that if this nation was going to patrol the oceans it ought to be done by the navy. Taft asked if the patrol was trying to watch the entire ocean 300 miles from the United States.

Follow Suspicious Ships.

"No, sir," the commandant replied. "We are concerned with keeping track of merchant ships within a reasonable distance of our coast, and if we have any reason to suspect one is engaged in any unlawful activity we may follow her for 300 miles off shore."

The coast guard item was a small part of the annual treasury and post-office departments appropriations bill approved by the senate committee today. It carried a total of $1,032,784,115, or $700,000 more than voted by the house.

ECONOMY PLANS COLLIDE WITH NAVY EXPANSION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—Congressional economy and naval expansion programs collided head-on today. The house naval committee unanimously approved a two year 655 million dollar fleet increase one day after another house committee had cut $111,699,699 from the navy's funds for the coming fiscal year.

Contending that the United States must consider the possibility that "a number of potential enemies" might join forces against it in the future, the naval committee indorsed a bill to authorize construction within the next two years of 21 additional warships, 22 auxiliary vessels, and about 1,000 more airplanes. The measure carried no appropriation. If it becomes law, congress will be asked later to provide the money.

GERMANY SPURNS AMERICAN PEACE BELT IN OCEANS

Nazis Call Protest of 21 Republics 'Unfounded.'

BERLIN, Feb. 14 (AP).—Germany informed the Americas today that the British and French viewpoints must be "fundamentally revised" before she could consider the American safety zone.

The German government declared its readiness for a further exchange of thought on the subject, but said it saw little hope for success because of the "will of the British and French governments to destroy from the beginning the basic thought of the security zone."

Note Delivered to Panama.

The German position was stated in a note handed to the foreign minister of Panama by the German chargé d'affaires there. It was in reply to a protest from the Pan-American neutrality conference on the running battle between the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and three British cruisers off the Uruguayan coast last December.

That battle occurred deep in the neutrality zone, extending roughly 300 miles from the American coast and which was set up by the Americas to insulate them from the European war.

The Berlin note said German interpretation of the British and French purpose was evidenced by their rejection last month of a similar protest to London and Paris.

Empires Take Same Stand.

Britain described the security zone plan as "ineffective" and reserved her belligerent rights in the area. France took a similar stand, declaring there must be assurance that Germany would not send supply ships or warships into the zone.

The German government said it could "anticipate success of further pursuance of the security zone project" only if England and France changed their stand.

It rejected the protest from the 21 American republics as "unfounded" because in the waters concerned only "current rules of law can be authoritative."

GERMAN CANNON MAY AID FRANCE IN WAR ON NAZIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 14.—German cannon captured in the world war and used to decorate squares and villages thruout France may be melted and used to manufacture new guns to fight the Germans.

The proposal was put up to the government today in connection with a campaign to collect scrap metals for the making of armaments. Hundreds of tons of waste metal already have been handed over to the authorities by housewives and shopkeepers in the Paris district.

Projects Overlap

BRAZIL PROTESTS BRITISH PURSUIT OF GERMAN SHIP

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 14 (AP).—Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha declared today that Brazil will lodge a protest with Great Britain as a result of destruction of the German freighter Wakama off Brazil's shores last Monday.

Aranha said a British cruiser which pursued the Wakama and made demands for its surrender within the 300 mile safety zone of the Americas acted contrary to the spirit of the Panama declaration, even tho the zone still is only an idea not yet accepted by the British, French, or Germans. The Wakama was scuttled by her crew while the cruiser looked on.

Aranha said the Brazilian action probably would take the form of a message from the American republics calling attention to the fact that the destruction of the freighter was contrary to the spirit of the Panama declaration. Informed sources said this communication, addressed to Britain thru the Panama government, seat of the conference which set up the neutrality zone, might produce a formal joint Pan-American protest later.

LEON BLUM LINKS WELLES' MISSION TO THIRD TERM

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP).—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles' mission to Europe is intended to help President Roosevelt decide whether to seek a third term, former Premier Leon Blum wrote today in his newspaper, Le Populaire.

Blum, head of the French Socialist party, wrote that he is convinced Mr. Roosevelt does not desire a third term, but that American popular opinion may urge it upon him because of war in Europe.

Before making a decison, Mr. Roosevelt wants to know the probable effectiveness of action which the United States might one day be induced to undertake for peace, Blum said.

ROW CONTINUES IN CAPITAL OVER WELLES' JUNKET

Twin Denials of Rift Fail to Convince Observers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Controversy continued today about the expedition which Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles is to lead to Europe Saturday in a search of peace.

President Roosevelt left the White House for a fishing cruise in the Gulf of Mexico without a final conference with his peace ambassador. Welles was confined to his home with a cold.

The chief executive did confer with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. The nature of the conference was not disclosed, but it was said that it concerned, among other things, the possible American contribution to eventual restoration of peace.

The fact that the President went south without conferring with Welles was interpreted in some quarters as indicating that he has given up hope that anything worth while toward peace can be accomplished by the state department career man.

Deny Rift in Administration.

These reports persisted despite the combined efforts of the White House and state department to spike earlier reports that the Welles tour is a storm center in the administration.

In behalf of the President, White House Secretary Stephen T. Early denied the news story that Welles had sold the mission to the President over the head of Hull and that it had aroused the indignation of William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, and Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain.

Secretary Early insisted that Hull was aware of the expedition from its inception and had participated in conferences which led to the selection of Welles for the assignment.

Hull Issues Statement.

Hull also took cognizance of the published report of differences. The report said that the President had designated Welles without consulting Hull. Hull issued a statement, an almost unprecedented action, which said:

"This news item seems to be one more attempt at trouble making. I think the President and I have agreed on policies and methods pertaining to our foreign affairs as nearly uniformly as any other two persons who have occupied our respective positions. Nothing out of the ordinary occurred in the discussions and conferences between us leading to the announcement made by the President of the special mission to Europe and one later by myself relating to problems of economic restoration and disarmament after the war.

"As to Mr. Welles, I regard him as one of my most trusted personal friends and loyal co-workers, and it always is in that spirit that we discuss the various phases of our duties and problems. I do not think a more capable person could be sent upon the proposed European mission than Mr. Welles."

HELD ON SEX CHARGE.

John Daley, 6515 Ingleside avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Joseph J. Drucker of the Felony court on sex charge involving a girl, 7.

DOLL-FOLK OF ARAN

By CALEB

OFF THE west coast of Ireland lie the Aran Islands—a tiny trio of only 18 square miles' area, whose largest isle numbers but a thousand population. There the simple life of the Gaelic peasants goes on as it began—sea-girt and primitive, hardy and picturesque—and there, in the summer of '37, came Violet Powell, a young sculptress from Dublin, to paint and model amid scenes screened by the American director O'Flaherty, some years before, for the film Man of Aran.

Doll-making, to be sure, was not in her mind; but it presently had lodged there, following her meeting with an English artist, Elizabeth Rivers, who had come to paint in the same alluring spot. And so a new venture was launched: modeling of the islanders' heads, then reproducing them in papier mache, and letting the islanders themselves costume the figures in their own native hand-sewn and hand-knitted garments.

The result has been a remarkable collection, christened by Miss Powell "Irish Folk and Fairy Dolls," of which many examples have found their way into the National Museum in Dublin, as well as museums in other localities.

I asked Miss Powell, who is on hand for the current showing of these fascinating dolls in our doll department, how she happened to contract her unique idea. "I had read J. M. Synge's delightful book about Aran," she said, "and seen the unusual screen play filmed there—so I was very eager to spend a fortnight's vacation among its people. I did; I fell in love with their rustic ways and speech; and out of my modeling came the project, during the ensuing year, of preserving Aran customs and costumes in authentically fashioned dolls.

"Their reception has been everywhere surprising—and they seem to be particularly prized by collectors. It is the first time these out-of-the-way islands, with their colorful tasks and settings, have been transposed in this way to the gaze of an outside world, and well they deserve it. While English is occasionally spoken, Gaelic remains their parent tongue; and of course the fairies, or 'Little People,' are their constant companions. The Shanacus (story teller) of Onaght Village filled me to the brim with their lore—and the characters I met might themselves have stepped out of an Aran fairy tale." . . .

Visitors to our doll exhibits will find these figures quaintly worth studying. They are part of a series of unusual "doll shows," typical of many lands, that lend more than ordinary interest to one's stroll through the store.

WATCH YOUR THROAT AFTER SUDDEN EXPOSURES

Gargle LISTERINE

Sudden temperature changes, like drafts . . . wet feet . . . and fatigue, may lower body resistance. Then colds or sore throat often develop and germs in the mouth get the upper hand. Prompt use of Listerine Antiseptic may often head off an irritated throat and keep a cold from becoming troublesome—because it kills millions of surface germs associated with these conditions. JAP WAR LEADERS TELL CHIANG: LAY DOWN YOUR ARMS

Chinese Plan Munitions Loan in Reply.

HONGKONG, Feb. 15, Thursday (AP).—Japan's invading forces have addressed a proclamation to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek urging him to surrender because, they declared, the Japanese now have won "sufficient areas in China for establishment of the new order in east Asia."

As a result of Japanese victories in Kwangsi province in south China during the past two weeks, "further Chinese resistance against Japan is futile," said the proclamation, issued by the Japanese South China command last night.

Chiang's Chungking government today indicated what its reply would be by adopting plans to float munitions and reconstruction loans. Bankers said the munitions issue would total about 500,000,000 Chinese dollars [about $35,000,000].

Says Supply Lines Cut.

The proclamation elaborated as follows on its assertion that the time now was ripe for establishment of the new order—a China under Japanese control:

"The supply routes to Chungking have been cut and rapid progress is being made in formation of a new central government under Wang Ching-wei.

"Therefore, in the future we will not expand our operations, but will await your offensive. In case you adopt this latter plan, we will resort to necessary tactics and add more pages to the war annals of the world."

The Japanese further stated that a Chinese army operating in behalf of Wang, former premier of China now coöperating with Tokio against Chungking, was fighting its way along the coast of southern Fukien province and now was approaching Swatow "with assistance of both the Japanese army and navy."

Lands on the Coast.

Without stating where this army had come from, the Japanese previously had announced its landing on the Fukien coast last Monday with Japanese naval aid.

The latest South China operations on which last night's proclamation was based centered around Nanning, in Kwangsi province. The Chinese denied the Japanese claims of victory and asserted the Japanese had withdrawn from this region in the past few days as a result of a Chinese counteroffensive which the Japanese could not check.

The long proclamation stated that the Japanese Kwangsi campaign was "annihilating and comparable to those launched by Hannibal at Cannae [against the Romans in 216 B. C.] and by the Germans against the Russians at Tannenburg in 1914."

The Japanese said that 400,000 Chinese and 40,000 Japanese had taken part, at a cost to the Chinese of 200,000 killed and wounded and 100,000 deserting.

Railway Raided Again.

Reports reached the French embassy in Chungking that a new Japanese bombing raid on the French operated Hanoi-Kunming railway in Yunnan province Tuesday did little damage. Japanese sources, however, said bridges and track on the line—a vital supply route for the Chinese—were badly damaged.

Twenty-seven planes took part in the raid. The Chinese said one Japanese bomber was shot down and others damaged. The Japanese reported downing one Chinese plane.

The French said traffic on the railway, recently resumed after the destructive raid of Feb. 1 in which about 100 persons were killed, continued uninterrupted. Both France and the United States have made representations in Tokio against raids on the railway.

Japanese Withdraw.

In the north Chinese forces reported they were pouring into Suiyuan province regions from which Japanese were withdrawing. The Chinese claimed a victory in their reoccupation, but the Japanese said they were withdrawing after dispersing Chinese troop concentrations and would reoccupy the areas whenever necessary.

EDITOR TAKES UP SWORD; CUTS DOWN OPPONENT

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 14 (AP).—Publisher Jozsef Ambrus put his pen aside for the dueling saber today and in a combat in Budapest's early dawn rendered fiery Deputy Kalman Ratz, independent Nazi leader, hors de combat.

The duel, the result of a political argument, was fought in a fencing academy. Ratz as the challenger opened the attack in each of three rounds. After the first Ratz was handicapped by a slash across the eyes. After the second he had a 10 inch cut across his chest, and in the third a muscle in his right arm was cut and he could no longer hold his saber.

Attending physicians intervened. Friends said it would be weeks before Ratz could meet Count Lajos Szechenyi, an experienced swordsman, with whom he has a pending duel.

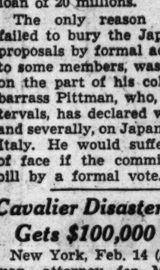
JAPAN EMBARGO BILLS SHELVED BY COMMITTEE

Senators See War Bid in Proposals.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Action on pending bills to place a one-sided embargo on trade with Japan was put off indefinitely by the senate foreign relations committee today after a general discussion in which there was little support for such proposals.



Senator Pittman.

Members of the committee who have taken the position that an embargo against Japan would be a long step on the road to war expressed confidence that the bills introduced by Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman and Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.] are dead for the session.

Embargo Held as Threat.

Thus it appears that the administration is not prepared to take precipitate action against Japan, by shutting off her American supplies of gasoline, iron, steel, copper, and other essential war materials, but prefers to hold out the possibility of such action as a constant threat to the Japanese.

Legal obstacles to the imposition of a unilateral embargo or other discriminatory penalties against trade with Japan were removed on Jan. 26 with the expiration of the 1911 treaty of commerce and navigation.

Since the denunciation of this treaty in July, 1939, the administration has given no indication of a desire to negotiate a new treaty. Thus trade with Japan is on a day to day basis.

Japanese officials have declared that any discriminatory action against their commerce with the United States would be met by retaliatory measures. Opponents of the proposed embargo action say the administration, therefore, is in no position to bluff, and must proceed with extreme caution unless it is prepared to go to war with Japan.

See Danger in Loans.

As these senators view it, the administration already has given enough provocation with the 25 million dollar Export-Import bank loan to China made last year and the proposed new loan of 20 millions.

The only reason the committee failed to bury the Japanese embargo proposals by formal action, according to some members, was the reluctance on the part of his colleagues to embarrass Pittman, who, at frequent intervals, has declared war, collectively and severally, on Japan, Germany, and Italy. He would suffer a great loss of face if the committee killed his bill by a formal vote.

SUBMARINES BLAMED FOR SECRECY OVER ROOSEVELT'S CRUISE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 14.—President Roosevelt tonight speeded southward for Pensacola, Fla., where he will board a naval vessel tomorrow for 10 days of cruising in the Gulf of Mexico.

The President's destination had been clothed in secrecy until after his special train pulled out of Washington, D. C., at noon. The unprecedented veil of mystery drawn over the plans for his midwinter vacation cruise was occasioned, some of his intimates said, by the possible presence of foreign submarines in American waters.

There have been no recent reports of submarine activities off the American coast, but last fall Mr. Roosevelt reported that he had personal knowledge of a foreign submarine seen off Key West, Fla.

Mr. Roosevelt is scheduled to board a cruiser at Pensacola shortly after he arrives at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow. Reports from there today asserted the cruiser Tuscaloosa and the destroyers Lang and Jouett had anchored in Pensacola bay this morning and had orders to sail tomorrow.

NAZIS ROUT 700 JEWS FROM THEIR HOMES IN STETTIN

BERLIN, Feb. 14 (AP).—More than 700 Jews, routed from their homes in Stettin on six and one-half hours' notice for mass removal, were on trains today, presumably headed for Poland, altho their exact destination was not disclosed. The sudden removal order included virtually every Jew in the Baltic town, only the ill and feeble being exempted.

At 7:30 p. m. Monday elite guards and storm troopers began visiting the homes of Jews, telling them to be ready to leave by 2 a. m. Hitler troops and Hitler guards took inventories of property in the homes and advised the Jews to prepare final hot meals because they probably would not get warm food for a considerable time. They were permitted to pack only a few necessities.

The Jews, ranging in age from children a few months old to persons of 70, displayed great consternation as they gathered in the darkness of one of the coldest days of the winter and were given railroad tickets. Pleas for more time to conclude their affairs went unheeded. Some were told their homes would be needed for Germans returned to the reich from Baltic states.

20 Canadian Flyers to Sail for Service in Finnish War

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 14 (AP).—A. Kingsley Graham, Finnish consul in Toronto, announced today that 20 Canadian airmen will sail within the next few weeks to fight with the Finns against Russia. None of the flyers actually has been accepted as yet because qualifications still are being checked. The 50 men who originally volunteered said they attempted to join the Royal Canadian air force without success.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

JAPS STUDY 230 U. S. PROTESTS ON CHINA WAR ACTS

Foreign Minister Assures Fair Settlements.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 14.—Disclosing that more than 230 pending issues between the United States and Japan over damages to American lives and property in China are in the hands of the Japanese government, Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita today declared before parliament that Tokio is "conducting accurate investigations into the circumstances of the incidents and will dispose of them with justice and fair play."

Altho the press has reported from Washington, D. C., that protests have been lodged covering 600 incidents, Arita explained that only 230 are in the hands of the foreign office. The others, such as indignities and insults to American citizens, probably are being handled by Japanese authorities in China, Arita said.

Compensation Already Paid.

He listed 149 protests over aerial bombings; 73 against other damage, or the temporary use of American properties, and "ten or more" against commercial restrictions.

In the "two or three" instances in which Americans were killed in bombings, Japan already has paid compensation, Arita announced.

The foreign minister said that the Japanese forces were taking every possible precaution against accidents and maintained that most of the damage to American lives and property was unavoidable.

Neglect in Reports.

Arita held that in most cases the third powers had neglected to report the location of their property or that their reports were imperfect, and that in other cases the Chinese had placed military establishments close to the property of third powers.

The protests involving commercial matters concern control of Chinese customs, railway loans, reopening of the Yangtze river, restrictions on the purchases of such products as eggs, hides and tobacco, and restrictions on communication with the interior.

British Hunt More I. R. A. Bombers After New Blast

BIRMINGHAM, England, Feb. 15, Thursday (AP).—A time bomb exploded in the doorway of a shoe shop in the center of Birmingham just before last midnight, injuring one man. Police, suspecting Irish Republican army bomb-planters, immediately stopped all automobiles leaving the area. Two young members of the I. R. A. were hanged in Birmingham on Feb. 7 as bombers.

FRANCE WILL TRY TWO IN GERMANY FOR THEIR LIVES

"Traitors of Stuttgart" Hearing Pushed.

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP).—France's military invoked ancient procedure and prepared today to bring to trial for their lives two alleged traitors, altho they are in Germany.

The men are Paul Ferdonnet and Andre Obrecht, who were denounced shortly after the beginning of the war by Premier Edouard Daladier. He called them "the traitors of Stuttgart."

Ferdonnet and Obrecht are alleged to have broadcast regularly from a German radio station at Stuttgart appeals to the French people expounding German views of the war and accusing France of fighting to save British capitalism.

Ancient Ritual Followed.

Charges have been filed against them before a military court and orders were issued today for their appearance for trial. On Sunday trumpeters and drummers will go to the villages where Ferdonnet and Obrecht formerly lived. To the accompaniment of slow beats on the drums and blasts from the trumpets, in accordance with law instituted by Bourbon kings before the French revolution, constables will read the charges. Copies then will be posted on the former homes of the men.

The trials will be opened 20 days later, even if Ferdonnet and Obrecht do not appear.

Property Held by State.

Property of the alleged traitors already has been sequestered. Forty thousand francs [about $900] that Ferdonnet had in a bank were among the things seized. If the men are found guilty, the property will be used by the government to wage the war against Germany.

Ferdonnet is the author of a book, "The Jewish War," which was circulated in rightist circles before the war. Obrecht, who sometimes passed under the name Saint German, once was a quartermaster in the French army and was stationed at the fort of Vincennes, near Paris.

Spy Plot Involves Baroness.

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP).—A spy case involving a young German baroness will come to trial here soon.

The Baroness von Einiem, frequenter of elegant quarters of Paris and an exceptionally pretty and well gowned young woman, is accused of trying to get secret state information for Germany. She escaped last July when the government secretly investigated her activities and arrested several alleged assistants, including two employés of Paris newspapers, a senate stenographer and an Austrian named Leo Hirsch.

The Austrian is accused of being the baroness' principal aid. One of the newspaper men, Julien Poirier, died in prison. The other, Alois Aubin, and the stenographer, Jean Gaston Amourelle, are accused of attempts to give intelligence to a foreign state.

Death Sentence Possible.

If the charges are proved the baroness faces a possible death sentence if she ever falls into French hands. The others may get stiff prison sentences. Findings in the case were turned over to civil courts today.

France was stirred in July by reports of a spy hunt after it became known that Otto Abetz, described as a right hand man of the German foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, and a brilliant German propagandist, had been expelled from France. Baroness von Eineim fled and the arrest of her alleged accomplices followed. The government then veiled the affair in secrecy.

Denied Divorce

[International Photo.]
SARAH PALFREY FABYAN.

Salem, Mass., Feb. 14 (AP).—Judge George A. Costello denied today the petition of Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, tennis star, for a divorce from Marshall Fabyan on grounds of cruelty. The court contended the allegation of cruelty was not sustained. The couple was married in 1934.

2 GERMANS SHIRK THEIR WORK; SENT TO JAIL FOR YEAR

Farmer Who Fed Rye to Cattle Fined.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—A Berlin court today sentenced two Germans to 12 month jail terms, one for having quit his job and the other for failure to accept the dictate of the German labor office on where he was to work.

The man who quit left without notice after a few days and the second offender did not turn up at the position selected for him.

Equivalent to Insubordination.

In sentencing the men, the judge declared that the refusal to follow the official labor bureau's order was equivalent to insubordination in the army.

The sentences were based on a decree issued by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering giving the labor authorities the right to order workers to accept jobs regarded as of vital importance.

Farmer Is Fined.

A farmer who fed rye to his cattle when no other feed was available today was fined 120 marks [nominally about $48] and the miller who ground it for him was fined 500 marks [$200].

Each must spend three weeks in a concentration camp. Both were residents of Muenster. They violated the law forbidding the use of cereals to feed animals.

DIES OF INJURIES FROM FALL.

BRITISH UNIONS OPPOSE WOMEN IN ARMS PLANTS

Cite the Number of Men Already Unemployed.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The British government's plan to put women into munitions plants to speed up arms production has confronted the engineering unions in this country with a new series of economic and sociological problems. The unions represent more than 1,000,000 male workers.

Ernest Brown.

Estimates of the number of women needed for the industry when the arms drive gets into top gear vary from 1,000,000, a figure put forward by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, to 4,000,000 as computed by the institute of statistics.

Talks between the government and labor chiefs about the induction of women into munitions factories were resumed in London yesterday when Labor Minister Ernest Brown saw representatives of 34 unions connected with the engineering industry.

Opposition to Idea.

The discussions, according to British press reports, indicate that the union chiefs do not support the idea of opening the factory to women craftsmen or the promotion of women to key positions over male workers.

Brown outlined to the union leaders a program similar to that disclosed to the Amalgamated Engineering unions and employers 10 days ago. The program embodies the government's scheme for rationing skilled workers thruout the country, the withdrawal of craftsmen from industries not essential to war output, a transfer and dilution of labor, and plans to round up women for industrial training.

A brief official announcement issued at the end of the talks revealed the union representatives told Brown that the question of women laborers was a matter for the government to discuss with the Transport and General Workers' union and the National Union of General and Municipal Workers. Both of these unions deal mainly with unskilled workers.

Unemployment Already.

According to the Daily Telegraph's industrial correspondent, the unionists also questioned the need for an influx of women into the arms industry in view of the heavy unemployment already existing among men workers.

The union's attitude is interpreted by the Daily Sketch as a setback for the government's plans, since it will involve the opening of separate negotiations with the two unions catering to unskilled workers.

Altho the unions appear reluctant to relax their restrictions regarding the introduction of unskilled labor for fear of its effect on conditions of work generally and rates of pay, significance is attached to the announcement that on Friday union leaders will meet employers to discuss where women workers can be used and how they best can be recruited. This means, according to the Daily Express, that the arms expansion program will go forward and that the unions will not refuse to coöperate.

Summer's a Comin' at Noon Today

WHO said "Spring is just around the corner?"

Mister, it's here right now—no farther away than the nearest 1940 Nash . . . more than 130 cubic feet of May, just begging you to step inside.

Three quick finger-flicks and a toe-tap . . . and you're down the street. A hill you'd never risk with a "cold" engine flattens out meekly to your Manifold-Sealed power.

A click . . . and as your engine seems to sleep, you lift forward even faster on the wings of your Automatic Fourth Speed Forward!

Don't worry about that laggard who's straining to keep you behind him. Nudge the throttle, and sweep past with the sprinting speed of the new Automatic Overtake.

Like the looks of that tree-lined lane? Twirl the wheel—quick—and without lurch or sway or slackening of speed, you're around the bend and threading the curves on water-level keel.

And now you can't help but whistle in amazement! Surely you should feel these bumps and ruts? But your gleaming hood betrays no sign of your dancing wheels. The Foam Sponge seat rides softly beneath you. Even your fingers feel none of the road's vibration!

You're experiencing Nash's new Arrow-Flight Ride . . . a miracle of solidness, balance and silence never before known.

And if . . . as you skim on in this level-flying ease . . . the sky turns grey, and the wind begins to howl . . . just twirl the "Weather Eye" dial again—and keep going.

You have Sealed Beam headlights to light a broad path at dusk . . . and a Convertible Bed in the back if you want to sleep under stars tonight!

Why wait for Spring? It's yours here and now! You can have all the size and strength and luxury of Nash—for just a few dollars more than you'd pay for the lowest-priced cars.

And—if you're thinking about the upkeep of all this fun—don't. Nash won first in its class in the 1940 Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run, with a record 23.76 miles to a gallon.

And there's $45,000,000 in resources behind it. That means finer engineering . . . greater safety—and features that add up to longer life and higher resale value later on.

FINNS CALL MORE MEN TO SERVICE; ADMIT REVERSES

to attack at their present pace, since problems of transportation and munitions and food supply thru the Leningrad bottleneck are making it increasingly difficult to take care of the divisions massed on the isthmus.

The Finns hoped that Russian reverses on other fronts might soon divert the Red army's main attention from the isthmus, which has borne the brunt of soviet attacks since the invasion started on Nov. 30.

Military observers said that if Finns were able to drive eastward across the Russian frontier above Lake Ladoga, the soviet high command might have to relax its pressure along the isthmus.

APPROVES RECRUITING

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—Great Britain tonight put the approving seal of the government on the recruiting of British man power for Finland's army. At the same time, Britain, in her own savage war at sea with Germany, pledged new gun protection for her merchant mariners against the German bomb blockade.

At the risk of a new strain on British-Russian relations, already bad, a government announcement was placed on record in the house of commons that, in the spirit of December league of nations resolutions calling for aid for the Finns, "general license has been granted to British subjects to enlist in the Finnish forces and license has been granted to a recruiting organization which has been established in London."

Only those persons over 27 years of age, or exempt for other reasons from British conscription this year, may enlist for Finland.

Reports 2,000 Volunteers.

The Finnish legation, which is behind the recruiting organization, reported the flow of volunteers here as totaling between 2,000 and 3,000. Five hundred Englishmen are already receiving special training, and 300 "deathshead" Hungarians, sworn to kill 10 Russians apiece, are awaiting transportation to Finland. Most of those accepted will be trained in Finland.

A new appeal from the legation asked "continuation of world-wide sympathy and all possible assistance" to Finland. The appeal coincided with the publication of British news agency dispatches from Helsingfors which said a Finnish note to foreign powers had charged the Russians with such practices as use of poison gas, explosive bullets, shielding of troops behind prisoners and civilians and misuse of the flag of truce.

The British national labor council announced an immediate drive to raise funds for the Finnish people.

Churchill Gives Assurance.

Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, told commons that within a month or six weeks "a very great measure of protection will be afforded to our men," especially in the North sea.

"It appears," he said, "that every vessel must be effectively armed to resist these murderous attacks."

This was taken to mean that every British vessel, large or small, soon would be equipped with antiaircraft guns for defense against German bombers and machine gunners.

The ministry of economic warfare disclosed that seven American vessels were among 155 merchantmen whose cargoes were examined at the three contraband control ports in the British Isles during the week ending Feb. 10. The entire cargoes of 97 ships were released, the ministry said.

HEAD OF FINNS CABLES THANKS FOR U. S. FUNDS

New York, Feb. 14 [Special].—The Fighting Funds for Finland, Inc., an organization conducting a campaign to raise funds for purchase of arms and munitions for the Finnish army, announced this evening that Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, national chairman, had received a cablegram of thanks from President Kyosti Kallio of Finland.

President Kallio's message, in response to one informing of the organization's activities in behalf of the embattled Baltic republic, said:

"Thanking you sincerely for your cable, I wish your new organization successful work for Finland in her hard fight for freedom, civilization and Christianity."

Gen. O'Ryan warned that speed was vital in cleaning funds if the organization is to be successful.

BRITON ATTACKS PENSIONS PAID TO HEIRS OF FAMOUS

Lord Nelson Kin Gets $20,000 a Year.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 14.—J. J. Davidson, a Laborite, tonight attacked the pension system under which the long distant heirs of some of Britain's more famous men annually receive substantial amounts of money from the government.

Under this system, Davidson told the house of commons, more than $3,800,000 has been paid to the family of Viscount Horatio Nelson, hero of the naval battle of Trafalgar. The pension was granted in 1806.

Davidson also demanded investigations into the pensions of former members of the judiciary and former premiers.

Gets $20,000 a Year.

The present holder of the Nelson title is 82 year old Lord Nelson, who is the great-great-nephew of the admiral. Every year he is paid $20,000 because of his relationship. In some years he has given back $2,000 to help the national economy.

He actually is a descendant of the first Lord Nelson's brother. Since the admiral had no children, the title and pension passed to his nephew.

The payment of hereditary pensions became such a scandal in the last century that in 1887 a select committee was set up to make an inquiry.

One pension on which the committee reported was that of $16,000 a year paid to the duke of Marlborough and his heirs. This was redeemed in 1884 for the sum of $430,120 by creation of a 10 year annuity of $51,184.

Bought for Annuity.

King Charles II. granted the office of "receiver general and controler of seals of the court of king's bench and common pleas" to the duke of Grafton. This was bought from the duke in 1825 for an annuity of $3,372, which in turn was redeemed in 1883 for $90,856.

The same duke also was granted an annuity of $27,480 for surrendering his "butlerage and prisage."

[Prisage was the right of the crown to take one cask of wine from every ship importing from 10 to 20 casks and two casks from every ship importing 20 or more. King Edward I. substituted "butlerage" for prisage. Butlerage consisted of a duty of two shillings a cask on wine imported into England. The duty was payable to the king's butler for the king.]

One of the most lucrative pensions on record was that given to the duke of Richmond and his heirs who, in 1678, were granted 25 cents a ton on all coals exported from Tyne for consumption in England. This was redeemed in 1799 for an annuity of $76,000, which was afterward redeemed for $2,653,332.

BREAKS DEFENSE OF CANADA LAW; JAILED FOR YEAR

ROSSLAND, British Columbia, Feb. 14 (AP).—Wolfgang Alexander Hauffe was convicted today of violating defense of Canada regulations. He was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $500. Magistrate R. E. Plewman said a letter found in Hauffe's possession, and addressed to the German consul at Seattle was "plainly intended to do harm to this country." British Columbia police found the letter in Hauffe's clothing when they searched a hotel room here on Dec. 13.

TURKEY'S PRESS HINTS WAR WITH RUSSIA BY APRIL

Suggests Caucasus Oil Will Be Prize.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 14 (AP).—Turkey's press turned sudden attention today to Russia's rich Caucasian oil fields, which lie along the Turkish frontier, and discussed the possibility of war over them by April.

One newspaper, the usually well-informed Son Telegraf, suggested that Great Britain, France, and Turkey, with combined near eastern forces of nearly a million men, may be considering an attack on these fields.

Several newspapers featured reports that Germany was sending a large number of troops to the Caucasus to help Russia defend the oil supplies.

This coincided with reports that large forces of British, Indian, and Moslem troops had arrived in French ruled Syria from Egyptian bases. This would free French troops now quartered there and was interpreted as meaning the Anglo-French near eastern army, already more than 500,000 strong, was being concentrated even closer to Turkey.

Reds Fortify Frontier.

The entire press carried descriptions of Russia's new fortifications on the Caucasus frontier and said the Russians were fortifying Odessa and other ports in this region.

The Son Telegraf said:

"Toward the end of March or the beginning of April events are going to precipitate themselves."

Of the new Russian fortifications it declared:

"We do not know whether the U. S. S. R. is proceeding with these fortifications with the object of placing her coast and petroleum regions in a state of defense or wnether she figures on using the points as bases for attack."

Report Nazi Invasion Plan.

Reporting that German troops were being sent into the Caucasus, the papers told of alleged German-Russian plans for occupation and partition of southeastern Europe. Editorial statements declared Turkey would regard any German-Russian threat to Rumania, Iran [Persia], or Iraq [Mesopotamia], all having oil wells, as a threat to her security, necessitating her immediate entry into the war.

The inspired press carried a dispatch from La Tribuna of Rome stating that Britain fears Rumania is transporting a considerable amount of oil to Germany and is suspicious of Rumania's attitude.

"It appears that if Rumania does not promise to send only a minimum amount of oil to Germany, then Britain and France will withdraw the guarantee [of Rumanian independence] given her in April, 1939," it added.

New Army Worries Italy.

ROME, Feb. 14 (AP).—Fascists displayed growing concern today over the mission of British-French military forces in the near east.

Italy's supreme defense council met for the seventh day and diplomatic circles considered it likely its discussions were concerned with Italy's position in event of any British-French near east maneuver.

Newspaper dispatches began to question British press explanations that the near east army's purpose was purely defensive.

"The so-called defensive aims of Weygand's army are not convincing," said a London dispatch to La Tribuna, referring to Gen. Maxime Weygand, the French chieftain expected to command Anglo-French near eastern forces if war breaks out there.

HULL BETRAYS NATION'S TRADE, FISH CHARGES

Also Attacks Policies of Candidate Dewey.

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York, whose name has been entered in the Republican presidential preferential primaries in Illinois, lambasted Secretary of State Hull's reciprocal trade agreements last night.

Speaking to a packed hall in Aurora, at a Lincoln birthday dinner, Fish said that the more he studies the trade agreements, "the more convinced I am that the American workingman is being sold down the river by theorists, free traders, and internationalists."

"We are giving up shirts off our backs and getting nothing in return," Fish charged. "But these New Dealers with a passion and an obsession for free trade, like Secretary Hull, talk of long distance and visionary economic policies and the brotherhood of man, apparently not caring if our textile, glass, cutlery, rubber, pottery, glove, felt hat, toy, leather, wool, shoe, and scores of other industries close their factories and add to the American army of the unemployed."

Turns Attack on Dewey.

Fish also criticized District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, an announced candidate for the Presidency who has filed in Illinois, for his attitude toward foreign affairs.

"Tom Dewey," Fish asserted, "has said there is no difference in the foreign policies of the Democratic administration and the Republican party except on the recognition of soviet Russia. Dewey approves of former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who is a greater internationalist than President Roosevelt. Stimson wants us to turn our navy over to Great Britain and place sanctions against Japan.

"If, as Dewey says, there is only the Russian difference between the party policies, then I despair, for the first time, for the future peace of America. The late Senator Borah would turn over in his grave if he knew that a Republican candidate for the Presidency had publicly proclaimed that the foreign policies of the Republican party and the Roosevelt administration were practically the same."

Green Pleads for Youth.

Earlier in the day Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for governor, told a group of Young Republicans in Aurora that the 1940 Republican battle was particularly a battle for the youth of the country.

"Unless the present administration is defeated," Green said, "it will not be long before the government is in control of all the jobs. About a third of the people in this country are being supported directly or indirectly by the government. As a result pressure can be brought upon them to vote to keep their paymasters in power. Actually then, only two-thirds of the people are really free to vote the way they desire."

Brooks Assails Red Aid.

Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for senator, told a 17th ward audience, meeting last night at 7026 Normal avenue, that high administration leaders in Washington had aided bolshevik propaganda in this country and had used every effort to stop the Dies committee.

"The New Deal," he asserted, "tumbled over its own feet to recognize Russia. In return for recognition, Russia promised formally to cease all propaganda efforts in the United States. Everything points to a redoubling of Russian propaganda efforts since the signing of the treaty, yet the New Dealers do nothing to stop it. It has even been proved that the Reds receive encouragement in some of the highest offices in Washington."

STEAL 11 FURS FROM WINDOW.

Abe Saffrin told police yesterday that thieves reached thru the metal bars of his fur shop window at 4044 North avenue, cut the glass and stole 11 silver fox pelts worth $42.50 each.

AN OLIVE BRANCH OF JOBS CEMENTS DEMOCRAT PEACE

Luncheon Seals Harmony of Kelly, Horner.

BY PERCY WOOD.

The prospect of 1,000 new jobs being added to the Democratic pay rolls in Cook county arose yesterday when it was revealed that Gov. Horner's organization is moving to restore patronage taken from Chicago ward committeemen during the 1936 and 1938 primary fights.

The renewed allegiance between the two leading groups of state Democrats was sealed at a luncheon in the Palmer House, given by Mayor Kelly for Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville. Hershey heads the harmony slate as the Kelly-Horner-Nash candidate for governor.

Mayor Kelly told the score of high ranking Cook county leaders and officeholders present that Charles K. Schwartz, chairman of the tax commission and Horner patronage manager in Cook county, had informed him the administration wished to restore the Chicago state jobs to the organization.

Schwartz confirmed this and added that shortly he will set aside two or three days to talk with each ward committeeman "and discuss their patronage problems with them."

Large Pay Roll Involved.

It was estimated last night that the governor probably has about 1,000 political jobs in Cook county, distinct from state civil service jobs, that could be placed at the disposal of the Chicago committeeman. Several years ago there were many more, but these were gradually placed under civil service.

The 1,000 jobholders who could be supplanted draw an average salary of about $135 per month, it was estimated. Thus the committeeman can look forward to sponsoring new employés who would draw the lion's share of a pay roll reaching $135,000 monthly and more than $1,600,000 annually.

It is not believed that any of the holders of substantial jobs—bestowed as a reward for aiding the governor in 1936 and 1938—will be supplanted. Those likely to go are the pay rollers given work by Horner "ward committeemen" during the party battles. Because of the gradual healing of the factional wounds these pay rollers now find themselves without sponsors, since the regular organization has supplanted the temporary "committeemen" named by the governor's campaign generals.

Express Mutual Esteem.

At the Palmer House luncheon, mutual esteem was expressed by Mayor Kelly and Hershey.

The mayor said Hershey is a man who knows politics, has a heart and will make a great governor. Hershey replied that the judgment of Chicago men would prevail on Chicago matters. He paid tribute to the mayor, the governor, and P. A. Nash, national committeeman, and predicted the ticket would be elected.

One of Hershey's running mates, Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, the choice for attorney general, was among those attending the gathering.

After two bitter primary fights in 1936 and 1938 the mayor broke the ice by going to Springfield for governor's day at the 1938 state fair and praised Horner's record. He supported the state ticket that fail and the votes of the Chicago organization elected Senator Scott W. Lucas, who was defeated downstate.

Schnackenberg Raps High Sales Taxes; Demands Cut

Conclusive evidence pointing to the need for a drastic cut in the 3 cent sales tax is found in the report that January collections totaled $9,200,000, State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg said last night. The monthly average during 1936 was $5,300,000. He spoke before the Bellevue Improvement association in Fernwood Park, 103d and Halsted streets.

DENEEN FACTION BACKS CHURCH IN RACE FOR SENATE

New G. O. P. Alignment Is Seen in Filing.

Indorsement of Ralph E. Church for senator, Dwight H. Green for governor, and Harry S. Ditchburne for state's attorney was voted yesterday by a group of followers of the late former Senator Charles S. Deneen, meeting in the Morrison hotel.

While approval of the Green and Ditchburne candidacies by this group had been a foregone conclusion, support of Congressman Church came less than 24 hours after Church entered the race against Wayland Brooks for the senatorial nomination.

At Green headquarters it was said no information was available on whether Church proposed to indorse Green or vice versa. It was denied, however, that the Green managers had urged Church to file, altho some of the individuals supporting Green may have done so.

Dual Setup Possible.

A Church-Green alliance would provide a dual setup against the Brooks-Lyons combination, formed by Brooks and Richard J. Lyons, one of Green's leading opponents for the nomination for governor.

The Deneen group also indorsed a full county slate, according to Harry E. Hoff, executive secretary.

For county recorder it chose Leonard M. Rice, former examiner of deeds in the recorder's office. Frank A. Martin, a veteran insurance broker but new in politics, was slated for Probate court clerk, and Walter E. Johnson, former assistant state's attorney, for Circuit court clerk.

Paul W. Brandel, secretary of the Swedish Covenant hospital, was selected to run for clerk of the Superior court, and Dr. John B. Cipriani for coroner.

Select Sanitary Trustees.

For trustees of the sanitary district, the following were chosen: Raymond S. Blunt, Louis Blumenthal, and John H. Ehardt. Allan Healy of Evanston, son of former State's Attorney John J. Healy, and Walter M. Provine of Taylorville, former United States attorney for the southern district of Illinois, were named to make the race for the two nominations for congressmen at large.

Six former judges were placed on the slate of 12 for the Municipal court. The ex-jurists are Edward B. Casey, Theodore F. Ehler, William E. Helander, Samuel Heller, Edgar A. Jonas, and Charles F. McKinley. The other candidates are Cecil Emery, William H. Haynes, William Emmer Jones, Phyllis M. Kelley, Charles F. McElroy, and John R. Philp. Edgar B. Elder was slated for the Graber vacancy.

Robert M. Adams, who left the senatorial race to support Brooks, said yesterday that Congressman Church had been "badly and selfishly advised by those who persuaded him to file for senator."

"The Republican party in Illinois," Adams continued, "can ill afford to lose the seniority of service, represented by membership on important committees, which Church has gained in six years. It is not too late for him to reconsider."

Lewisohn Acknowledges Son; Must Pay Support

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Ludwig Lewisohn, newlywed novelist, acknowledged in Special Sessions court today the paternity of a 6 year old son born out of wedlock to Miss Thelma Bowman Spear. He was ordered to pay $30 a week for the child's support. The writer was married last week in Baltimore to Edna Manley following a stormy interruption by Miss Spear, who said she had lived with him as his common-law wife for many years and that she wanted to marry him to give their son a name.

Brodie Sworn in as New Coroner

COL. A. L. BRODIE, PARK SECRETARY, NAMED CORONER

Also Wins Vacancy on Democrat Ticket.

Col. Alexander L. Brodie, world war veteran and secretary of the Chicago Park district, was appointed Cook county coroner yesterday by the county board to fill the unexpired term of Frank J. Walsh, who died Monday in California.

Col. Brodie, a Democratic party worker in the 24th ward, is a brother of Ald. H. L. Brody of the 39th ward. The reason the brothers spell their name differently lies in a mistake made 28 years ago in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Pay Clerk's Error Sticks.

Col. Brodie, while on a vacation, met the municipal treasurer of Johannesburg and soon found himself on the local pay roll. When the first payday arrived, Col. Brodie, then spelling his name with a "y" like other members of the family, discovered that the pay roll clerk had spelled it "ie." Rather than wait three weeks for red tape to correct the error, Col. Brodie signed the pay voucher. He has been spelling his name Brodie ever since.

The new coroner's name was presented to the county board by Commissioner Fred Fischman, who had been considered for the post. Investigation disclosed, however, that it is illegal for a board member to resign to accept another county post.

Nominated as Candidate.

Col. Brodie was sworn in after Mayor Kelly and other Democratic leaders had recommended the appointment at a meeting in the mayor's office. The present term expires next Dec. 1.

Two hours after his selection a nominating petition was filed with County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, naming Col. Brodie as a candidate for coroner in the Democratic primary next April. The petition bore 3,500 signatures, most of them obtained from employés in the county building and city hall. His bond of $15,000 also was approved with dispatch. He is expected to give up his park job.

BIRD BREAKS CAR GLASS; SUIT FOR $1,000,000 RESULTS

A pheasant flew against the windshield of an automobile traveling on a highway near Kenosha, Wis., last Oct. 15. As a result a suit for $1,000,000 damages was filed yesterday in Federal District court in behalf of Merritt R. Laubenheimer Jr., 4 years old, and his father, occupants of the automobile.

Defendants are the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company and the De Soto Motor corporation. The bill charges that the boy was cut on his face and forehead and disfigured. The Laubenheimer home is at 2515 Colfax avenue, Evanston.

5-11 WAREHOUSE BLAZE CAUSES $50,000 DAMAGE

After a two hour battle, 40 pieces of fire department apparatus, summoned by a 5-11 alarm, last night extinguished a fire which threatened to destroy the two story brick warehouse at 1529 Jefferson street, which houses the Reserve Supply corporation. The building, owned by an association of lumber dealers, was stocked with inflammable wall board, plywood, and other building materials.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan estimated the damage at between $50,000 and $75,000. Quick action by a corps of pumpers and a fire wall prevented the blaze from spreading to the east half of the structure, which extends from Jefferson street nearly to Canal street. An investigation into the cause of the fire was begun by Henry Eckhart, an assistant corporation counsel.

AWAIT SONSTEBY RULING ON COURT ADVISORY SCHEME

Plans for the formation of an executive committee of Municipal judges to advise Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby on matters of court routine and the handling of judges yesterday awaited the chief justice's return next week from Florida. The committee would be similar to committees in the Circuit and Superior courts.

Most of the Municipal judges disclaimed knowledge of the plan last night. It was learned that the judges had decided on the plan and had selected a committee to make specific recommendations to Sonsteby with whom decision on the matter would rest.

It is believed one phase of the plan would provide for a review panel of Municipal judges which would eliminate appeals in many cases by having the trial judge correct his decision.

DEBT HERITAGE TO BE REMINDER OF NEW DEALERS

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 14 (AP).—Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] said tonight the New Deal would be remembered by future generations primarily for the heritage of debt it bequeathed to them.

Addressing a belated Lincoln day dinner, the Republican presidential candidate criticized New Deal spending and what he termed its failure to improve the conditions of the unemployed, the worker, and the farmer.

"Taxes have been the highest in our history," he said. "In less than eight years the federal debt has risen 22 billion dollars, and yet we still are spending, as we have for years, at the rate of half a million every hour of every year."

Commissioner Corrigan said a transfer order relocating the men will be issued after the promotions are made effective by the civil service board.

DEWEY LAMBASTS NEW DEAL WITH A 7 YEAR PARALLEL

Compares Its Record of Yield with G. O. P.'s.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 14.—Seven years of the New Deal have yielded the United States less in wages, in farm revenue, in dividends, and in exports than the seven preceding years—1926 to 1932—under the Republicans, which included a world-wide cataclysmic depression, Thomas E. Dewey said here today.

The New York gang-breaking candidate for the Republican nomination for President addressed a luncheon attended by 900 diners. Six hundred more persons listened in the corridor. Politicians said it was the largest and most enthusiastic outpouring of Republicans since the New Deal went into power in 1933.

Recalls Depression Progress.

"It is worth your while to consider whether the ersatz [synthetic] progress of the New Deal is better than our progress under individual freedom and initiative in 1930 to 1932, when not only the United States but every country in the civilized world went down in a cataclysm of depression. England and other countries went off the gold standard. It was a world-wide cataclysm. We changed administrations. We are still paying for that.

"Now what has happened since the rest of the world recovered? The United States is 19th in the list of countries in recovery since 1932. It is second from the bottom among 20 great nations."

Refutes Wealth Sharing Claim.

Dewey explained that his figures do not include the months since the beginning of the present war.

In driving home his points that the seven years under the New Deal gave less to the workers of the nation than the seven preceding years under the Republicans, Dewey cited figures showing a reduction in dividends under the Roosevelt administration. He said that the New Deal claim that this loss was due to distribution of wealth is in error because wages and farm income went down.

"Let us charge up to the Republican party, if you will, the years from 1926 to 1932, and take them for comparison with the seven years since then," said Dewey.

"The dividends for the Republican years, which included the economic cataclysm, totaled 32 billion dollars, as compared with 22 billion dollars in the seven New Deal years.

Blasts Wage Claims.

"But the New Deal contends that this is not the test. It contends it has been redistributing wealth and operating in the interest of the wage earner. In refutation of that let us look at the figures on the record.

"In the seven Republican years, the total wages of the nation amounted to 276 billion dollars. In the seven New Deal years they have been 217 billion dollars. They say, 'We are raising the wages of workers.' We've been told for seven years that we are going to share the wealth and raise wages. You have seen the procession of legislative measures directed to that end. The New Dealers have had seven years to do that in.

"But look at the record again: In the seven Republican years prior to 1933, the people who had jobs received an average yearly wage of $1,265. In the seven New Deal years the average yearly wage, for those who have had jobs, has been $1,123.

"That is a loss of 11½ per cent after all the social experiments which a fussy minded bunch of people could think of."

Cites Slump in Exports.

Exports and farm income were taken up next by Dewey.

"Exports in the last seven Republican years," he said, "totaled 27 billion dollars. In the seven New Deal years the total is 17 billion dollars.

"In agriculture, 5 billion dollars was spent by the New Deal under theories and systems of control never before granted in a free country. But with all these controls and 5 billion dollars of subsidies the farm income under the New Deal seven years was 53 billion dollars. This may be compared with 63 billion dollars in the last seven years under the Republican party.

"We can now say on the record that the lives and prosperity of 123 million free people cannot be regulated by theorists. Republicans, you can stick out your chests and know you have been the only party that can make the country run. Substitution of government for individual freedom and enterprise does not work."

Calls Silver Scheme a Failure.

Earlier in the day Mr. Dewey in a press conference said the New Deal silver buying program has been a gigantic fiasco.

"The administration policy of trying to support the world price of silver," he said, "has been a dismal and colossal failure. When it started four years ago the world price was 45 cents an ounce. Today after buying millions of ounces, the price is 35 cents."

He repeated that the one big issue before the nation is "nine million men who cannot get jobs. Unemployment is the major, crucial issue. Attendant issues are economic strangulation and the unsound economic concept of the New Deal that government spending must take the place of private enterprise.

"Out here in the silver dollar states where folks prefer clinking coins in the pants pockets instead of folding money silver is a great question. So are sugar and wool and cattle raising."

Utah's Welcome Enthusiastic.

Utah's welcome to Dewey was as great as that of Oregon, where he spoke Monday night at Portland and in which he used the phrase "erosion of capital" in seven New Deal years. Enthusiastic Republicans cheered him at Ogden and Layton and on his arrival here. An official party that met the New York racket buster was headed by David J. Wilson, Republican state chairman, and Mrs. Earl A. Davis, state chairwomen of the party.

At the luncheon State Chairman Wilson presided. William S. Murray, Republican state chairman of New York, who is in the Dewey party, spoke of dwindling Democratic pluralities in the last state camaign.

"New York state will be back in the Republican party next election," he said.

After the luncheon there were 20 minute conferences with a series of groups, the young Republicans, live stock men, sugar beet growers, mining men, labor leaders, business men. Late in the day a two hour reception for Dewey was held at the hotel, following which he was to take the train back to Boise, Idaho.

A DENTIST PUTS FINGER ON THUMB SUCKING CAUSES

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

If you have crooked teeth a good dentist can take one glance at them and tell whether, as a baby, you were a lip biter, a thumb-sucker, an elbow-leaner, a tongue-thruster, or whether you are left or right-handed. This is on the authority of Dr. George W. Teuscher, in charge of children's dentistry at Northwestern university, who is attending the convention of the Chicago Dental society in the Stevens hotel.

Protruding teeth, separations and receding jaws are often the result of childhood habits, Dr. Teuscher said, and correction should be directed against the cause of the habit. Threats or forcible methods which cause the child suffering should never be used.

Babies Need Diversion.

"A baby who sucks his thumb has failed to grow at the rate it should," he said. "In its natural effort to increase its experiences, it turns to the pleasant occupation of thumb-sucking. A primary cause is insufficient feeding at the breast. One of the first methods of treatment is to provide new outlets for energy, new experiences that will engage its attention.

Thumb guards or elbow cuffs, he continued, should not be used, and the application of medicine is of only temporary aid. Metal appliances which reduce the pleasant sensation of thumb sucking are often effective in older children, and boxing glove thumbs for boys and girls over 6 sometimes break the habit.

Dr. Teuscher traced nail biting to highly tense nerves, and added that countless cases had been cured by prohibiting exciting movies and radio programs. Lip-biters, he said, are often the offspring of dominating parents, whose repression of their children results in frustration. In those cases, in his opinion, parental advice should be offered tactfully.

Pediatrician Makes Appeal.

In a plea for coöperation between dentists and physicians, Dr. H. William Elghammer, pediatrician, told members of the society that the general health of the expectant mother must receive special attention to insure healthy dental structures in her baby.

Dr. Elghammer cited the observations of many authorities on teeth and jaw developments as proving the influence of heredity and inherited constitution upon the formation of the face, jaw and teeth.

"There is considerable evidence that such malformations as harelip and cleft palate are hereditary defects," he said. "Many observers believe that alcoholism in the parents may produce dental abnormalities and malformations of the jaw in their children."

VETS OF SPANISH WAR REMEMBER MAINE TONIGHT

The Cook county council of Spanish-American War Veterans will hold a service at 7:45 o'clock tonight commemorating the 42d anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, an incident that was one of the causes of the war with Spain. The ceremony will be held in the Naval Reserve armory at the foot of Randolph street. A wreath will be placed in honor of the 266 men who died in the disaster. Lieutenant Commander George M. Weichelt of the United States Naval reserve will recount the story of the Maine's sinking.

STUBBORN FIRE, VISIBLE 30 MILES, RAZES SOY PLANT

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14 (AP).—Firemen tonight poured water on stubborn flames which had destroyed the soy bean mill and elevator of the Illinois Soy Products company. The fire caused an estimated loss of $150,000.

Flames were visible for 30 miles early today soon after a spectacular fire broke out at the top of the bean elevator. A 1,000 gallon oil tank in the basement exploded, spreading flaming oil thru much of the 68,000 bushels of soy beans in the elevator and warehouse. Firemen said the oil soaked beans and walls might burn for several days.

Low water pressure at the plant was blamed by firemen for the rapid spread of flames. Firemen had difficulty sending water to the top of the structure, and the flames spread rapidly.

I. D. Sinaiko, company president, said the plant would be rebuilt.

GARNER DRIVE IN STATE DEPENDS ON ROOSEVELT

Julius Smietanka, Illinois manager of John Nance Garner's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, said yesterday a state organization would be built up for the Vice President only if President Roosevelt permits his own name to go on the primary ballots in April.

"Otherwise it will hardly be necessary for a Garner compaign," Smietanka said.

Both the Roosevelt and Garner names have been filed for the presidential advisory vote, but the President has not signed a certificate of his candidacy. Smietanka said the Garner forces would not try to bar Roosevelt on this ground.

Sheppard Seeks Record for Holding Senate Seat

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] announced today he would seek re-election in 1942 in the hope of breaking the all-American record for length of service in congress. Sheppard first came to congress in 1902 as a representative, and in 1913 was elected to the senate. He is 65 years old.

Claim Subway Digging Ran Lodgers Off; Seek $10,000

David and Olga Linder, who operate a rooming house at 741 North Dearborn street, filed suit in Superior court yesterday seeking $10,000 damages from the Herlihy Mid-Continent company, subway contractors. They said noise from a battery of air compressors and shouts from workmen had driven tenants away. The four story brick building, it was also alleged, has been damaged by vibration of machinery used in subway work.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

ROARING AT JAPAN AND COOING AT MEXICO.

The American Committee for Nonparticipation in Japanese Aggression, working hand in glove with the war hawks of the Roosevelt administration, continues its efforts to embroil this nation in war with Japan. The committee has launched a fresh barrage of propaganda for an embargo since our trade treaty with Japan lapsed on Jan. 26.

The most specious of all the committee arguments is that we can take such a course without serious risk of war. Attributing the present Japanese policy in China to the Japanese armed forces alone, one spokesman for the committee argues: "For these reasons we have a strong feeling that it is highly desirable in the interests of the United States that the Japanese military organization should be discredited in the eyes of the Japanese people."

The embargo is to be the agency of discredit. The military forces, as the committee confesses, dominate Japan. The proposal to discredit them is merely polite language for an attempt to encourage a revolution in Japan. No government will tolerate that without fighting back, least of all the Japanese, who carry their sensitiveness in foreign affairs to the point of conduct considered erratic in western eyes.

The embargo, in spite of all its proponents may say, does offer a serious threat of drawing us into war with Japan. Before we adopt it we should at least consider what reason we have for waging such a war.

The overwhelming majority of Americans consider Japanese methods in China reprehensible. They also consider Hitler's persecution of Jews and Christians, his rape of Germany's small neighbors, reprehensible. They consider Stalin's murder of millions of his own subjects, his unprovoked attack on Finland, reprehensible. They considered Mussolini's similarly unprovoked attack on Ethiopia reprehensible.

But we are as a nation determined to go to war for none of these causes. No nation risks the hazards of modern war unless it considers its vital interests threatened. This is not cold selfishness. It is only elementary prudence. If we undertook to correct everything that displeased us, anywhere in the world, we would commit national suicide.

And what vital interests have we in China? Certainly none vital enough to be worth the risk of war, and therefore none important enough to risk the embargo that would seriously threaten a war.

One of the strangest contrasts in President Roosevelt's foreign policy is that between the roaring belligerence toward Japan of such of his spokesmen as Senator Pittman and the supine acceptance of the repeated and long endured persecution of American investors in Mexico. The most warlike threats are uttered, for no adequate cause, against Japan, but even ordinary firmness is lacking in the representations to the Mexican government.

This is all the more strange when it is considered that the correction of the Mexican expropriations could be accomplished without the least warlike threat, by merely putting an end to one of our domestic policies that should never have been adopted in the first place.

There was never rhyme nor reason to our policy of purchasing foreign silver. The domestic silver purchases are a mere pork barrel. The international purchaser are the extension of the public trough across our borders. That we should continue to subsidize the Mexican government to the tune of millions of dollars annually, while permitting it to rob our citizens without protest, is intolerable.

MR. TAFT'S DECISION.

The decision of Mr. Taft not to enter the Illinois preferential primary will be regretted, of course. A real contest in this state between leading aspirants for the Republican nomination to the Presidency would have stimulated interest in the primary and in the party. Columns in this and other newspapers would have been devoted to the doings and saying of the candidates and all of this material would have been read avidly. Illinois would have enjoyed the distinction of havin, the political attention of the whole nation focused upon happenings here.

While Mr. Taft's decision will be regretted, he has explained it candidly and satisfactorily in a public statement. It is a fact, of course, that his claim to the nomination must be based primarily upon his speeches and votes in the senate. To make an effective presentation of his case in Illinois would require not only a considerable expenditure of money but more especially his almost continuous presence in the state for a month or more, just at the time when most of the important debates will be taking place in Washington. Mr. Taft, not being a New Dealer, cannot undertake to be in two places at the same time.

Illinois would have enjoyed a spirited presidential primary but no one who knows Mr. Taft and the frank enjoyment he takes in campaigning can suspect him of running away from a fight.

THEY SWALLOWED ALL BUT ONE.

Municipal Judge Eugene McGarry appears to have established some sort of record for low public esteem. Even the Democratic machine can't stomach him, as shown by its action in failing to indorse him for renomination.

The machine swallowed two more judges, Francis Borrelli and Joseph B. Hermes, who in the opinion of 1,412 lawyers who practice in the Municipal court have about one-third the qualifications a judge should possess. On a scale of 100, with integrity and judicial and legal ability the heaviest factors, the Chicago Bar association members gave Judge Borrelli a rating of 32.94 and Judge Hermes one of 36.92.

The Democratic indorsements, equivalent to nomination in the party primary, were made on the same system that in recent years has packed the court with unfit judges. The judicial posts were bartered among the ward committeemen, and the only strange thing about the process is that it should have retained on the ticket several men of integrity.

The Municipal court offers the most glaring instance of the evils that one party government has visited on Chicago. It accordingly is the field in which the local Republican organization has the brightest hopes of success in November.

Only one thing can prevent such success. That is for the Republicans to follow Democratic example and let their ward committeemen put up their hacks to compete against the Democratic hacks. If that happens, and the public is thereby denied the choice between good candidates and bad judges, the usual disinclination to displace a sitting judge will contribute to Democratic success.

INDIANA CRACKS DOWN ON SPEED TRAPS.

The Indiana legislature, by enactment of two laws, has put an end to speed traps operated on the state's rural highways by constables and justices of the peace. One statute practically prevents constables from making arrests for trafic offenses by requiring that a constable obtain a warrant before making an arrest. The second is designed to put justices of the peace out of the traffic racket business by requiring the appointment, by judges of the Circuit court, of salaried magistrates to hear traffic cases and other petty charges.

Illinois could well copy these Indiana laws. Constables in this state usually confine their activities to the service of civil writs, but they have police powers which are occasionally misused in speed trap cases. Justices of the peace should not be allowed to try trafic offenses. They are reimbursed by costs assessed against convicted defendants. They collect no costs if there is an acquittal, and thus a direct pecuniary interest intervenes to prevent their giving an impartial hearing.

In recent years the worst speed traps in this state have not been operated by justices and constables, but by the authorities of small incorporated areas. Neither the police who make the arrests nor the police magistrates who convict the victims are allowed by law to share directly in the fees paid. However, the fees go into funds from which their salaries are paid so that the law is circumvented and there is a financial interest in victimizing motorists.

The way to stop this racket is to prosecute its operators for conspiracy. This was done successfully in the case of the notorious Charles Special and his lieutenants in Dixmoor. In affirming their conviction the Appellate court laid down some law which will make future prosecutions of similar racketeers easier.

The court held that no direct proof of a conspiracy is necessary. If the records of the municipality show an unusual increase in trafic arrests, that can be taken as proof that the conspiracy existed and the arrests were its product.

Editorial of the Day

NOT A PRIVATE MATTER.

[Kansas City Times.]

Mr. Roosevelt says he is tired of third term questions and talk, and so are all of us. We should have preferred to have the matter settled long ago. Mr. Roosevelt is the one person who could have settled it—the one person who can settle it now and end the questions about it.

But he says he will do it in his own good time, not before. Thus it becomes a personal, private matter with Mr. Roosevelt.

It is not a private matter and it can't be made so. It is a public question of vital importance to the whole country. It has been that kind of question with other Presidents. People discussed it; they raised questions about it.

People should continue to do it now. What's more, they will.

Strangely enough, while he is showing his impatience and objecting vigorously to inquiries as to his own position on an issue of national importance, Mr. Roosevelt is saying absolutely nothing—making no complaint whatever—about the open and undercover work being done by certain of his supporters in the interest of a third term.

He is not complaining about Boss Kelly of Chicago, who is urging a third term. He is not complaining about Boss Hague of Jersey City. He is not complaining about Guffey of Pennsylvania, who would like to regain his hold as a boss in that state and is trying to swing onto the tail of a third term kite. He is not complaining about Ickes or Wallace, or about Tommy Corcoran, the smooth working inside man. He is not complaining about moves to line up delegates in his support.

No wonder that people are concerned; no wonder that questions are being asked. The concern will continue and the questions will go on—as they should—until Mr. Roosevelt himself ends them. It's a public issue—not a matter of private privilege.

MAY BE RIGHT.

PICKING ON PICASSO.

A passage from a "prose poem" by Picasso, the modern artist, written as text for his series of etchings called "Dreams and Lies of Franco":

"Cries of children cries of women cries of birds cries of flowers cries of timbers and of stones cries of bricks cries of furniture of beds of chairs of curtains of pots of cats and of papers cries of odors which claw at one another cries of smoke pricking at the shoulder of the cries that stew in the cauldron. . . ."

Which reminded us of a quotation in "Outlines of Psychiatry," by William A. White, illustrating the symptom called verbigeration [demented repetition of words or phrases] in catatonic insanity:

"Myriads of us keep growing in numbers, also in largeness; locks and keys, keys, keys, locks, locks, keys, keys, keys, locks. Myriads of us quick-foot thru, ever no matter. Locks, keys, keys, locks, locks, keys, keys."

* * *

The influence of Gertrude Stein, who verbigerated so famously, "a rose is a rose is a rose," is suggested by Picasso's "poem." She was an early investor in his paintings.

* * *

Gertrude Stein herself had trouble with Picasso's meanings. Listen to him, as reported by an interviewer named Zervos:

"People who try to explain pictures are usually barking up the wrong tree. Gertrude Stein joyfully announced to me the other day that she had at last understood what my picture of the three musicians was meant to be. It was a still life!"

* * *

The three musicians that baffled Miss Stein may be seen in two forms in the current exhibition at the Art institute [164, 165]. The catalog says of them: "Climax of Picasso's synthetic cubism. . . . Two great compositions. . . . Superb decorative beauty. . . . Mysterious majesty."

SPOKEN IN BITTERNESS.

Nice going, guy! I saw you cut the wheel
And swerve your car into the path he took
With bumble-puppy lack of even keel
And one last backward, hesitating look.

You found the target easy, for he thought
This just another friendly, charming game
Nice going, guy! Good timing, perfect aim!

A boy's despairing scream, a fur ball stilled—
I understood your feeling as you smiled;
It made the triumph double when you killed

Paste This in Your Lincoln Scrap Book.

One night about 40 years ago I was sent by the Herald to get an "obit" of a man who died at his residence in 35th street, east of Cottage Grove avenue. The death notice gave no hint that the decedent, who was 90 years old, might be worth a story, except for his advanced age.

My ring at the bell was answered by a maid servant, who ushered me into a dimly lighted parlor where sat an elderly woman on an old fashioned mohair sofa. She manifested surprise that a newspaper would send a reporter to chronicle the passing of one who had always led "a quiet, uneventful life."

My recollection is that the name of the dead man was McWilliams. He had lived in Chicago a quarter of a century. I jotted down a few notes and when I was leaving I asked in which cemetery the interment would take place.

"We are taking him to Springfield, his old home," she said. "That was his request."

Something prompted me to ask what business her father was engaged in when he was a resident of the state capital.

"He ran a livery stable in Springfield for many years," said the silver haired woman. "Yes, he and Abraham Lincoln were great friends. Mr. Lincoln used to hire a rig from my father when he took Mary Todd for a buggy ride."

With a little prompting the daughter told me that her father and Lincoln were pitching horseshoes in the rear of the livery stable on the day the Republican convention in Chicago nominated "Honest Abe" for President. A messenger boy went to Lincoln's law office with the telegram, telling him of his nomination. Lincoln was not there, but the boy found him pitching horseshoes!

And the man who lay dead in an adjoining room was the first to offer Lincoln congratulations!

THE POWER OF SULFANILAMIDE.

ENOUGH time has elapsed since the introduction of drugs belonging to the sulfanilamide family to justify an evaluation of their curative powers. As often happens when a new remedy comes to the fore, physicians find themselves divided into two classes: those who employ it for every ill and those who look upon it as an extensively advertised but occasionally useful substance.

We must admit that animal experiments as well as clinical trials have shown that sulfanilamide and its brothers and sisters exert a specific and deadly effect upon some bacteria. Perhaps we do not know as yet how widely these compounds may be utilized. Certain it is that the number of maladies to which they are applicable is increasing. The medical man who prescribes a drug of this sort for every cold, however, is either failing to think or is blazing away with a shotgun at an enemy that he cannot see. I cannot believe that many follow this policy. It cannot be denied, however, that the hemolytic streptococcus, the pneumococcus, colon organisms, and the germs that cause meningitis and gonorrhea are frequently amenable to this chemical.

What sort of a concoction are we dealing with? It is really a simple one, altho it goes under a score of names coined chiefly for merchandizing purposes. It contains sulfur and is manufactured from benzol—a by-product obtained in the preparation of coke. It is the sulfur atom—apparently—that is important because of its unique combination with carbon, nitrogen, and hydrogen.

Acute infections are far more susceptible to its influence than are those that have persisted for months or years. It will not bring about the absorption of pus within an abscess or destroy organisms in such an area. Faced with such a condition, surgical drainage will be necessary for recovery. In order to be effective, the percentage in the blood must be sufficiently high. This is the reason that it is administered at four hour intervals at least for one or two days. Inasmuch as it is excreted rather rapidly, an adequate supply must be maintained constantly, otherwise the blood saturation may drop so low that it will be useless.

If this plan is followed the physician can determine rather promptly whether the medicine will prove helpful or not. If improvement does not come within four or five days, we may conclude that there is little to be gained by persisting in its use. On the other hand, if the temperature is dropping and all signs point to recovery, it may be continued for two weeks or even longer.

Those who imbibe a generous quantity day after day—without respite—may, however, encounter a dangerous situation as sometimes the red cells and the hemoglobin will be affected. Now and then the depots producing the white cells will undergo what is tantamount to paralysis.

May not this compound be of inestimable value should an epidemic of flu sweep the world? Unfortunately, the evidence seems to be incontrovertible that influenza starts as a virus infection, and sulfanilamide does not exhibit the slightest antagonism to viruses. But when microbes march upon the scene as secondary invaders, we may rely upon the product to combat the manifestations for which they may be responsible. Again in pneumonia, the employment of sulfapyridine—sulfanilamide with a chemical group known as pyridine—unusually favorable outcomes have been achieved.

We may look upon this collection of healing agents as of the greatest assistance in erysipelas, acute tonsilitis, meningitis, peritonitis, and acute sepsis. The results are negligible in scarlet fever unless it is combined with antitoxin. In measles and whooping cough nothing can replace good nursing and the well established methods of treatment. But should complications appear—even in these ailments—some form may be advantageous.

How Our States Got Their Names

34. OKLAHOMA.

This state name is formed by putting together the Choctaw Indian words "okla" [people] and "humma" [red], according to historians. Oklahoma was admitted to the Union on Nov. 16, 1907.

Oklahoma state seal. Points of large star contain; seven pointed Cherokee star; Chickasaw warrior with bow and shield; Creek sheaf of wheat and plow; Choctaw tomahawk, bow, and arrows; Seminole village scene. Central device is Oklahoma territorial seal with state motto. Forty-five stars form background. Date [1907] of statehood is in outer circle.

Oklahoma is sometimes referred to as the Boomers' Paradise or the Sooner state. Boomers, according to the dictionary, are persons who join in a rush of settlers to a new territory. There was such a rush into Oklahoma in 1889 when the territory was opened up. Sooners were persons who disregarded the rules and sneaked into the territory to be settled before the permitted time, enabling themselves to obtain the best land.

The Oklahoma motto is "Labor Omni Vinci" [work conquers all]. The state song is "Oklahoma," and the flower the mistletoe.

A SENSATION IN 1894.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 12.—I have at home a CHICAGO TRIBUNE dated Tuesday, April 3, 1894, and in the sport section I find a picture of a woman pedaling a bicycle, dressed in bloomers, and read this:

Chicago Woman Adopts Bloomers.
The First Female Cyclist to Wear Them in Public Creates a Sensation.

At last it has come. Just after 8 o'clock yesterday morning it made its appearance on Michigan avenue near the Columbus statue, and moved silently and swiftly toward the south. Whence it came and whither it went was a mystery. The early morning pedestrians stared at it in amazement. The boulevard policeman rubbed his eyes so long in astonishment that when he had awakened to the situation the object that had startled him was lost in the distance. Horses shied at it, windows were thrown up and heads appeared. What was it? Just a pretty girl astride a safety bicycle.

But what had made people stare? It wasn't the smiling face. It wasn't the jaunty cap. Here is the secret—that girl wore a pair of the sauciest bloomers imaginable. They were wide and loose from the waist to the knee, and from that point down her limbs were encased in tight-fitting stockings. The entire costume was black.

A female bicyclist came from the other direction and stopped amazed. She turned toward the disappearing bicyclist in bloomers. Again she mounted her wheel as she ejaculated: "Isn't it awful! But if it's fashionable I'll have to get them." And she rode away meditating.

A prominent south side woman, who rides considerably, said to a reporter for THE TRIBUNE yesterday: "I have known for a long time that the girls contemplated wearing the divided skirt this season. Skirts, besides causing serious accidents, are a drawback to speeding, which many of us are capable of. Don't be surprised if you see every woman bicyclist in Chicago wearing the new costume this summer.

There are many other interesting items in the paper of 1894.

A TRIBUTE.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Permit me to congratulate Mr. Murchie on his articles now appearing in the Graphic section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE about Floyd Gibbons. They are well worded, romantic, interesting, and in fact, done in a style characteristic of Mr. Gibbons himself.

I was his favorite bellboy at the Press club of Chicago, then located at 26 N. Dearborn street. He often told me he thought the time would come when colored people would have papers of their own in large cities, and would need educated men to handle them. I began to study, watched how those around the club handled and wrote stories, especially Gibbons, and from that training I became interested in journalism.

I have been managing editor of the Chicago Defender for the past 15 years after a career in newspaper work which began 24 years ago. I consider myself the ebony product of Mr. Gibbons.

EMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.

Chicago, Feb. 7 [Legal Friend of the People].—I am a woman of 24 who recently received the Ph. D. degree from a large eastern university. My problem is that I have been dismissed from two research jobs because the chemical industry in which I was employed, misled [not intentionally, for I never gave it a thought] by the title of Dr., did not know I was married. A short time after starting the work I had to fill out a questionnaire for group insurance and answered it correctly, showing that I am married as I have been since I was 16. I was called in, told it was not their policy to hire married women, as they were not able to give sufficient attention to the job to do research, and given my choice of quitting or taking a library job. I quit.

My training and all my experience has been in research and I feel I'd be wasted in the library; after all any one of high school education can translate chemical patents. The second job, in the same industry, was almost a repetition. I have the same urge to do research a musician has to play; it is a part of me I can't change or deny. At the same time I am most happily married, and that is something. I want my work and my husband, too, which seems to be verboten in the chemical industries.

1. What can I do about it?
2. Would I be violating the law to sign a contract with my maiden name?
3. Would a contract so signed be a valid contract or would it be void or voidable?
4. Would a patent issued to me now under my maiden name be a valid patent. I have two that way and one under my married name.
5. Other than the fact that I do not like the idea of deception, would there be anything to prevent my answering an insurance questionnaire incorrectly?
6. If such a group insurance blank was falsified could the company do anything about it other than cancel my insurance?
7. Could they cancel the whole group?
8. Is there anything in the doctrine of public policy by which I could hold a firm to a contract correctly signed?
9. Isn't it supposed to be contrary to the doctrine of public policy to cause a woman to sign a contract forbidding her to marry?
10. To dismiss her because she is married or was married when hired?
11. In short, what would you suggest?
12. Is there any way I can work without running into this difficulty? The state referred to is Indiana, but I'd like answers for Illinois, too, if they differ in the two states.

M. A.

1. You might get in touch with an employment agency, with a view to finding an employer who would not make such an arbitrary rule.
2. It does not seem likely that there would be any serious consequences.
3. The materiality of the misrepresentation is not entirely clear to us.
4. Yes, if it is the name by which you are best known.
5. Depends on whether the fact of your marriage is material.

WANT TO CINCH THAT JOB? BRUSH UP ON YOUR 3 R'S

You Haven't a Chance if You Don't Know Them.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

You may be able to discuss Persian ceramics intelligently or know about the rhyme schemes of the sonnet, but if you haven't absorbed the three Rs—"readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic"—you won't be much use in the business world. Your chances of getting a job are less than those of the individual who has learned good English and simple arithmetic.

This is the opinion of a majority of the personnel directors who are taking part in the American Management association's three day conference in the Palmer House on employé relationships.

H. C. Taylor, head of the psychological research section, Western Electric company, in Cicero, voiced the general opinion.

Simple Knowledge Best.

"Probably the greatest need felt by employers today," he said, "is for job applicants to be able to add, subtract, multiply, and divide, spell well and use good grammar. Applicants for most jobs have been exposed to these things in school. But it's truly amazing how many managed to evoid learning these basic tools of civilization.

"From the viewpoint of business we would find a definite obstacle to the transaction of our affairs if any one of our employés could not use figures accurately or speak and write grammatically."

Taylor said that almost all applicants for jobs with his company are given simple tests to determine aptitude and ability. Recently he said tests were given to 40 graduates of technical high schools who sought jobs in skilled trades.

"One question they were asked was," he said, "'What is one-tenth of 4.4787.' Five different answers were given despite the fact that all the applicant had to do was to point off the decimal correctly. Fifteen per cent of the boys missed this item."

Girls Have Trouble, Too.

Girl applicants also have their difficulties in job tests, Taylor said. Of 39 applying for posts as stenographers or typists a large number were shaky on punctuation, word usage, and grammar. As for spelling, in a test that required them to pick out misspelled words in a list of 100 this was the result:

Occasion	49
Procedure	51
Accommodation	72
Privilege	54
Possession	23
Calendar	46
Verify	56

Personal appearance, carriage, neatness and cleanliness are all considered by employment managers. But unless there are indications that an applicant is going to be of service these factors cannot be accepted as controlling, the personnel managers agreed.

Psychology tests are being used by many large employers to help weed out those persons least likely to succeed in jobs. But these tests are not considered as more than mere indicators. They fail to show perseverance, push, and ambition. They fail to pick out the lack of other essential qualities that might keep a very brilliant person from succeeding in his particular job. The tests are more useful for rejection purposes than for selection, the managers said.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14 [Special].—Bad eyesight was a stumbling block for 649 of the 9,599 persons seeking automobile drivers' licenses in Illinois during January, Walter Williams, chief of state police made known today.

Three applicants were refused because of poor eyesight, while 646 were given restricted licenses pending correction of vision.

In 9,599 examinations, 681 restricted licenses were issued. Only four persons were denied licenses, illiteracy being the reason for the fourth denial. The restricted permits limit the drivers to operation of specially equipped cars, to certain routes and speeds, or require aids such as eyeglasses ,hearing devices, built-up shoes and leg braces.

Williams' report showed 227 persons were denied drivers licenses from December, 1938, to February, 1940. During the same period 8,501 restricted permits were issued, 5,524 of them for need of eyeglasses.

An award of $27,000 was made by a Circuit court jury yesterday to Philip Voulis, 7956 Evans avenue, a dairy employé, in his personal injury suit against Morris Stein, 7641 Essex avenue, owner of several south side groceries. The case was heard by Judge Robert A. Meier of Chicago Heights. According to testimony Voulis parked his car at Stony Island avenue and 59th street Oct. 11, 1938, while he did some shopping. JUDGES TO STUDY POLICE TICKETING OF PARKED CARS

A committee of Municipal court judges will meet with the city council sub-committee on parking on Feb. 29 to discuss a proposed plan for attaching parking violation summonses to an automobile. Proponents of this measure contend that much of a policeman's time is now taken up waiting for the driver of the car to return. In the past judges have objected on the ground that their courts would be unnecessarily crowded. The plan has been approved by Capt. David Flynn, chief of the traffic division, and George W. Fleming, chairman of the Keep Chicago Safe Committee.

Mrs. Marian Lipson Fogelson told details of her $100,000 marriage yesterday in the courtroom of Judge Rudolph F. Desort, where she is opposing the suit of Dr. Samuel J. Fogelson for exclusive custody of their two sons. Under a divorce decree of last July, the custody of the children was to be shared.

The Fogelsons were married March 28, 1929. Mrs. Fogelson's attorney, Benjamin B. Davis, brought out in questioning her that her father, I. B. Lipson, prominent Chicago attorney, gave Dr. Fogelson $50,000 as a wedding gift. She said her father also set up a $50,000 trust fund for her.

She reiterated testimony that the boys, John, 7, and Richard, 5, were unmanageable after visits with their father. Mrs. Fogelson lives at 4759 Drexel avenue. Dr. Fogelson, a surgeon and member of the Northwestern university faculty, lives at 4820 Kenwood avenue.

FRED E. MURPHY, CROP ROTATION ADVOCATE, DIES

Publisher Noted for Aid to Northwest.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Frederick E. Murphy, a farm boy who became a nationally known newspaper publisher and crusaded thruout the nation for his youthful ideals of diversified agriculture, died today. He was 67 years old.

Frederick E. Murphy. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Death came to the executive head of the Minneapolis Tribune and director of the Associated Press from complications growing out of a cold today in a midtown hotel. He was here on business.

Demonstrates with Own Farm.

It was Murphy who in 1920 saw diversification as the rejuvenation factor for agriculture in the northwest—agriculture that was prostrated by the postwar collapse and the burst of the inflation bubble around huge wheat surpluses.

In that year Murphy pointed to his Femco farm, near Breckenridge, Minn., as an example of what dairy diversification can do.

Head of Paper Company.

Along with his agricultural interests, Murphy actively managed the Minneapolis Tribune. Murphy also was president of the Manistique Pulp and Paper company and the Manistique Light and Power company, affiliates of the Minneapolis Tribune.

Murphy was born at Troy, Wis., Dec. 5, 1872. He was graduated from the University of Notre Dame in 1893, and joined the Minneapolis Tribune as circulation manager.

The body was taken to Minneapolis late today. The widow survives.

PATENT LAWYER SLASHES WRISTS IN HOTEL ROOM

Daniel A. Brennan, a patent attorney and inventor with offices at 10 South La Salle street, attempted to commit suicide early today in the Fort Dearborn hotel, 117 West Van Buren street. Hotel employés, attracted by his moans, found Brennan unconscious, his wrists slashed with a razor blade. Today is his 53d birthday.

Brennan was taken to the county hospital, where physicians said his condition is critical. Regaining consciousness for a brief moment, Brennan refused to give any reason for his act. He had registered at the hotel earlier in the evening as D. Brown.

Brennan was unmarried and lived at 4856 North Winchester avenue with an aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Hodge. He was born in Milwaukee, licensed as a professional engineer in 1914, and admitted to the bar the following year. Before engaging in the practice of patent law Brennan was senior member of the Brennan-Wahl company, construction engineers. He invented a patented paper fastener.

SERVICES TODAY FOR E. H. MACOY, 59, RACKETS' FOE

Head of Landis Award Employer Group.

Funeral services for Earl H. Macoy, business and civic leader, will be held at 3 p. m. today in the chapel at Oak Woods cemetery. Mr. Macoy died of a cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday evening in his home in the Fairfax hotel. He would have been 59 years old Sunday.

A native of Ottumwa, Ia., Mr. Macoy was graduated from Armour institute and in 1902 entered the printing and lithographing business with his father. He succeeded him as president of the National Printing and Engraving company, a position he held from 1906 to 1933.

Director of Employer Group.

As president of the Employers' Association of Chicago from 1927 to 1932 he led the association's first drive against racketeering. At the time of his death he was managing director of the Landis Award Employers' association. Before assuming directorship of this association Mr. Macoy served for six years as director of the Better Government association.

He was an active and outspoken foe of mobs and racketeering. In 1929 he charged that the rackets were costing Chicago citizens $136,000,000 a year.

Assailed Labor Racketeers.

In 1939 he wrote to John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, asserting that building in Chicago was being crippled by the presence of labor racketeers. Former Capone gangsters, he charged, had soft berths in certain labor unions.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. T. L. Macoy of Los Angeles, Cal.; his widow, Carrie, and a son, Eugene W. Macoy.

F. J. LISMAN, N. Y. RAILROAD EXPERT AND BANKER, DIES

New York, Feb. 14 [Special].—Frederick J. Lisman, 74 years old, founder and chairman of the board of the Lisman corporation, investment bankers, an authority on railroads and railroad financing, died today in his home at Manhasset, Long Island. A fall near his home last Monday aggravated a heart ailment, which caused his death.

President of the Chicago, Springfield & St. Louis railway, Lisman was said to have financed as many railroads as any one in Wall street. He was born in Germany and came to the United States at the age of 16. In 1890 he got a job in a New York brokerage office. Ten years later he had made $1,000,000. By that time he was a member of the New York stock exchange, had founded the F. J. Lisman & Co., distinct from the corporation, and established himself as one of the shrewdest financiers in the city.

Thru F. J. Lisman & Co., stock in the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising corporation [known as CAMCO], a holding company of which Franklin D. Roosevelt was a director in 1928, was offered to the public. With the collapse of CAMCO, thousands of small investors lost an estimated 11 million dollars. In 1926 Lisman submitted a proposal for refinancing the Chicago surface lines.

DALIES FRANTZ'S PIANO MAGIC TO TOP W-G-N BILL

Noted Concert Artist Will Broadcast Tonight.

The blond six footer who will walk upon the stage of W-G-N's audience studio in the midst of tonight's 9:30 to 10 o'clock broadcast could easily be mistaken for a football hero or a movie idol. Instead he is a concert pianist, and he will prove it by playing a Bach chorale, a Chopin étude, and De Falla's "Ritual Fire Dance."

Dalies Frantz is his name and he is a highly successful American pianist. He will appear as guest artist on the Concert Revue as a feature of W-G-N's gala 1940 schedule. On the same program are Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and Henry Weber's W-G-N orchestra. The broadcast will be heard nationally thru the coast to coast facilities of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

American Success Story.

Dalies Frantz's career is a typically American success story. When he left his home in Denver to attend the Huntington school in Boston he had already amassed enough musical knowledge and skill to support him during his years of study. Musical jobs later carried him thru the University of Michigan, from which he was graduated with high honors.

Against a field of 100 he won the right to appear as soloist with the Detroit Symphony orchestra. In similar competitions he won the Naumburg foundation award [with a New York recital as prize] and the award offered by the National Federation of Music Clubs and the Schubert foundation [with an appearance with the Philadelphia orchestra as reward].

Liked Thruout Nation.

During the last seven seasons Mr. Frantz has been heard three times as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. He has appeared here in an Orchestra hall recital in the Musical Arts series sponsored by the Adult Education council. He has toured extensively.

Public and critics alike have been pleased with the fluency and cleanness of Mr. Frantz's playing and the simplicity of his interpretations. Notable also is his pleasant platform manner—friendly, unassuming, eager to please.

Snow Falls from Ohio to New England.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—At least 50 persons were injured in the metropolitan area today in a blizzard that all but paralyzed motor traffic and swept the sidewalks almost clear of pedestrians. It was the city's worst storm since Thanksgiving night, 1938.

New Yorkers who ventured out to lunch clung to traffic stanchions to keep from being swept into the streets. Many were taken to hospitals for treatment from the effects of being bowled over by the sudden sleet and snowstorm.

In Newark, N. J., an unidentified man was found dead from exposure, his body half buried by snow.

Gales of 60 to 100 Miles.

The wind reached gale force of 60 miles an hour on the south shore of Long Island. Large sections of the Bronx were without lights after wires were blown down.

A wind velocity of 100 miles an hour atop the Empire State building, world's tallest office building, was estimated unofficially at the height of the storm. The exact velocity could not be calculated because the wind measuring instruments were frozen.

In Brooklyn four elevated lines suspended traffic for an hour, marooning thousands of passengers. Ice coated power lines forced four metropolitan broadcasting stations off the air intermittently thruout the day.

Upstate New York had an overnight snowfall as deep as 12 inches, leaving highways hazardous and forcing motorists to abandon their cars. Strong northeast winds accompanied the storm. Two feet of snow covered the highways in Allegheny county.

Storm warnings were hoisted from Delaware Breakwater to Boston, and the weather bureau reported gale winds off the coast. Tonight the storm was heading out to sea. Fair weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Pittsburgh Snowed Under.

Pittsburgh reported the heaviest snowfall in 38 years—15 inches deep in the downtown area. All elementary schools suspended classes, releasing 150,000 pupils.

At Erie, where only five inches of snow fell, a 45 mile an hour wind whipped up drifts four feet deep.

Highway and air traffic was crippled thruout western Pennsylvania, and hundreds of automobiles were marooned. Philadelphia experienced rain, sleet, and stiff winds.

Cincinnati reported the heaviest snow of the winter in southern Ohio generally, where it was 10 inches deep. Hundreds of automobiles were abandoned on the icy hills of Cincinnati. The temperature there was 18 degrees.

In eastern Ohio 3,000 miners were kept from work by drifts 20 feet high in places.

Thruout the south 20 to 35 mile an hour winds drove the temperatures to freezing levels or lower. Frost was expected in the interior of Florida and freezing weather along the gulf.

Rescue Marooned Children.

Lewes, Del., Feb. 14 (AP).—Fourteen shivering children were marooned for six hours tonight in a school bus stuck in snowdrifts near Midway. The bus left the Lewes school at 3:30 p. m. and in two hours traveled only five miles, where it became stuck. Snow plows reached the school bus shortly before midnight. Highway officials said the plows would break the roads to the homes of the children.

Falls in Love at Last, but Not with Ideal

BY DORIS BLAKE.

(Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

"I've read your column for some time and have been amused at the peculiar circumstances into which people in love will get. I was the hard-boiled type, supposedly, and I never was going to get myself involved in anything as complicated as love.

"About a year ago, it happened. I met a girl. We went on a few dates and things went so smoothly between us that dates have become a fixed habit. I am in love, no doubt of that, and something I never could have believed would exist with me and this special girl. But we get along beautifully. Our emotions blend perfectly. When she's gay, so do I feel. When sentimental, so am I. I'd say perfect harmony exists emotionally.

"But there's a hitch in the works. She is not in my class of intelligence. I don't consider myself any brilliant whiz, understand, but I have a fair idea of what is good, average intelligence. Every now and then I like to get down to a good intellectual conversation and here my love shuts up like a clam. She has nothing to offer. This annoys me because I feel that the girl I marry should be intelligent enough to make fair responses to ordinary themes, such as one reads in the paper, in magazines, books and so on. She never reads and resents the suggestion from me. She won't get down to a serious conversation ever and yet I love her and what am I to do? SMARTY."

If you are making an issue of it now while your love is at the boiling point, goodness knows how the girl's lack of intellect is going to affect you later on when she is your sole fireside companion.

Mental companionship is an invaluable adjunct to matrimony. Yet, one does see marriages, in which the wife seems to retain her infantile attitude of mind, work out happily. The success probably lies in the caliber of the man, his patience, his benevolence. Whether you have enough of that in your composition would be the thing you'll have to decide, Smarty.

In any event, we think a longer courtship period might solve your problem one way or the other.

Hats, Real Hats Find a Place in Fashion Again

BY REA SEEGER.

Exciting new headlines just unpacked are of felt or Milan straw. . . . and they're the highest, widest, smartest Bretons ever presented. What they'll do for midseason outfits is something to make millinery history. These are high at the sides and have shallow concave scoops fore and aft the peaked crown to add to their glamor. You wear them with slim, long-torso suits also new and causing plenty of comment.

These Bretons are sleek and fascinating suit contrasts, and tho daring and eye catching, they are surprisingly smooth tops for semitailored clothes as well as more dress parade one piece dresses with a short fur jacket.

These are grand relief from the flighty small flowered hats and the coy numbers fluttering with a yard or so of veiling.

These outsize straws provide the fashion zest of the week. Wear them immediately if you would lead the fashion parade.

Other large off-the-face hats in either smooth straw or felt and cut with the same dash and dramatics are severely untrimmed unless you count a small neat bow and a narrow headband anything significant in trim.

Navy blue straw is worn over a headband arrangement of scarlet, or you may use an alternative of striped silk or something in dots in jersey or crêpe or wear the upturned straw without any contrast except a well groomed coiffure.

All the crowns mark them as this year's most ingenious brain waves of the best hat makers. Some new ideas feature a fedora shape dented in the center and the peaks held together with a double thread of heavy silk. . . . others list to one side, others are puffed into formation as tho the very pliable straw was fabric.

Tea Time.

There was a faint odor of burning birch from the fireplace logs. Pale pink hyacinths in pots on the mantel flanked the pink fireplace chairs, and the sunset glow outside was faintly pink on the gray water of the lake.

"It is nice to have tea without a crowd of people," said my guest, accepting the proffered cup. "I find that in Chicago people ask me to lunch and to dinner and to cocktail parties, but no one ever asks me for a cup of tea—alone. And at the cocktail parties every one has the air of just having come from somewhere else and of being about to go on to a third place." She stirred her tea reflectively. "People's heads always seem before or behind their feet."

* * *

We chatted of this and that. She told me of a tea so strong that the brew from one bud would keep the drinker awake for 36 hours, a brew cherished by students and scholars. The late dowager empress of Japan had sent a box of it to John Muir, the naturalist. And in Poland there is a drink made from honey that paralyzes the legs for six hours but makes the brain preternaturally keen. She talked entertainingly of life in South America and made witty observations and comparisons. Our two voices and the sputtering of the logs were the only sound.

* * *

"I must go," she said after a while, rising and offering her hand. "Thank you for this restful hour. It is so refreshing to find a woman behind her own tea table. It is nice to think of you here in this peaceful room."

She was gone. I looked hastily at the clock. Six-thirty. If I hurried there was still time to make Ray Bolger's cocktail party for Paul Draper.

"Let your conscience be your guide usually means that you do as you please. The modern behaviorist will say that whatever a man does is right. We all know what would happen to society if such a rule were to be universally applied. Acts of criminals would be condoned on behavioristic principles. Nothing would be wrong, yet by the same token there would be no standard of measurement of right.

"It is only an enlightened Christian conscience that can keep us hewing to the definite line of ethical and moral standards which are the very essence of our civilization. We must believe that God can and does speak to the conscience of men who are humble and devoted enough to listen."

Women Plan Benefits During Quiet of Lent

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE groundwork for many a spring and summertime benefit is laid during the quiet period of Lent. Women who are interested in every money raising scheme from horse shows to roller skating parties are busy planning ticket selling campaigns.

The first of the Chicago area horse shows next summer again will be the South Shore Country club's. The money from this two day show, to be held Saturday and Sunday, June 8 and 9, will go to the Infant Welfare society. It is being sponsored by the Kenwood and the South Shore centers of the society, with Mrs. Frederick Herendeen as chairman.

The South Shore show has been handicapped by rainy weather almost every year since it was revived a few years ago, but in spite of bad luck it continues to have the largest number of equitation classes of any show in this area. Equitation classes are those in which the riders and not the horses count. A new feature of this year's show will be some open classes with cash prizes which professionals as well as amateurs may enter. James C. Thompson is chairman of the stable committee for the club.

Hinsdale Show Will Benefit Infant Welfare.

The Infant Welfare society will receive the proceeds from the next horse show on the calendar, which will be the Hinsdale one on June 15 and 16. Mrs. Robert Gordon is president of the Hinsdale Junior center which will coöperate with the Hinsdale Horse Show association in putting on the show.

The Lake Forest Hospital association always receives the profits from the Lake Forest Horse show, one of the largest outdoor shows in the country. It will be held June 19-22 inclusive.

Friends of members of the Evanston Infant Welfare Service league will roller skate for charity on April 24 at the Riverview Park rink. The party will be held from 8 o'clock until midnight, with Mrs. Robert Pearse as chairman. Some of the young women helping her are Mrs. Charles Ullrich, Mrs. Herbert Nolan, Mrs. Donald M Wood Jr., Mrs. Karl V. Rohlen, Mrs. Thomas Morgan, Mrs. Allen I. Wolff Jr., and Mrs. Edward C. Walter.

The Ridge Service Guild auxiliary's annual bridge-luncheon party will be held on April 10. The party will be given at the Drake hotel, with Mrs. Harold Bray as chairman.

North Shore League Barn Dance April 13.

Saturday, April 13, is the date the North Shore Service league has set for a barn dance it will give to raise funds for the Chicago Maternity center. The party will be the league's fourth annual one. Mrs. Jay A. Campbell is to be the general chairman.

The West Suburban auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity center will receive the proceeds from a morning musical at 11:30 o'clock on Feb. 23 at the Arts club.

The Winnetka Public School Nursery board is sponsoring a movie benefit for the 1940-'41 scholarship fund on Feb. 23. A continuous performance of the "Wizard of Oz" will be given during the afternoon at the Teatro del Lago in Wilmette.

Beverly Hills Group Redecorates Thrift Shop.

Members of the Beverly Hills center of the Infant Welfare society are busy redecorating their Thrift shop at 10821 Michigan avenue. The shop is to be restocked with donations from a bundle tea to be held there on Feb. 23. The shop will be reopened to the public at 1 o'clock the following day. Mrs. Austin Countryman is chairman of the Thrift shop.

The Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association believes in announcing the dates of its annual benefit well in advance. This year's ball will be held on Oct. 5.

The Italy-America society has cards out for a talk by Elizabeth Day McCormick, who will tell of her discovery and acquisition of an Apocalypse. The lecture will start at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Casino club.

Miss Jean Kniskern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis T. Kniskern of Evanston, will become the bride of Benjamin Y. Rawlins at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the First Congregational church in Evanston. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Hugh E. Brown and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steven C. Rawlins, also of Evanston.

Mr. Rawlins and his bride will postpone their wedding trip until summer and will be at home in Evanston.

Lamour Claims Men Like New Oomph Clothes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Tired as you may be of that phrase, "glamor girl," people go on using it. They've tried vainly to find a substitute and they keep on trying to figure out what it takes to be one.

Dorothy Lamour of screen fame figures out that a silhouette has much to do with it. The figure must curve in the right places, she says, but neither too much nor too little.

The way you dress, she thinks, comes close to getting at the unknown quantity. Men like clothes with "oomph," Dorothy declares, but they detest conspicuous ones. And men cannot see glamor unless the clothes are feminine. Dorothy's querying of the masculine sex results in her observation that the type of thing that clings to the figure and then flares into wide skirt lines gets the heavy vote. She herself thinks it the most flattering style ever designed for the feminine figure.

The state of skin, hair, and hands is a definite component of this thing called glamor. But the walk! Ah, that's where so many, many women lock themselves out of the glamor gates. Few women, says Dorothy, realize how critical is the opposite sex on a woman's walk and how appreciative they are when it is a thing of grace and beauty.

"To be really glamorous," continues Miss Lamour, "a woman must know her limitations. She should know what are her chief charms and what she'd better leave to somebody else. There is nothing worse than trying to act the siren if you're not the exotic type, unless it's being kittenish when past the age for it.

"You can't have a face like an open book, either, and be glamorous. If men can tell exactly what you're thinking, what you are going to say, you lose. Look at Mona Lisa, a rather plain woman, but she has had men raving for centuries. That something they cannot understand in her eyes; the half smile on her lips may mean she's amused at men. They don't know—but they love it."

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

A beauty editor in these times would be better dead than color blind. There's a new lipstick every twenty minutes and since superficially one looks a lot like another it takes a fine eye for the nuances of color to separate the chics from the goons.

In cosmetic circles the color battle is raging. Will it be red reds, yellow reds, rosy reds, blue reds? People fly at each other's throats about it. From the safety of our storm cellar we simply say we have given up predictions for Lent.

If it weren't for this lenten sacrifice we'd wager a guess that at least one of the new sticks is heading for success. It's one of those reds that is swell with blues—and it's in the fashion primer that blues are big favorites in spring.

This is a screaming red called "cockade" that adds snap to the face and the costume. There isn't a smidge of blue in it; it's definitely a bright lipstick. The texture is elegant. The new one comes of a long line of shades, and the smooth, creamy texture of all the sticks has made them pets of thousands of women.

No fuzziness, or breakdown of color or creaminess; these sticks coat the lips smoothly and lustrously and they're as lasting as any we've found.

The new makeup consists of the stick, a cream rouge [this is exceptionally nice], and a fine compact rouge. With the proper shade of face powder it gives the face a fine, fresh look that all well tended faces should strive for in spring.

Good Morning!

Says a letter from Bernard McGillian, chairman of the picture committee of the Irish-American national committee, re "Ireland's Border Line": ". . . the message we are endeavoring to tell the world at present is that the grass grows as green in Antrim [Northern Ireland] as it does in Kerry [southern Ireland] . . . we respectfully request that you pay particular attention to the man made "partition" line perpetrated on the Irish people by a foreign power. . . . Irishmen all over the world are anxious to see the day when "partition" will be effaced by a friendly shake of Irish hands and not by implements of war . . .," etc.

I thought I was probably to see something pretty deep. On the contrary I found myself enjoying a "100 per cent Irish movie," largely located in a little town on the border line separating Northern and southern Ireland. As naive and refreshing a little comedy drama as has come to our screens in quite some time.

Its hero, a mechanic who has lost his job in Dublin and taken to peddling a cough medicine thruout the countryside, finds himself mixed up in a jewel robbery.

Police on each side of the border are endeavoring to corner the thieves and win the reward and glory for so doing. . . . Their rivalry is vigorous but never bitter. . . . Romance and complications are introduced by the desire of sergeants for both sides to win the hand and heart of the daughter of the Border Line cafe's owner. . . . Our hero falls heavily for the charms of a willing barmaid, which is something else again. . . .

The action spins merrily toward a finale where all is well for those who should have it so and the hands of Sergts. MacAleer and Hogan meet across the border line.

Jimmy O'Dea has a most ingratiating personality—a gift of combined humor and pathos. [The men all do more finished work than do the women.] The scenery is delightful, and some of the sets are charming. Photography, direction, and dialog are commendable and the audience laughed joyously many a time.

Also on the program is a short titled "Kilmainham Jail." I could tell you more about it if there hadn't been such a battle on between the so-called "background music" and the narrator, one, seemingly, trying to drown out the other.

See you tomorrow,

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Passing Show.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 14.—M.-G.-M.'s publicity department is not having much luck with the glamor girls of the lot. First Hedy Lamarr threw the publicity boys for a loss by getting married to Gene Markey. Now Lana Turner, who was in the throes of a terrific buildup as America's girl friend, up and married Artie Shaw.

Metro is the marrying lot of the industry. Nelson Eddy, William Powell, Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Hedy Lamarr, and Lana Turner constitute quite a haul in 12 months. The publicity department, however, will struggle on as bravely as possible. They are now readying interviews in which the ex-Miss Turner will be pictured in the kitchen cooking a clarinet.

RKO has a deal on for a French star. If it goes thru it will be page 1 news for the trade papers.

The Jack Benny program continues to gain fractionally. The Edgar Bergen show continues to slide a trifle. Incidentally, Benny's birthday is St. Valentine's day. As soon as the current option expires that program which gives away dollars by thumbing telephone directories will go off NBC. The radio biggies have decided to nix bingo nights on the air.

Rudy Vallee and Irene Rich up after "flu" attacks. The Alfred J. McCoskers [Mutual broadcasting prexy], who have been here as Vallee's guests, leave for Phoenix to meet Gene Buck. "Lillian Russell" may be changed to "Life and Loves of Lillian Russell." 20th Century-Fox is not too certain that modern youngsters will know who she was. Tempus fugit, et cetera.

In the Vine street Derby, Basil Rathbone tuning in on eastern fight over his portable radio. Grouped around him, Jack Larue, Referee Abe Roth, Fibber McGee and Molly, Bob Cobb, Gail Patrick, and most of the waiters. Just as Trainer Jack Blackburn's magazine piece explaining what Louis would do to Jack Dempsey hit the stands, Louis turned in that sour-ola against Godoy. The laugh is that Blackburn went to some length to explain why Dempsey's crouching, weaving style wouldn't annoy Louis. Godoy's crouch not only annoyed him; it positively bewildered him.

Chamber of Commerce believes that the disappointing tourist influx is due partly to coast to coast comics who have been kidding on the air about the bad weather. Random thought: I am getting pretty tired of Jean Gabin, in French pictures. He has no more change of pace than an escalator. Harry Curland not only is the concessionnaire at Santa Anita Park; he also services the movie crowd with his figures on the horses. And his selections are as tasty as his chow.

Ciro's swanky new restaurant has become to Hollywood what the Stork club and "21" and El Morocco and Monte Carlo represent on the eastern seaboard. Or what Maxim's represents in Paris. Opened during the deluge of rain that swept old settlers out to the open sea, the new rendezvous of the flicker stars got off to a bad start giving eyes to the oft-repeated belief that this movie colony will not support a smart supper club.

But in the last few nights the place has done a land office business, making it almost impossible to get a table. It is a handsome new room, lush in green satin, and it has for a solid draw the music of Emil Coleman, favorite maestro of the cinema celebs. It is owned largely by Billy Wilkerson, who had enormous success at the Trocadero, but the rumor persists that Joe Pastenak, producer of the Durbin pictures, sank a chunk of currency into it. Pasternak denies this, so if it is true he is the only guy in Hollywood who refuses to be associated with a hit.

On St. Pierre road, Claudette Colbert and Dr. Pressman, out hiking, standing on opposite sides of the road as cars scurry by. They would have stopped if Claudette had played that hitch-hike scene from "It Happened One Night."

The Stage

The Playwrights' company will present Maxwell Anderson's latest dramatic success, "Key Largo," starring Paul Muni, for a three week engagement in the Selwyn theater, starting April 1. It will mark Mr. Muni's first stage appearance here since the spring of 1933 when he played in Elmer Rice's "Counselor-at-Law."

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage to Michael, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. Michael knows nothing about the sentence, as Cynthia has given the name of Clara Brown when arrested as Clarke's accomplice in a roadhouse robbery and murder. At the prison Cynthia's childhood friend, Bessie Stockley, is wardress and exchanges places with her so she can marry Michael without telling him of her disgrace. After the honeymoon Cynthia persuades Michael to return to his job in Malta without her and she returns to prison. She discovers she is going to have a baby and breaks prison. Explaining her absence as a lapse of memory, she goes to stay with her husband's mother and sister, Marion, at Cloutleigh. Rory Clarke blackmails Cynthia, and Scotland Yard in their search for Clarke get suspicious of Cynthia. Escorted by Sir William, a family friend, she attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael but is arrested at the airport. Her marriage date, when she was supposed to be in prison, clears her. She goes on to Malta. Bessie applies for a job from Marion, and detectives question her. Bessie gets frightened and sends a telegram of warning to Cynthia. Marion checks up and makes Bessie explain everything. Michael finds Bessie's message and realizes Cynthia has lied, but she begs him to trust her. Marion is questioned by detectives and sees a way to shift the danger from Michael by admitting she knew Clarke. While Marion is staying in Cynthia's flat Clarke attempts to blackmail her but is trailed by the police. Marion becomes fascinated with his daring, and using her as a shield, he steals a dress of Marion's and escapes to the flat above.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

A DARING ESCAPE.

Mrs. Heddleton was on the verge of collapse.

"Keep your head, dear lady, and all will be well," added Clarke. "Have hysterics and you will lose your husband. I mean it—I'm a murderer and the police are after me. You are going to help me escape. Have you a fur coat?"

"O, dear!" faltered Mrs. Heddleton. "A fur coat, did you say? Yes, but it's only an old one."

"Then get it for me at once, please, and your best colored scarf. And remember not to give the alarm." He turned his revolver menacingly in the direction of her husband.

"Stand over there!" he ordered Heddleton, pointing to the far corner of the room.

As the latter obeyed, Clarke set the revolver within easy reach, took from his person a rolled pair of silk stockings, and proceeded to put them on.

Three months ago he had envisaged the necessity of constantly visiting that flat, tho he had expected to deal with Cynthia. He had also anticipated the possibility of his being trapped there—had seen that the existence of a fire-escape would help him, for the police would be sure to concentrate on that.

On the whole he was a bungler who rarely attained his ultimate object. But in sheer daring—in a short, sharp exploit—he was brilliant. Breaking into the flat months ago and donning overalls, he had boldly hammered into the brick-work a sufficiency of steel pegs to enable him to climb within reach of the sill of the upper flat.

He had carried with him Marion's mauve silk dinner frock—which he had donned in the darkness of the Heddleton's bedroom—and a sufficiency of feminine clothing for his purpose.

Mrs. Heddleton, white with fear, returned carrying the fur coat and a scarf.

"Thank you very much—I'm frightfully sorry to trouble you," he said. "You shall have it back tomorrow."

The coat was easy and the scarf he tied carefully. He titivated in front of the mirror, then applied a lipstick liberally.

"I think that will pass, don't you? he asked the Heddletons, for all the world as if he were making up for amateur theatricals. "Now, Mrs. Heddleton," he said briskly, "I want you to sit here quietly until your husband returns. That will be in 20 minutes or so if I escape. If I do not escape, he will not return at all." To Heddleton he added: "Come along."

As one in a walking nightmare, Mr. Heddleton opened the door of his flat.

"As we go downstairs you will chat to me," continued Clarke in an undertone. "I am your niece up from the country and you can blither about London. Theaters and that kind of rot."

Side by side on the staircase, Clarke spoke in a soft tenor which passed easily for a low-pitched feminine voice.

"I shall be awfully excited, Uncle," he said. "I don't even know the names of any of the theaters. There are ever so many, aren't there?"

"Well, there's the——there's the Gaiety in the Strand," said Mr. Heddleton miserably.

They reached the intermediate landing and came in sight of Cynthia's flat. There were two detectives outside the flat.

"Yes, I've heard about the Gaiety, but that's only musical shows, isn't it?"

"Um—yes—er—only musical shows. At the Gaiety, that is. Most of the theaters are round Shaftesbury avenue," said Mr. Heddleton as they passed. "There's the old London Pavilion on the corner—that's a cinema now."

At ground-level the porter was gazing with respectful awe at two detectives standing back in the shadow beyond the foot of the staircase.

"I shall be back in—in a few minues, Wadstoke," said Mr. Heddleton. "I'm just going to take my niece to the theater—I mean put her in a taxi."

"What d'you say, Mr. Heddleton? I'm sorry I wasn't listening," said the porter.

"Never mind, Uncle," said Clarke. "We'll walk to the nearest rank. I do hate being a trouble to anybody."

Clear of the building, Clarke laughed.

"You did your best, Uncle, which was lucky for you. I'll send your wife's fur coat back. Now there's the rank—you get in the first taxi and tell him to drive you to Euston. I shall be following in a second taxi. If you stop your taxi and get out, I shall be waiting behind you with—what's under my coat. When you get to Euston you're thru. You can go home as soon as you like."

In the Heddletons' flat Detective-Sergeant Stevens was interviewing the terrified Mrs. Heddleton who at first, from fear for her husband's safety, would admit nothing.

"It's no good your denying anything, madam. That man did not jump out of the window. He did not go down a drain pipe because there is none. But there are steel wedges leading to your flat. I think you are concealing him here."

"She was here, but she's gone—I mean he has—and he's taken my husband with him," admitted Mrs. Heddleton. "But he was dressed like a woman and he really looked like a woman, and a pretty young one too, except for my fur coat which had been patched twice and was too big for him."

Stevens' junior cut in.

As Mrs. Heddleton confirmed these assertions, the junior took out his watch.

"Beaten us by four and a quarter minutes, sir."

The next day Mrs. Heddleton dutifully reported at Scotland Yard that her fur coat and her scarf had been returned by district messenger. She was shown into Rason's office, who asked her many questions, but gained nothing helpful.

"He does seem to me an extraordinary kind of man for a murderer," opined Mrs. Heddleton. "I mean, in a sort of way it was kind of him to send back my coat, wasn't it?"

"Well, there's that way of looking at it," conceded Rason.

Later, when Stevens was reading over his report, prior to adding it to the already bulky dossier of Clarke's crimes, Rason interrupted.

"We needn't rake that over any more, Stevens. Clarke has made another get-away and that's all there is to it."

"He's been lucky so far, sir," said Stevens. "It's time he made his mistake."

"And if he doesn't make his mistake," grunted Rason, "we shan't get him—until Mrs. Michael Alloway comes home."

GASOLINE ALLEY—NOT THE FORGOTTEN MAN

Thick, Fluffy Frosting Saves a Cake's Face

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Seven minute frosting is one of the simplest and surest of cooked icings, but the name must not be taken too literally. Seven minutes is the usual time for beating the mixture over hot water, but sometimes the frosting requires a little longer and sometimes a little less time. The cook must be able to judge by the texture of the frosting, not relying entirely upon the time test.

Seven Minute Frosting and Variations.

- 1¾ cups granulated sugar
- 5 tablespoons cold water
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 2 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Put sugar, water, cream of tartar, and egg whites into the top of a double boiler over boiling water. Beat with a rotary egg beater for about seven minutes, or until the mixture is fluffy and thick. Remove from heat and add flavoring. Beat with a spoon until the frosting will "pile." Spread on the cake. If the frosting becomes too hard, add a very little boiling water and beat again.

Marshmallow frosting—When the cooking frosting begins to thicken, add a cup of marshmallows, cut into small pieces with scissors. Continue beating and cooking until marshmallows have melted and frosting is thick.

Tutti-frutti frosting—Add one-fourth cup drained, chopped maraschino cherries, one-fourth cup chopped nuts, and one-fourth cup chopped raisins to frosting when it is almost ready to spread.

Coffee frosting—Use light brown sugar instead of white, and strong, freshly made coffee for liquid.

Boiled frosting is made something like divinity. If you're good at divinity, your frosting is almost certain to turn out well. This is a very fluffy, soft frosting when properly made.

Boiled Frosting.

[Enough for three layers.]

- 2½ cups granulated sugar
- ½ cup white corn sirup
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup water
- 3 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Put sugar, corn sirup, salt, and water in sauce pan and stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Wipe sugar crystals away from the sides of the pan. Bring mixture to a boil and boil to 248 degrees by the candy thermometer, the firm, soft ball test in cold water. Remove from heat at once. Beat egg whites until stiff and pour the hot sirup very slowly over them, beating constantly. [An electric beater does this job best.] Add flavoring. Continue beating after sirup is all in until frosting will hold its shape. Spread on cake. If frosting becomes too stiff to spread, add hot water, a little at a time, until the proper consistency is reached.

Tutti-frutti, coconut, and marshmallow variations may be made as for seven minute frosting. Strong coffee may be substituted for the water and a half cup of brown sugar may be substituted for the same amount of white to make a coffee frosting.

Healthy Child Very Unlikely to Be Nervous

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Is your child nervous? Today I'm going to make some general suggestions, adding first a few more comments on the cause of what we can really label nervousness in a child.

In addition to the causes mentioned in the last two days, nervousness may result from an accident, a long and painful illness, an operation under an anesthetic, or a shocking experience such as a burglar breaking into the house. Also constant suppression and ruling by fear may produce a nervous condition.

To begin with, the child who is healthy, who lives a regular and well planned life, who is loved and wisely guided, and who has a favorable home setting is not likely to develop any chronic or serious nervousness.

Another point: Any chronic or acute nervous condition indicates the need of a physical checkup. But whether you are trying to clear up your child's nervousness on your own initiative or on the advice of a physician, the following advice is good:

First, build up your child's bodily health. This will mean regular living, lots of sleep, one or more rest periods in the daytime, outdoor exercise and vigorous play, the right foods with emphasis on milk, vegetables, fruit, and some form of cod liver oil.

Secondly, build your child up mentally and emotionally—nervousness can result from a personality gone a little awry, or from aimlessness, or unhappiness. So, study your child and give him what he needs. What all children need is as happy a family as possible; the expression of their parents' love and interest; the gaining of their compliance without force or severity; companions near their age; materials for work and play and art; a favorable school life.

Of these suggestions I want to emphasize that manual work is a marvelous help for nervous children as well as nervous grownups.

So, building up your child in all aspects of his personality tends to give him the poise which, in turn, tends to banish nervousness.

"Diet Suggestions for the Child from 2 to 6 and Over" is a leaflet of interest to parents, nurses, and teachers. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

The Swedish American Art association will have Gösta Oldenburg, Swedish consul, and Mrs. Oldenburg as guests at a meeting tomorrow evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Lammers, 5222 Lakewood avenue.

Two Useful Spring Patterns

Two patterns today, one for plain or quaintly frilled blouse, the other for shirt and skirt. All the models are simple to make.

In silk or cotton sheer the blouse at upper left is a dressy one. Insertions of lace are important. The other blouse version of this pattern is a snugly fitted jacket style with buttons the only trim.

The shirt is the traditional type that tucks into the skirt waistband. The skirt is a flared model without gores.

Style No. 3208 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material for basque blouse; 2 yards for lingerie blouse, with 5 yards of lace insertion and 4½ yards of lace edging.

Style No. 2528 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for long sleeved blouse; 2 yards of 54 inch for skirt.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Pianist Given First Debut of New Foundation

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The National Artists' Foundation was formed recently by Norman Alexandroff of Chicago for the purpose of launching fully prepared artists on their careers without compelling them to take part in contests, bear the expense of an independent debut, or try to sell tickets to relatives. At the Studebaker theater last night, before a big invited audience, the foundation presented its first protégée—the Chicago pianist, Alexandra Veeta.

In a program of Bach, Scarlatti, and a variety of modern composers Miss Veeta made an impression which can only be described as mixed. An astounding dexterity and a lively musical imagination were partly offset by psychic difficulties which may have been due in large measure to the strain inevitable under the circumstances.

For this, remember, was no ordinary debut recital, but an attempt to live up immediately to the term "great artist"—a term which the foundation uses to describe the only type of person in which it is interested. Human nervous systems are not made to withstand stresses like this.

The dexterity alluded to above was equal to every problem of this sort that the program posed. And Miss Veeta's musical imagination served to personalize everything she did and to make each separate little piece distinct and recognizable of its kind. While we are on the good points of the performance mention must be made of an enchanting pianissimo worthy at times of Myra Hess herself.

The only faults worth noting were a frequent lack of flow and richness and sonority, and an occasional fussiness in the shaping of a phrase. The first sprang partly from a top-of-the-keys manner of playing which precluded a luminous melody line, partly from a lack of such psychic qualities as repose and command and confidence. The second—the occasional fussiness—seemed to be a direct result of an inner tenseness and stiffness and overeagerness.

Eugenie Fichtenová, Czech-Russian violinist, made her first American appearance in Kimball hall last night. Judging by a hearing of a portion of the Dvorak concerto, she is a musician possessed of verve, imagination, and great technical resource. The contours of her phrasings and the character of her tonal effects were genuinely arresting.

Christian Century Editor to Talk on Press and War

Dr. Paul Hutchinson, editor of The Christian Century, will speak on the American press and its relation to the war tomorrow night at the gallery of the United American Artists, 205 East Superior street. The lecture will be sponsored by the Book and Magazine guild.

Legal Sorority.

Gamma chapter of Kappa Beta Pi legal sorority will sponsor a fashion parade and card party this evening at the Drake hotel. Miss Leona K. Ware is chairman.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Bridge writers of the present era, as distinguished from many of the old time auction authorities, take pains to point out that conventions and rules of play are, at best, mere generalities, to be thrown overboard whenever the exigencies of the situation demand it. Unfortunately, however, the inherited fallacies from auction still have great influence on the thought processes of thousands of players. In today's hand, to have followed the "rule of third hand high" would have cost the defenders a game.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West, to protect his major suit honors, chose to lead the deuce of clubs. Had East been of the "blind obedience-to-rules" school, and put up the club ace, declarer could have spread his hand for nine top tricks. But East preferred to think. The only lay of cards that would make the play of the club ace advisable, namely, K 10 x x in the opening leader's hand, seemed very remote. It was much more likely that the declarer held the K or Q-10, in either of which cases there was no necessity to play the ace at the first opportunity; whereas, if declarer held both the king and queen, the ace play would immediately establish both honors. Therefore East played the jack of clubs to the first trick.

Declarer won and successively tried to establish his ninth trick in diamonds, hearts, and spades. The adverse lay of cards was too much for him, however, and strive as he might, he could never win more than his eight top tricks.

Obviously, the play of the ace of clubs would have made the no trump game contract an absolute laydown. As a matter of fact, declarer still could have made nine tricks by stripping East of spades and hearts and throwing him in with a diamond to force a lead away from the club ace. But this would have been double-dummy play in that it required knowledge of where the club ace really lay.

What we mean by 2 Tender Made Ham STEAKS PLUS
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Like the great man whose anniversary we celebrate this month, "I cannot tell a lie." When you read about those two thick luscious tender steaks you get "plus" whenever you buy a whole Wilson's Tender Made Ham, that does not mean they come wrapped alongside the ham. But it does mean that they come inside the ham itself, because Tender Made Ham does not have disappointing oven-shrinkage. Therefore you do, actually, have the eating equivalent of two more steaks. And take it from me, they are good!

George Rector
Food Consultant Wilson & Co.

POUNDS OR OUNCES?

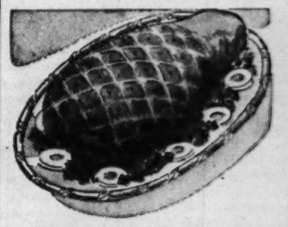
There's no use looking for paid-for pounds lost in oven shrinkage. They are gone forever! When an ordinary whole ham is put in the oven, the housewife must be resigned to taking out two or even three pounds fewer than she put in—and paid for. Oven shrinkage is often as great as 20% or 25% of the original weight of the ham.

With Wilson's Tender Made Ham, there is practically no shrinkage—not more than a very few ounces for a whole, mouth-watering ham. Think of the economy that means!

Fuel Saving, Too!

There are extra pennies to drop in the family savings bank when you choose Wilson's Tender Made Ham because it comes ready to eat just as you buy it.

Or to serve it hot, have ham at room temperature. Then heat in a moderate oven (350° F.) only 5 minutes to the pound.



Stuffed Tender Made Ham

Try serving a Tender Made Ham boned and stuffed. The dealer will remove the bone from the underside without affecting the appearance of the ham as it is served.

Fill cavity with a stuffing made from 3 cups fresh bread cubes, ¾ cup each of crushed pineapple, chopped walnuts, seedless raisins and honey, plus a pinch of salt. Close the cut with tiny skewers laced together with white twine.

Heat as directed above, remove ham from oven, take off rind, score fat and stud with cloves. Increase heat to 450° F. and baste frequently with honey or fruit juice for 15 minutes.

SAVE THE BONE!

Thar's goodness in them thar bones. By all means make a fine pot of black bean, lentil or split pea soup with the bone removed from Tender Made Ham.

CLEAR WAY FOR GOLDEN GLOVES OPEN BOUTS

BEARS OBTAIN M'AFEE, MIHAL FROM EAGLES

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Draft rights to George McAfee, Duke university's star triple threat half back, and to Joe Mihal, one of the country's outstanding linemen in 1938 at Purdue, were transferred to the Chicago Bears yesterday by the Philadelphia Eagles in exchange for Russ Thompson and Milt Trost, veteran tackles. It was a straight player trade with no cash involved, George Halas, owner of the Bears, announced.

Joe Mihal.

In acquiring the right to negotiate with McAfee and Mihal, Halas adds two more highly prized rookies to the Bear roster which already is studded with the finest array of box office attractions in the National Football league. McAfee, a tail back who starred in the 1939 Rose Bowl game, will be converted into a right half back if he accepts a Bear contract.

He's Expert Pass Catcher.

McAfee kicks, passes, and runs, but is most dangerous as a pass catcher. College coaches recommend him as the best receiver in football, excepting only Don Hutson of Green Bay. This ability will make him especially valuable at right half back, fortifying the Bears against the loss of Bob MacLeod, who has indicated that he will not return next fall.

Five feet eleven inches tall and weighing 185 pounds, McAfee entered Duke from Ironton, O., where he gained recognition as an all-around man in interscholastic athletics. He is a southpaw passer and kicker.

Mihal was drafted by the Eagles in 1938 after a spectacular year as regular tackle and captain of the Purdue eleven. He was elected to a starting position on the Tribune's All-Star team last summer and opposed the Giants. After hearing the Eagles' proposition, he decided to return to Purdue to study for a master's degree and to accept a position as assistant superintendent of a resident hall on the Boilermaker campus. The year of inactivity has made Mihal anxious to return to football and Halas expects no difficulty in coming to terms with him.

Weighs 230—and He's Fast.

Mihal's chief asset is speed. Despite his 230 pounds distributed over six feet 2½ inches, he was the second fastest man on the Purdue squad and more often than not possessed greater speed than any player in the opposing lineup. He is a product of the steel mill district in Gary and was an honor student at Purdue.

The trade was equally advantageous to the Eagles, who are in dire need of experienced linemen to protect Davey O'Brien, the mighty midget quarterback. Thompson, 6 feet 5 inches tall and weighing 240 pounds, and Trost, a former Marquette star, are better players than any other tackles on the Eagles roster and will give the Philadelphians help where they need it most. Thompson, a former Nebraska player, was with the Bears four seasons, playing regular right tackle the last two seasons. Trost, a left tackle, has been the Bears' No. 1 relief man at that position for five years.

GOODYEARS WHIP BRUINS, 37 TO 34, IN FINAL PERIOD

Chicago's Playoff Hopes Fade After Defeat.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
Akron Goodyear, 37; Chicago, 34.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

The Chicago Bruins' hope of reaching the playoffs for the National Basketball league championship received another setback last night when they dropped their third contest within a week to the Akron Goodyears, 37 to 34, before 2,500 in the 132d armory. The Bruins led during part of the third quarter, but lost their advantage in the final period.

Wibs Kautz sank six field goals and five free throws, but his Bruin teammates failed to find the range. As a result the Bruins must win five of their six remaining games to qualify for the title series between the western and eastern division winners next month.

Ben Stephens and Jake Nagode each connected on two long shots to give the Goodyears a 10 to 8 lead at the end of the first quarter. At the end of the half the Akron quintet held a 17 to 15 advantage.

Bruins Come to Life.

Then as the third period opened it appeared that the Bruins might be on the way to their twelfth victory and a tie for second place in the western division standings. Elmer Johnson sank a free throw and then Kautz followed with a basket and the Chicagoans led for the first time, 18 to 17. Mike Novak, several of whose well directed shots caromed off the edge of the basket, finally slipped one thru and Frank Linskey made good a free toss before the Goodyears began clicking again.

The Akron quintet was held to three field goals in the period, one each by Stephens, Floyd Ebaugh, and Eugene Anderson.

St. James Five Wins.

The quarter ended with the Bruins leading, 25 to 23. A long shot by Anderson tied the score early in the fourth period, but Kautz sent the Bruins ahead again, 26 to 25, on a free throw. Baskets by Stephens and Ebaugh gave the Goodyears the lead and they never relinquished it.

In a preliminary game St. James of the Polish Roman Catholic union defeated St. Louis, 31 to 18. St. James led at the end of the first half, 14 to 9.

DE CORREVONT'S AT N. U. TO STAY, AND HAPPY, TOO

Bill DeCorrevont, Northwestern university's widely publicized football player whose showing as a sophomore half back last fall fell far short of expectations, denied again yesterday the radio report that he had threatened to quit the university unless changes in the football coaching staff were made. In the denial, however, De Correvont admitted that in January he had telegraphed to a friend in Los Angeles to find out if he could enroll at the University of Southern California for the second semester.

Bill said yesterday that since then he has changed his mind about leaving Northwestern and that as a result of conversations with university officials and Coach Lynn Waldorf he was anticipating competition in football next fall. DeCorrevont has passed in his first semester studies, it was reported yesterday, and he expects to try out for the baseball team which is now training indoors in Patten gymnasium.

Cocker Spaniel Wins Title in Dogdom's World Series

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 14.—Champion My Own Brucie, a coal black cocker spaniel, became king of canines tonight. His choice as best-in-show and best American bred dog at the climax of the 64th Annual Westminster Kennel Club show in Madison Square Garden was acclaimed by a crowd of 7,000 which had not been happy about some upsets in group judging earlier in the day.

The first of his breed to win a Westminster since 1921, Brucie came into the three day show as a leading favorite among the 2,738 entered in this blue ribbon event of dogdom. He was best American bred here last year, and went on to rank best at the giant Morris and Essex club outdoor show last May. Seldom has a dog achieved such high honors in a year's time.

Easly Decision for the Judge.

In perfect condition, with beautiful neck and shoulders and strong hind quarters, Brucie's confident, pert ideal cocker gait won the crowd at once. He was handled by his owner, Herman E. Mellenthin of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Dr. Samuel Milbank, vice president of Westminster, required only 20 minutes to agree that Brucie was better than the five other group winners gaining the finals.

Judged best brace [two of a breed] in the show were Blakeen Mirandello and Ch. Blakeen Michael Mont, poodles from the Blakeen kennels of Mrs. Sherman Hoyt, Katonah, N. Y.

Best team was that of four Shetland sheepdogs—Ch. Sea Isle Merle Legacy, Timberidge Truth of Pocono, Penstemon of Beach Tree, and Bit Bo Dot. Blue Flag of Pocono—owned by Elizabeth D. Whelen of Fairview Village, Pa.

Florsheim Terrier Fourth.

Ch. Nornay Saddler, smooth haired fox terrier with a black saddle and black head, was one of Brucie's rivals in the finals as best of terriers. He has 51 best in show awards to his credit and was best terrier here last year. Nornay Saddler was handled by his owner, James M. Austin of Old Westbury, N. Y.

Harold M. Florsheim of Chicago took a fourth place ribbon in the terrier group with his Airedale king, Ch. Boynehouse Brutus of Harham. Second in the terrier group was Ch. Aman Superb of Halcyon, owned by Mrs. Edward Clark of Goshen, N. Y. The Wooley Bedlington, Ch. Lady Rowena of Rowanoaks, owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Harbauer of Houghton Lake, Mich., took third, and was judged best American bred in the group.

Honors to Milwaukee Boxer.

Runner-up to Brucie among sporting dogs was the lovely liver and white springer spaniel, Ch. Showman of Shotton, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Quay of Chagrin Falls, O. Mr. and Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., who had two in the group final, took third with their English setter, Ch. Maro of Maridor, which won best of show in 1938. Fourth was Rosecroft Premier, owned by C. F. Neilson of Shrewsbury, N. J. Champion Utz Von Dom, proud fawn colored Boxer owned by John Phelps Wagner of Milwaukee won acclaim as best of the working dog group earlier in the night.

My Own Brucie, cocker spaniel, which won highest honors last night in Westminster Kennel club show in New York.

Beautifully shown by Len Brumby, he was a popular choice of a gallery which had seen three straight major upsets. A mass sigh of relief mingled with the spontaneous applause that greeted the decision of Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge of Madison, N. J. The champion nodded his black muzzled head as Mrs. Dodge said her award was based on all-around superiority and his having more fine points than his rivals.

It's His 17th Triumph.

Imported from Germany last April, Ch. Utz has been named best of group in 17 of 21 shows in which he has been exhibited since last August. He also won one best-in-show award. He is a younger brother of Ch. Lustic Von Dom, famous show Boxer. Wagner also won the Westminster group award with Dorian Von Marienhof of Mazelaine, international champion Boxer now at stud in Milwaukee.

Three best-of-breed dogs from Chicago failed to get in the money. They were Ch. Hertzville Headstudy, Collie owned by C. J. Cassleman and Thomas M. Halpin; Sieg Von Glenhugel, Dobermann owned by John T. Brueggeman, and Owen A. West's German shepherd, Ch. Afra V. Hogeluft.

ST. JOHN'S BEATS BRADLEY, 37-35, IN 2D OVERTIME

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 14 [Special].—St. John's university of Brooklyn defeated Bradley Tech, 37 to 35, in a double overtime game before 4,500 here tonight. Jim White sank two long shots in the second extra five minute period to give his time the victory. Paul McCall made a long basket for Bradley in the second.

St. John's trailed at the half, 16 to 14, but was ahead 31 to 29 with three minutes to go. McCall's long shot then sent the game into overtime. In the first extra period Jack Gellen hit from the side, but Bradley's Ken Olson tied the count with a minute to play.

CANADIENS SIGN AMATEUR STAR FOR HAWK GAME

Tonight's Games

Chicago at Montreal.
Detroit at New York Rangers.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 14 (AP).—Gordie Poirier of the St. Hyacinthe amateur team was signed by the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey league tonight and will play tomorrow night against the Chicago Blackhawks here.

Poirier teamed with Albert and Tony Lemay on the highest scoring line in the provincial senior hockey league.

Canadiens Drop Three.

The Blackhawks, currently the surprise team of the National Hockey league, arrived here tonight. Indications are that one of the largest crowds of the season, impelled mostly by curiosity to see the team that vanquished the powerful New York Rangers twice in a row, will witness the contest.

The Canadiens have dropped three former stars, Cyclone Wentworth, Marty Barry, and Earl Robinson, have recalled Goalie Wilf Cude to replace Claude Bourque and have added four players, Defense Man Marcel Raymond and Forwards Rhys Thompson, Smiley Meronek, and Pete Demers in addition to Poirier.

They Can Gain Game.

The Canadiens, who broke an 11 game losing streak by defeating the Red Wings in Detroit last Sunday, have begun to rebuild. The club's directors feel that immediate rejuvenation is necessary if the Canadiens are to win out over the New York Americans in the final stages of the race to qualify for the play-offs.

At present the Canadiens are only a game and a half behind the Americans. As the Americans are idle tomorrow night, a victory over the Hawks will place the Candiens within half a game of sixth place.

Fort Smith Southwest Time-Record preliminaries.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The last blow of the Golden Gloves novice tournament was struck last night in Loyola gymnasium, clearing the way for the open division bouts which will determine Chicago's champions. These will be held in the Coliseum Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week.

With every important local amateur boxer among the entries, the Coliseum engagements are sure to bring out the tightest competition in the history of Chicago's Golden Gloves eliminations. It will be a fight to a finish, for only one boy will be left unbeaten in each weight class when the last punch lands.

In other years the best local amateurs sometimes evaded each other by qualifying for the Tournament of Champions from different sections—but Chicago's boxing public won't have to do any guessing this time about who is the city's best. It will be settled in the Coliseum ring in three consecutive nights of incessant action.

Three Nights in Coliseum.

The winners will go into the Tournament of Champions, which will be run off Feb. 26, 27, and 28 in the Stadium. There they will be thrown into the field against the best fighters of 23 states, who are now qualifying in preliminary events held in 43 out of town centers where newspapers are coöperating with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the promotion of these bouts.

The Coliseum fights will add immensely to the Chicago fans' interest in the Tournament of Champions. In next week's engagements they will get a chance to pick their heroes; then they'll be eager to see how these youngsters fare against the strongest talent that can be gathered in the vast Golden Gloves territory.

In anticipation of three nights of spectacular fighting, local fans have launched a rush on the two Tribune Public Service offices where tickets are on sale for the Coliseum bouts. These offices are located at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower lobby.

Competition Is Keen.

The names on the entry list revive the fans' recollections of great bouts they've seen in other Golden Gloves tournaments. They know what to expect, for instance, when fighters of the caliber of Walter Cavaleri, Harold Dade, and William Hawkins are going after the same championship. If one of these three flyweights gets it, he'll do it only after a tremendous struggle, or if some one of the lesser known boxers comes up and captures it, he will know he's been thru a terrific fight.

The 118 pound competition will bring out Willie Moon, Ray Brown, Tony Bausone, Art Altizer, Berlin Hadnott and other formidable boxers. Joe Dupont and Frank Bausone, veterans of Golden Glove competition, will be up against tough going in the featherweight class.

Among the lightweights expected to give a strong account of themselves are Warren Tekip, Stanley Stockins, and Eddie O'Connell. The fans will be watching Homer Williams, Harry Sparrow, Savior Canadeo, Louis Angelucci, and Stanley Murczek with particular attention in the welterweight fighting.

Thomas, Wells Are Back.

NEED A ROD? YOU CAN WIN ONE IN CASTING TOURNEY

Tribune Contests Attract Fishermen.

BY BOB BECKER.

Some lucky fisherman is going to leave the International amphitheater next Thursday night with a new five foot bait casting rod. It will be the reward to the angler for his expert rod and reel work in the fishermen's event which will be held that night in the International Outdoor Sportsmen's show as a part of the Tribune casting tournament. This five foot, tubular steel rod is one of several tackle prizes that will be awarded to winners in THE TRIBUNE'S obstacle casting contest. The second place winner will get an assortment of five casting lures. Winners of third and fourth places also get fishing tackle prizes.

Plenty of Prizes.

THE TRIBUNE is sponsoring a casting contest of some description [Skish, obstacle, or fly] every day of the show which opens Saturday and continues thru Feb. 25. Not only bait casting rods, but handsome reels, lines, lures and other fishing equipment will be given to winners. Casters who wish to compete are urged to fill out the entry blank at once and mail it to this department.

Out of town casters have become so interested in THE TRIBUNE'S tournament that they're asking for an opportunity to compete. To accommodate visiting casters THE TRIBUNE has scheduled a special contest for five-man teams on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 25. In this competition several teams representing Chicago casting clubs will face teams from Waukesha, Wis.; Milwaukee; Kenosha, Wis.; Gary, Ind.; South Bend, Ind.; Muskegon, Mich.; and other nearby cities. Out of town clubs wishing to take part also should contact this department.

Experts Begin to Gather.

Celebrities who hold titles in a wide variety of specialties already are arriving in Chicago for the opening of the show Saturday. Among those who will appear are Watson Peck and Willard Jack of Nova Scotia, former world champion log rollers; Slingshot Charlie, the remarkable slingshot marksman of Reelfoot Lake, Tenn.; and Doc Wellman, Curly Moulton, Tony Acetta, and other nationally known casters.

A spectacular feature of the show will be the daily ski jumping indoors, with Anders Haugen, former Olympic champion, heading a trio that will include Nick Nylund, former champion of Finland, and Harvey Nilsen, the American born skier who appeared at the New York World's Fair last year.

Compete on Reeds.

The ski slide, now in the course of construction at the amphitheater, towers 85 feet and extends 250 feet in length. The takeoff will be just under the roof of the building at the east end, and the finish will be within the arena at the extreme west end. Reeds gathered from along the Mississippi river and specially treated with chemicals to simulate ice will be used.

GLENBARD READY TO HAIL ANOTHER PREP TITLE TEAM

Quintet Plays La Grange; Seeks Eleventh in Row.

Citizens of Glen Ellyn, the quiet, little village 24 miles to the west of Chicago, are making preparations for the coronation of another prep championship team tomorrow night. Last fall Glenbard High school's eleven marched to the West Suburban conference football title, and now the heavyweight basketball squad is ready to continue the parade.

Henry Booher.

The title bound quintet scored its 10th consecutive victory last week, trouncing Riverside, 44 to 25. This triumph assured Glenbard of at least a tie for the championship. La Grange, Glen Ellyn's friendly neighbor and closest rival in the league race, will send its squad to Glenbard's gymnasium tomorrow and attempt to sidetrack the ceremonies, but Glenbard's supporters are certain no quintet in the area can accomplish the feat.

Coach is a Modest Man.

Sitting on Glenbard's bench will be a modest Minnesotan, Henry [Hank] Booher, the school's new coach in football, basketball, and track, whose presence was felt by members of the Chicago district's coaching fraternity as soon as he took over the football coaching duties last fall. It is Booher's second year at Glenbard. He served as assistant in 1938 to Ralph Fletcher, Glenbard's former head coach, who resigned to become freshman football coach at the University of Illinois.

A graduate of Moorhead, Minn., State Teachers' college, Booher participated in four sports, football, basketball, baseball, and track. After his graduation he remained at Moorhead for one year to coach the frosh football and basketball squads. Booher then spent three years as football, basketball, and track coach at Breckenridge [Minn.] High school before accepting the position at Glenbard.

It's a Veteran Team.

Booher's regular heavyweight quintet, which has averaged 35 points a game, is composed of four seniors and one junior. The seniors include Jack Charlesworth and Andy Colley, forwards; John Malm, center, and George Seyfer, guard. The lone junior is Glenn Bruning, guard.

Malm and Charlesworth have been the team's leading scorers, the former averaging 17 points and Charlesworth 10. The squad, in its 10 conference contests, has rolled up 366 points to opponents' 229. And Glenbard's supporters are confident their team's scoring record will be well over 400 points tomorrow night.

AMUNDSEN AND FENGER SENIORS AND JUNIORS WIN

Amundsen strengthened its hold on first place in the north section senior race of the Chicago Public High School Basketball league by trimming Von Steuben, 41 to 27, yesterday on Von Steuben's court. It was the seventh victory in eight starts for the Amundsen quintet.

The victors' attack was led by Henry Ludwig with six baskets and two free throws for 14 points. In the junior game, Amundsen was forced to go overtime to beat Von Steuben, 24 to 21.

Lindblom was eliminated from the central section senior race as far as a playoff berth is concerned when DuSable turned in a 41 to 24 triumph. Oscar Green paced DuSable, registering nine field goals and two free throws. It was the third setback in seven games for Lindblom.

In the other league encounters in the south section, Fenger, playing on its own court, won two from Bowen, 32 to 22, in the junior division, and 39 to 25, in the senior section.

Alex Kettles Quits Pro Ring After 3 Years

Alex Kettles, 1937 South Bend, Ind., sectional Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, has retired from the ring after competing in the professional field less than three years, Managers Sam Pian and Art Winch said yesterday.

Kettles, 22 years old, suffered a one round knockout at the hands of Dan Merritt, 1938 Chicago Golden Gloves title holder, in Marigold gardens, Oct. 23, 1939, in his last appearance. In 28 pro fights the Indiana youngster won 20, scored two draws, and lost six times, twice by knockouts.

Inability to obtain suitable opponents forced promoters to cancel proposed contests for Tony Zale in Seattle Feb. 27 and Minneapolis, March 8. As a result, the recent conqueror of Al Hostak may make his next start in Youngstown, O., Feb. 29.

Davey Day's managers are negotiating for a lightweight elimination bout between Day and the winner of a 15 round battle between Lew Jenkins of Sweetwater, Tex., and Tippy Larkin of New Jersey, in Madison Square Garden March 8, the ultimate survivor to oppose Champion Lew Ambers later. However, there are reports that Ambers will renounce his title if he conquers Al Davis in the Garden Feb. 23 in order to qualify for a welterweight championship encounter against Henry Armstrong. In that event, Day, recognized as No. 1 lightweight contender by the National Boxing association, is willing to meet New York's foremost challenger for the right to be called Ambers' successor. Pete Lello, No. 3 135 pound leader, will attempt to qualify for a rematch against Jenkins in a 10 round semi-final on the Jenkins-Larkin card. Pete's foe will be Tony Marteliano. Lello knocked out Jenkins in White City last March 24.

Baseball Stars Open Play Today in Golf Tourney

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP).—Wes Ferrell, Brooklyn pitcher, will start the defense of his national baseball golf title at Palma Ceia tomorrow when a field of 41 players, largest in the history of the event, tees off in a 36 hole medal test.

The defending champion is automatically qualified in the title flight, but he said today he intended to play the two medal rounds in an effort to accustom himself to the course.

Al Lopez, Tampa's only major league baseball player, and catcher for the Boston Bees, will open the tournament tomorrow when he fires the first drive of the medal round.

Golden Gloves Advance to Open Tourney

ings in the battle for the middleweight title. Hezzie Williams will have to reckon with David Brown and many other hard hitters in the 175 pound division. The heavyweight struggle will bring out Cornelius Young, veteran of many a close victory.

When this array of fighters goes into action Chicago's boxing fans will see a new phase of Golden Gloves competition. During the last two weeks they have been entertained with the rough and tumble fighting of the novices—and they've liked it a lot. Anything the boys lacked in skill they made up with courage and eagerness. In the Coliseum bouts, however, the fans will see clashes between veteran boxers who are skilled in ring generalship, who time their punches to the split second, and who use every ounce of hitting power with efficiency.

48 Novices Qualify.

The survivors of the north, west, and south side novice tournaments are eligible to go into these Coliseum bouts if they wish. Some of them gained so much confidence against opponents of their own division that they undoubtedly will continue their campaign. Others will decide that they've had enough for the present and will move along gradually until next year, fortified with experience, they'll be heard from in the open division.

118 POUNDS—Patrick Ciangi, C. Y. O., Leonard Dybas, P. R. C. A.

175 POUNDS—Elmer Suchy, Algonquin, Ill., Buddy Mitchell, Madison A. C.

HEAVYWEIGHT — Harold Raskin, unattached, Harold Dorband, Evanston.

Sixteen novices—two in each weight division—qualified from each of Chicago's sections. Last night's bouts in Loyola gymnasium climaxed three consecutive evenings of fighting by the north side candidates.

In one of the more strategically fought bouts Harold Raskin outpointed Henry Carfora. Raskin used a sharp straight left to pile up points in the first round. Carfora came back strong as the second started, but soon Raskin's left reasserted itself. Both were tired in the third, during which Raskin maintained just enough advantage to get the decision.

A Wild One Connects.

Walter Wajcik and Donald Taylor kept the crowd in an uproar with a series of wild, swift punches in their featherweight bout. It was apparent that if and when one of these landed the bout would be over. This occurred midway in the second round, Majcik shooting in a body blow that sent his opponent to the floor with the wind knocked out of him.

SELECT TAMPA FOR ALL-STAR GAME MARCH 17

Dodgers Sign Seventeen Players.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP).—Tampa was chosen today as the site of the All-Star baseball game between two picked National and American league teams for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund, and Sunday, March 17, was selected as the date.

Tampa was chosen over Miami and St. Petersburg largely because of the greater seating capacity of its park, which can accommodate 9,000. This includes about 1,000 box seats, which will be sold for whatever the traffic will stand. Temporary seats will be strung out the length of the foul lines, bringing the seating capacity to nearly 20,000.

A minimum goal of $25,000 was set, but the expectation was that receipts would reach $50,000.

DODGERS SIGN 17.

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers, who all winter have withheld any information on contracts, announced tonight the names of 17 players who have signed.

The batterymen will open the club's spring training here tomorrow and with two exceptions every player on hand has signed. Pitchers Luke Hamlin, a 20 game winner last year, and Tex Carleton have been invited to camp to discuss terms. Three other pitchers, unsigned and uninvited, were Al Hollingsworth, Vito Tamulis, and Tot Pressnell.

The signed players include Pitchers Mungo, Wyatt, Casey, Crouch, Doyle, Ferrell, Fitzsimmons, Kimball, Macon, Nahem, and Rachunok; Catchers Phelps, Mancuso, Hartje, and Franks; Infielder Reese and Outfielder Gilbert.

BEES GO SOUTH.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 14 (AP).—The vanguard of the Boston Bees, eight players led by Jack Onslow, new manager of the Hartford Eastern League Baseball club, will board a train here Friday for Bradenton, Fla.

Others will be picked up along the way. A total of 30 players is expected to detrain at camp.

ENTRIES CLOSE FOR BADMINTON TOURNEY TODAY

Entries for the seventh annual Chicago district badminton tournament under the auspices of the Chicago Badminton club will close today with Fred Schmid, chairman of the entry committee. The meet will open next Thursday and continue Friday and Saturday at Concordia Teachers' college, River Forest.

Wright college of Chicago is the defending champion, having won from Morton in the 1939 finals in the Midway fieldhouse. Morton already has clinched the Northern Illinois conference title with 13 victories in 14 starts. Wilson of Chicago rates second with nine victories and four losses. Pairings for the first round of the state tourney follow:

CONCESSION ROW IN A. B. C. COMES TO PEACEFUL END

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 14 (AP).—A compromise agreement today ended a dispute between the board of state fair managers and the American Bowling Congress over concession rights that had brought a threat to cancel the A. B. C. tourney opening in Detroit March 7.

The Detroit A. B. C. Bowling Tournament company, organized to present the 40th annual competition, agreed to give 25 per cent of its net profit—if any—to the fair board. In return, the board agreed that a contract granting the company exclusive concession rights during the tournament would be recognized.

The fair board's executive committee had served notice it considered the contract null and void inasmuch as it was signed prior to formation of the board.

AMERICAN PAPER MONEY EXPORTS DIP IN JANUARY

Europe Gets $4,250,000, Bank Estimates.

New York, Feb. 14 [Special.]—Shipments of United States currency to Europe in January exceeded imports by about $4,250,000, compared with net exports of $6,300,000 in December and $4,700,000 in January, 1939, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported today.

Aggregate exports and imports have not yet been disclosed, but it is understood the imports were nominal in amount. The January flow of American paper currency lifted to an alltime high the amount of such currency held in foreign countries.

What may be the total of currency, held outside of the United States is not known, altho there have been estimates ranging from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000.

Large Circulation in Cuba.

Net shipments of currency to Europe for the calendar year 1939 were $100,400,000, the total exports being $110,200,000 and the imports only $9,800,000. That compared with 1938 exports of $33,100,000 and imports of $34,400,000, the net imports being $1,300,000. In 1937 exports were $21,500,000 and imports were $47,600,000.

Because the figures reported monthly are only for a selected list of banks in New York City, they are believed to understate the actual movements by amount, varying from 10 to 20 per cent. Most of the demand by foreigners for American paper money, whether for hoarding or other purposes, is met thru New York.

Mail Jam Is Factor.

Some observers said the January figure might have revealed larger net exports had it not been for the temporary tieup of American mail pending clarification of postoffice restrictions on articles mailable to belligerents under the neutrality law. The mail jam did not reach large proportions until Jan. 29. The postoffice issued a ruling which broke the jam last Friday.

The heaviest movement of American currency abroad was in March and April, 1939, when net exports were $26,400,000 and $45,800,000 respectively.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—7.

Altho the federal revenue act permits certain deductions from gross income as outlined in last Sunday's article, the taxpayer must be careful not to deduct those expenses and losses which are not allowed by the law. Only a month is left for the preparation of individual income tax returns for 1939. The return and the first quarterly instalment of the tax must be in the office of the collector of internal revenue by March 15.

In general, no deductions can be made for personal, living, or family expenses. Do not subtract from gross income the cost of food, clothing, education of yourself or dependents, rent of home, repairs to home, medical attention, insurance on home, on family car or your life, carfare, alimony or separation allowances, attorney's fees for divorce or separation, and expense of automobile used for pleasure.

Don't Deduct These.

Other items which you may not deduct are:

1. Amount paid to buy new property or make permanent improvements on old property.

2. Expenses to obtain damages for personal injury, a bequest, alimony or other nontaxable income.

3. Losses on transactions between members of a family, such as husband, wife, full or half sister or brother, ancestors and lineal descendants.

4. Losses from the sale of personal residence not producing income [any gain would be taxable].

5. Net gambling losses.

6. Club dues, if for personal pleasure or convenience.

7. Capital expenditures, such as investments, stock exchange seats, or for modernization of property.

8. Contributions which do not benefit you in your trade or profession. [Dues to professional or trade groups are deductible.]

9. Damages paid for libel, slander, breach of promise to marry, or negligence in driving your automobile while not on business.

10. Fines or penalties for violating the law.

Graft or Bribes.

11. Graft, lobbying expenses or bribes.

12. Litigation costs not resulting from business or profession.

13. Losses from fictitious sales, illegal deals or from ventures operated for pleasure or as hobbies.

14. Certain taxes, such as estate, federal income, gift, and inheritance taxes, special assessments for property improvements, social security taxes deducted from salary, sales taxes not required legally of the consumer and tax penalties.

15. Cost of gifts.

[The above list is not all inclusive. If you have a particular question, write to this department. Next Sunday's article will discuss capital gains and losses.]

BLAST OF WAR GUNS SHAKES UP TREATY TRADE

And UncleSam Finds Himself the Loser.

[This is the seventh in a series of articles discussing the effects of the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaties on agriculture and industry in the United States.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

When the thunder of big guns shook Europe last September, strange things started happening to some of the American foreign trade that had been set up under the Hull reciprocal trade treaties.

There were instances in which foreign competition which had been declared ruinous by certain American industries and agriculturists ceased abruptly. For one thing, England's exports of cheap cotton cloth made of duty free American cotton dropped to almost nothing.

On th other hand American producers lost entirely their export trade of bacon and hams to England. These purchases had run into the millions of dollars each year.

Canada Gets Benefits.

Not until several weeks after hostilities began did American packers and producers learn that [1] England had transferred her pork trade to Canada, contracting for the dominion's output and, [2] Canada had boosted her prices to the mother country, determining to supply her own domestic needs from the United States. In addition, a campaign to hammer down American pork prices had been launched.

The great difference between pork prices in the two countries was the first clew. Canadian farmers were and are getting $2.50 to $4.50 a hundred pounds more for their hogs than Americans are paid.

Next, Canadian agents at the American markets took the position that Canada now is the only large export buyer of American pork and demanded full benefit of the low prices. United States production is the highest in six years, and hog and pork prices are the lowest in six years].

Packers Reject Business.

Several Chicago packers, impatient at the Canadians' constant dickering for bargains and their strict demands for certain type carcasses, have turned down this business, they said this week. The dominion packers' agents insist on dressed carcasses from light hogs, preferably rangy ones, suitable for Wiltshire sides.

This is the whole side of a hog, excepting the head and feet, cured in the regular manner and classified in the Canadian trade as bacon and ham. England has contracted for a minimum of 233 million pounds and possibly 291 million a year from Canada.

England's normal consumption of bacon and ham was estimated last year by the United States department of agriculture at 860 million pounds a year. Much of this was supplied by the United States.

Guards Her New Market.

But with England's trade shift to Canada, Chicago packers declare, the dominion is determined to protect her new market from American hogs and pork—on which she is bound under the Hull treaties to grant concessions. As it is, with American production so large, the Canadian purchases make hardly a dent.

Private estimates are that about 3,000 carcasses a day are moving across the border. Surveys by American packers disclose that Canadian farmers resent even these purchases and are stepping up pig production to shut out all American pork. The fall pig crop was the largest since 1932 and was 32 per cent larger than the crop of 1938, according to figures from the dominion's department of agriculture.

This came in the face of statements by Canadian packers that they must have American pork to take full advantage of their profitable contracts with England. [They insist that they are shipping none of our pork to England, but if they are it is the Canadian packer who is reaping the benefit, Chicago processors assert].

Barrier to Live Hogs.

Meanwhile, strict enforcement of quarantine laws is making it almost impossible for Americans to sell live hogs to Canada, according to those who have tried to ship. The animals can be held 30 days or longer at the border and few shippers care to take this risk, men in the trade declare.

Some members of the domestic industry believe Canada's quarantine is justified. But in reply to this, central western farmers are asking: "What benefit is there then in get-

Operators Will Appeal Fixing of Coal Prices

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—A fight in the courts against proposed minimum prices for sale of soft coal at the mines was indicated today by operators who once before carried their battle against the Guffey act to the Supreme court and won.

H. B. Hawthorne.

Statements by Herbert Jacobi, vice president and general counsel for the Carter Coal company, and H. R. Hawthorne, counsel for the Pocahontas corporation—both opponents of the Guffey act—were made before examiners who will fix the minimum prices.

Appeal to Be Made.

Jacobi said that regardless of the decision of the examiners, he would appeal to Director Howard Gray of the coal division. Then, he added, he intended to appeal to the secretary of the interior.

He also asserted he would not bother to argue before the examiners the validity or constitutionality of the coal act, or the validity of a presidential reorganization order transferring duties of the bituminous coal commission to a division of the department of the interior.

Hawthorne questioned directly the authority of the secretary of the interior and director of the coal division to determine minimum prices. "There are not sufficient standards in the law setting out the duties of the director, nor do these standards protect the rights of individuals in compliance with the constitution," he said.

Charges Hearings Are Illegal.

The Pocahontas corporation counsel also declared orders for the final hearing on coal prices were not issued in accordance with law and were unconstitutional. He argued that the hearings and any action based upon them should be voided because of "improper delegation of authority by congress." The reorganization order transferred the price fixing authority from a seven man commission to the secretary of the interior.

Special reductions on coal purchased by municipalities were asked by Frances J. Blaustein, assistant corporation counsel for New York City, representing the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers.

CHICAGO FIRMS SPEND $900,000 ON NEW PLANTS

Approximately $900,000 is being spent for expansion purposes by four of Chicago's oldest companies, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. They are the Graver Tank and Manufacturing company, Albert Schwill & Co., Bunte Brothers, and United States Reduction company.

Graver Tank, which started in Chicago in 1888, is erecting a new factory of 40,000 square feet, twice the area of buildings damaged by fire last year. The old buildings are being replaced. The company built the tunnel for the Chicago subway which was recently sunk into position under the river at State street.

Albert Schwill is building a 500,000 bushel grain elevator. A five story addition is being built at the Bunte candy plant. United States Reduction is completing a plant on a nine acre site for the alloying and refining of nonferrous metals and production of bronze and brass ingots.

Mexico Moves to Tighten Its Credit Control

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14 (AP)—Financial circles reported today that at a secret meeting in the Bank of Mexico yesterday a control commission composed of prominent bankers had been organized to sterilize all monetary reserves in excess of needs for business credits.

The commission, thru its control, would seek to bolster the nation's banking structure against the possible shock of the United States suspending purchases of foreign silver. The action was taken, it was said, as a precaution because of news from Washington indicating termination of silver purchases is likely.

Bank Directors on Commission.

Directors of the National Bank of Mexico, the Bank of Commerce, the local branch of the National City Bank of New York, the Bank of London and Mexico and the Mexico bank were said to be the members of the new commission.

The commission, it was reported, would supervise the extension of credits by member banks of the Banking Association of Mexico.

Credits would be reduced in the case of firms which speculate or deal in foreign exchange in order to reduce pressure on the peso should the United States terminate its present silver policy.

Deny Control of Exchange.

It was asserted that neither the government nor the Bank of Mexico had indicated that any form of exchange control would be instituted.

Bankers at the meeting expressed the opinion, reliable sources reported, that loans for productive enterprise or for the development of the nation's natural resources should be encouraged rather than limited.

Exchange circles said the first result of the banking conference was a reduction in the market quotation for United States dollars.

WESTINGHOUSE WORKER'S WAGES BOOSTED 10 PCT.

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company announced yesterday that wages and salaries of all its employés will be adjusted upward 10 per cent from "base rates" this month under a plan basing compensation on average earnings of the company in the three months preceding the month of payment.

The company's net profit for the three months ended Jan. 31 was $4,379,450, compared with $2,064,558 in the period ended Jan. 31, 1939, it was announced.

Employés' January compensation was 12 per cent above base rates. About 49,500 will receive the adjusted compensation this month.

LARGER NET PROFITS REPORTED FOR YEAR BY HARRIS, HALL & CO.

Harris, Hall & Co., Chicago investment banking house, had a net profit for 1939 of $234,471, equal to $3.55 a share on the common stock, Edward B. Hall, president, reported yesterday. In 1938 the company had a net income of $211,645, equal to $3.21 a share.

Edward B. Hall.

"Altho according to published reports new corporate financing publicly offered in 1939 was in smaller volume than in 1938, our company's share of the business done not only represented a larger percentage of new issues offered, but was substantially larger in amount than our participation in new issues in 1938," Hall told the stockholders.

The company transferred $125,000 from earnings to earned surplus, which on Dec. 31 amounted to $265,296. The company contributed $10,275 to its employés' trust fund and paid out $29,455 as extra compensation to workers.

COURT PERMITS PEOPLES GAS TO APPEAL ON RATE

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14 (AP).—Chief Justice Francis S. Wilson of the Illinois Supreme court signed an order today permitting the Peoples Gas, Light, and Coke company of Chicago to appeal to the United States Supreme court for a ruling on legality of an increase in gas rates.

The Illinois Supreme court recently denied the company's request for a rehearing on the court's decision which invalidated the rate boost. The appeal to the United States Supreme court will permit the utility to continue to charge the increased rates until a ruling is made in Washington.

Officials of the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company said in Chicago yesterday that a brief setting forth the company's appeal will be filed with the Supreme court at Washington as promptly as possible.

Most of Banks' Advertising in 1940 to Be in Newspapers

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 14 (AP).—The nation's banks will spend more than half their 1940 advertising budget for newspaper space, a study by the Financial Advertisers association showed today. Thirty per cent of the banks have drawn up larger advertising appropriations this year.

FIRMS IN MANY FIELDS REPORT LARGER PROFITS

Last year's business improvement was reflected yesterday in earnings reports which showed substantially larger profits for corporations representative of the country's leading industries—including manufacturers of rubber products, glass, tin cans, and locomotives.

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, world's largest maker of rubber products, reported its 1939 net profit was $9,838,797, equal to $3.20 a common share. In 1938 the company earned $6,012,423, or $1.34 a share.

Net sales rose to $200,101,704 from $165,928,944 in 1938.

War Does Not Hamper Business.

P. W. Litchfield, president, said the European war has not affected Goodyear's foreign business adversely.

American Can company, leading manufacturer of containers, reported 1939 net income of $18,284,964, or $6.22 a common share, against $13,645,499, or $4.34 a share, in 1938. The net income was the largest since 1934. H. A. Baker, president, said the 1940 packing season's schedules might be slightly higher than in 1939.

Continental Can company announced 1939 net profit of $8,635,786, equal to $2.71 a share, against $7,101,973, or $2.17 a share, in 1938.

Libbey-Owens Profit Soars.

Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company announced net profit of $8,062,753 for 1939, equal to $3.21 a share. In 1938 the company had net of $3,930,460, or $1.57 a share.

John D. Biggers, president, said that net profits for the fourth quarter of last year were $4,160,237, equal to $1.66 a share, the largest for the quarter in history. In the corresponding 1938 period net was $3,501,755, or $1.40 a share.

The Baldwin Locomotive works reported 1939 net income of $542,026, equal to 41 cents a share against a net loss of $1,032,641 in 1938. Results of the affiliated Midvale company are included in these figures.

Brinley said combined unfilled orders increased from $13,401,321 on Jan. 1, 1939 to $44,215,799 at the year end. Midvale, he said has on its books "large orders for armor and ordnance, principally for the United States government." Heavy machinery orders, he said, have been stimulated by war demand, both directly and indirectly.

Net income of Fairbanks, Morse & Co., in 1939 was equal to not less than $4 a share, F. C. Dierks, secretary, stated in a proxy statement for the annual meeting to be held March 27. This would represent the best showing for the company since 1926. Net profit in 1938 was $558,539, equal to 83 cents a share. The company manufactures many types of Diesel and other internal combustion engines.

Cluett, Peabody & Co., Inc., had consolidated net profit for 1939 of $3,058,199, or $4.16 a share, against $1,110,965, or $1.28 a share, in 1938.

Nation Lacks Many Vital War Materials, Engineers Assert

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Mining experts agreed today that the United States is deficient in resources for seven essential war metals and two war minerals.

J. W. Furness traces war to lack of materials.

These reports were made to a symposium of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical engineers. Some of these metals are so important, engineers declared, that their lack in some European countries and their control by others, made the present war inevitable.

The United States is not so badly off, but nevertheless, China, which can be cut off at any time, is a main source for two of these war essentials, India a third, Asia Minor another, and Italy and Spain a fifth.

Produce Little Tin at Home.

The seven metals are:

Tin—On which an army's canned food depends. The United States produces but 1 per cent of its tin and the source is the far east.

Manganese—United States production 5 to 10 per cent of its needs. Russia, Cuba, and Brazil are the sources of supply.

Chromium—Home production 1 per cent. Sources, Turkish Asia Minor, and Rhodesia, the latter a British source already cut off from the United States.

Tungsten—Essential for tools to make munitions. United States production 40 to 50 per cent. China furnishes the rest.

Mercury—For fulminate caps for projectiles. The United States supplies 50 to 60 per cent, and the rest comes from Italy and Spain.

Antimony from Abroad.

Antimony—For bearings of mechanized army and alloy for bullets. United States production 10 to 15 per cent. China, Mexico and Brazil are the other sources.

The two minerals are mica for electrical equipment and quartz for military radio. The United States supplies about 20 per cent of its mica, with the rest coming from India and Brazil. America has virtually no quartz and gets its supply from Brazil.

J. W. Furness, chief of the economics and statistics bureau, United States bureau of mines, said that as soon as one nation controls a lot of mineral resources, and limits their distribution under a highly nationalistic policy, war is inevitable.

D. F. Hewett, chief of metalliferous deposits of the United States bureau of mines, gave examples. Great Britain, he said, has prevented exploitation of manganese on the African Gold Coast and chromium in Rhodesia, by foreign nations. They may only buy from Britain.

Other experts declared one reason Russia wants Finland is to place Russia almost on top of the Swedish iron mines.

75 YEAR OLD FIRE INSURANCE FIRM MARKS BIRTHDAY

The Millers National Insurance company, which claims rank as the largest and oldest Illinois fire insurance company, today celebrates its 75th anniversary. It was organized on Feb. 15, 1865, as the Planters Insurance company of Springfield. Home offices were transferred to Chicago in 1875, and the present title adopted in 1877. L. C. Gray, president of Millers National, reported its assets totaled $7,014,075 as of Dec. 31, 1939.

The Equitable Life Insurance company of Iowa reported $42,109,290 in new insurance was written in 1939, the total of insurance in force reaching $585,035,065 as of Dec. 31. Total assets were $193,491,373, an increase of $11,239,532 over the end of 1938.

N. Y. SALES TAX RULING TERMED PERIL TO TRADE

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A serious threat to interstate commerce was seen by the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday in the recent United States Supreme court decision upholding the validity of the New York City sales tax as applied to coal sales in interstate commerce. The association said it feared the decision opens the way to widespread enactment of taxes by the states on each other's products.

Such a situation might cripple the free interchange of goods among the states and add to difficulties created by state trade barriers that have been set up in recent years.

There was a sharp difference of opinion among the members of the Supreme court over the decision on the case which involved the purchase of coal mined in Pennsylvania by about 20 New York utility and steamship companies.

Hughes Opposes Majority.

Chief Justice Hughes in a minority report held that the decision violates the long established principle that states may not lay a direct tax on interstate commerce. Free interchange of goods among the states, he said, has been essential to the well being of the national economy.

The majority held that the tax was constitutional. The theory was expressed that the mere fact that goods moved in interstate commerce should not free them from a tax to help a state to meet its requirements when the tax was not made for the direct purpose of interfering with interstate commerce.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association sought to find what effect the decision might have on industrial operations within Illinois. Its counsel, Fyffe & Clarke, submitted a report on the decision.

Fears Extension of Tax.

James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the association, after studying the report said that in his opinion the most immediate result of the court's removal of the ban against interference with commerce among the states, as far as Illinois is con-

Over $275,000,000 a Year in Money Orders

MORE Money Orders (both in number and aggregate amount of money) are paid by the Chicago Post Office than any other Post Office in the world. Over 36,000,000 individual orders, totalling over $275,000,000 are paid each year.

In addition, the Chicago Post Office handles over two billion (2,000,000,000) pieces of mail each year and sells over forty-one million dollars a year worth of stamps, stamped envelopes and other postage.

Chicago's commercial importance as well as the advantageous position of this city as a distributing point could not be better illustrated than through these postal statistics.

Chicago, the Wonder City—The commercial progress of Chicago is one of the marvels of the century. In common with other financial institutions, the growth of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank is largely dependent on the growth of Chicago. And the growth of Chicago rests on the faith and vision of its citizens. In a series of advertisements, of which this is the Ninth, we are trying to set forth a few of the achievements of this great city. Chicago will continue to contribute to the benefit of its citizens in proportion to their faith in its future.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Today's market was a rising one for specialty stocks, but recent leaders were neglected at moderately lower levels.

Individual issues apparently attracted buyers thru bright earnings statements or talk of boosted business.

The news, generally, was hardly of a nature to buoy speculative sentiment. Wall street still had to settle arguments regarding national politics and the "third term" question, and shifting European war scenes seemingly were as confusing as ever.

Aircrafts enjoyed a late revival, but without any great show of activity. Steels and mail orders drooped. Rails, utilities, coppers, and oils held to a narrow shelf.

Liveliest stocks of the day, all at new 1939-'40 highs, were Loft, Studebaker, and Martin-Parry.

Other sprinters on the upside included Celotex, Celanese, General Outdoor Advertising, Certain-teed common and preferred, Cluett Peabody, and Marshall Field. Goodyear rose on news of an extra dividend.

Allied Chemical was off 3¼ and lesser losers were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, J. C. Penney, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse, and Johns-Manville.

General Motors was up a shade and Chrysler unchanged. Retaining modest improvement were Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Sperry, New York Central, Pennsylvania, American Can, Youngstown Sheet, and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

New York Bonds.

The rally in Finnish loans appeared to have been helped by the United States Senate vote for $20,000,000 in export credits to the northern nation and reports of formal British sanction for recruiting of men in England to bolster Finland's manpower.

Helsingfors 6½s jumped 8½ to 31 in a thin market and Finland 6s of 1945 were up 2 at 50.

Also ending a point or more higher were Antioquia 7s of 1945, Sao Paulo 8s and Uruguay 3¾s, 4s, and 4½s.

Chicago Stocks.

Marshall Field shares, reflecting buyers' interest following a favorable earnings report, rose ½ point yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. The stock, most active issue of the day with a turnover of 3,000 shares, closed at 14¾. For the entire list, however, losses outnumbered advances. Trading continued moderate. Southwestern Gas and Electric, which set a new 1940 high at 110¾, Asbestos Manufacturing, and Swift were other volume leaders which closed fractionally higher. Bendix and Berghoff dropped ⅛ each.

Bank Stocks.

Prices were uneven in bank stock trading yesterday. Harris Trust was up three points to a closing bid of 298. Bid price of Continental Illinois dropped half a point to 88½, Chicago Title and Trust dropped one to 118, and First National gained one to 242. Other issues were steady.

TRUST OFFICERS SEEK NEW MEANS FOR INVESTMENT

Chicagoan Favors Buying Preferred Stocks.

New York, Feb. 14 [Special].—Robert S. Drew, vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust company of Chicago, suggested today that trust funds finding the supply of first grade bonds inadequate might safely make substantial investments in preferred stocks.

Addressing the midwinter trust conference of the American Bankers' association, Drew said his suggestion might be applied especially in cases where income was of prime importance and diversification of investments desirable.

"There is a dearth of high grade corporate bonds at suitable prices," Drew said. "Good preferred stocks are available in fair supply and while their present prices seem high, they produce a better return than good bonds."

Charts Yale's Investments.

Lawrence G. Tighe, associate treasurer of Yale university, told the trust men that Yale has adopted a plan under which it invests 70 per cent of its trust funds in fixed income securities such as first grade bonds and preferred stocks and 30 per cent in equities such as defaulted bonds, preferred stocks paying no dividends, and common stocks.

He asserted that public utility securities constitute an investment "menace" to universities, asserting:

"This type of security is the only one now available in any quantity. Every fund is buying utility bonds in far larger quantities than anything else. At the moment they look all right. So did railroad bonds 20 years ago.

"The utilities are highly vulnerable to regulation by taxation or political whim and the companies cannot keep on growing forever. Some day their securities are going to cause infinite aches and pains."

Urges Uniform Transfer Tax.

Uniform state tax laws on transfers of out of state capital were urged by Louis S. Headley, vice president of the First Trust Company of St. Paul, Minn.

Headley, who is chairman of the committee on fiduciary legislation of the trust division, said the committee had drawn up a simple statute completely exempting the intangibles of nonresidents from transfer taxes, and would submit the bill to state governments.

"Fairness requires not only exemption from double taxation for all citizens, but freedom of movement for citizens and their intangibles anywhere within the nation," he declared. "States which exempt the intangibles of nonresidents will attract capital, and those which do not will repel it."

An investment plan is necessary for trust funds, but the plan must retain flexibility, James C. Shelor, trust officer of the Trust Company of Georgia, Atlanta, told the conference.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—William P. Maloney, assistant United States attorney who in six years prosecuted more than 400 defendants in mail fraud cases without losing a case, resigned today to become senior trial counsel for the Securities and Exchange commission.

Maloney was named an assistant in March, 1934, by Martin Conboy, then United States attorney. Among those convicted thru his efforts were William J. Graham and James C. 6 MORE DOUGLAS PLANES ORDERED BY AM. AIRLINES

American Airlines, Inc., which recently ordered 15 of the Douglas Aircraft company's large DC-4 transport planes, yesterday announced that it has ordered six smaller Douglas transports. The line now has 41 Douglas planes on order.

The six new planes will be DC-3 models with a capacity of 21 passengers. Twenty of the DC-3s already had been ordered, and two of them are scheduled for delivery this month. Two will be delivered each succeeding month until the order is filled. Delivery on the four-motored DC-4 transports, the world's largest commercial land planes, will begin in the spring of 1941.

When all of the Douglas ships are delivered, American will have 99 planes in service, including 73 Douglas planes ranging from the 14 passenger DC-2 to the 42 passenger DC-4.

Charles A. Rheinstrom, vice president of American Airlines in charge of sales, also announced that the line today will begin a fourth nonstop flight daily between Chicago and New York. He said January traffic over the system was 83.5 per cent heavier than in January, 1939.

TRADE TREATIES EXTENSION ASKED BY HOUSE GROUP

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—Fourteen of 15 Democratic members of the house ways and means committee said in a report today that "our highest national interests" require continuance of the reciprocal trade agreements program.

The report, approving a three-year extension of the program from next June 12, asserted that abandonment would serve notice to the world that the United States had given up its position of leadership "as a peace loving nation."

The fifteenth member, Representative Disney [D., Okla.], filed a separate statement in which he advocated an amendment to prevent the state department from treating as tariffs excise taxes on oil, coal, lumber and copper.

Administration leaders have arranged to devote most of next week to house consideration of the extension legislation.

CHICAGO SELLS FINNS 10 MILLION POUNDS OF LARD

Packing circles said yesterday that Finland has purchased 10 to 11 million pounds of lard from Chicago packers in the last 10 days. The purchases were made by the Finnish Trading corporation with credit advanced by the Export-Import bank of Washington, D. C. Packers sold the lard thru the American Packers Exporting corporation, which alloted each packer a quota of the total.

The purchase aroused interest, because the amount of lard is equivalent to nearly three pounds for every person in Finland, and is much larger than Finland's normal purchases. The lard, at current Chicago prices, cost $600,000 to $700,000.

Packers said the Finns use lard as Americans use buttter, for spreading on sandwiches and similar purposes, as well as for shortening.

Alberta Province Defaults Today on 2 Bond Maturities

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 14 (AP).—Alberta province will default tomorrow on two bond maturities aggregating $2,460,000, bringing to $14,000,000 the total of its maturities in default, government officials announced today. Debentures maturing total $2,750,000 but $290,000 is held by the provincial sinking fund. One issue maturing totals $2,000,000. This was floated in 1924 at 5 per cent interest. The second issue of $750,000 was sold by the province in 1925 also at 5 per cent interest. The government will continue to offer interest at the halved rates begun in 1936.

THUNDER OF WAR GUNS SHAKES UP HULL PACT TRADE

ting a lower Canadian duty on live hogs?"

In return for the live hog concession, the United States lowered its tariff on live cattle from the dominion. This has represented a saving of millions of dollars to Canadian cattle exporters. The duty reduction applies also to Mexican cattle.

Mexican Cattle No Menace.

The southern republic, however, sent in only 15 per cent of the 1939 receipts—763,653 head, the second largest influx of foreign cattle on record. And W. H. Butcher, independent packer of Oklahoma City, Okla., says that the Mexican cattle are no menace to the American market. He explains:

"They are big boned, rangy animals; canners and cutters [low grade cattle unsuited for general beef purposes] and do not interfere with our domestic industry."

And it now appears that imports of live cattle from Canada will be much smaller in 1940, due to the dominion's profitable relations with England. The volume is running far below that of last year as prices go up on the Canadian market. Steers are 5 to 15 per cent higher than in the United States. Calves are 5 to 17 per cent higher, and hogs are up 5 per cent.

Chicago Prices Lower.

Meanwhile, Chicago prices were on a generally lower plane than they were last year. Steers are 11 per cent under the corresponding 1939 price, and the average hog price has declined 31 per cent.

These slumps, coupled with the disappointment over England's shift of her wartime trade and what is termed as Canada's juggling of the Hull treaty's terms, have been responsible for a growing resentment against the treaties in the livestock industry generally. Before the present situation developed, the American Produce Review commented editorially last year as follows:

"There is no question but that John Bull and Canada, combined, completely out traded Uncle Sam in these new [1939] trade agreements. . . . American poultry, dairy, and livestock farmers have sacrificed much and will sacrifice more as the repercussions of these agreements are felt in the future."

Affected Big Business.

Total concessions on all commodities, including items on which the United Kingdom, Newfoundland, and the British colonies agreed to maintain current tariffs, affected United States exports valued in 1936 at $330,896,000. This country, in turn, reduced duty or agreed to maintain the current tariff on items whose import from the United Kingdom were valued at $445,164,000 during the same period.

Among these were cheddar cheese, whole milk and cream, fresh pork, and various types of cattle and swine. One of the most determined protests since the treaty was signed has come from the dairy industry, especially those divisions of it in Wisconsin and New York. The protest concerns the duty reductions on such cheeses as cheddar, swiss, roquefort, and edam.

Treaty Countries Gain.

Records of foreign commerce and navigation of the United States and of the bureau of foreign and domestic trade show that from 1935 to 1938 total cheese imports increased 11.2 per cent. Imports from agreement countries, however, went up 54.8 per cent for this period, while among all other nations there was an actual decline of 4.5 per cent. The comment of a national research group, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., follows:

"The true nature of this trade since 1935 is not realized until the nature of the imports from the two groups of countries is examined. Imports from the trade agreement nations consist almost entirely of cheddar, swiss, edam, and roquefort, all of which are competitive in varying degrees with domestic cheeses.

Competition Is Increased.

"Imports for nonagreement countries [primarily Italy], however, consist mainly of such cheeses as reggiano, pecorino, provoloni, and provolette, of which we produce but small quantities. Thus, the concessions made have not only promoted an increase in total imports of cheese but have been responsible for an even greater increase in imports of the same types of cheese which we produce in large quantities."

As a result of these conditions and others—including the plight of the domestic meat industry under the South American treaties, described in a previous article—congressmen from the livestock and dairy states are expected to be among the leaders in the forthcoming fight over the treaties at Washington.

[Ills which the cotton textile industry traces to the Hull treaties will be discussed in a subsequent article].

GROUP QUESTIONS HULL ON MEXICAN CONFISCATIONS

The Illinois Manufacturers' association announced yesterday it has sent a letter to Secretary of State Hull asking what the United States intends to do about Mexico's confiscation of American citizens' properties.

W. Homer Hartz, association president, said that several member firms which have investments in Mexico or are contemplating such investments, have evidenced concern over the Mexican expropriation.

"We shall be grateful for any information regarding the program in which the state department is engaged to protect the citizens of the United States from further unwarranted expropriation of their investments and property," the letter said.

SEARS COMMUNITY STATE BANK PLANS TO DOUBLE STOCK

J. Louis Cohn.

Stockholders of the Sears Community State bank, 3401 West Arthington avenue, were notified yesterday of plans for doubling the bank's capital stock. A special meeting to vote on the plan was called for March 15.

The plan calls for an increase in the bank's present capitalization of 8,000 shares of $25 par value to 16,000 shares of $25 par value. Present stockholders will be offered the right to buy the new stock at $35 a share on a share for share basis.

"The bank is in the strongest position in its history," said J. Louis Kohn, president, in making the announcement. "Last year we showed substantial increases in every department, and the present move will make it possible for us further to expand our loan service to customers."

cerned, might be an extension of the Illinois retailers' occupation tax to cover interstate transactions. However, the state finance department has given no indication that it contemplated such a move.

"We confidently expect that Illinois taxing authorities will not attempt extension of the Illinois retailers' occupation tax law to cover interstate transactions of Illinois business and industrial concerns," Donnelly said. "To do so would involve, in effect, an attempt to set up an export tax on Illinois products.

Warns Jobs Would Be Affected.

"The effect of so burdening the sale of Illinois products to customers in other states would immediately result in serious decline in Illinois manufacturing, Illinois mining, and Illinois retailing—with a serious, immediate decline in employment in Illinois factories, mines, and retail establishments.

"Such burdens also would make it necessary to curtail the cost of producing Illinois products so as to permit their sale in competition with the products of states not so burdened. This would mean a strong downward economic pressure on the wages of Illinois employés."

Donnelly added it is to be hoped that taxing officials of other states will not take advantage of the situation created by the Supreme court decision to "grab more tax money" from each other's products.

In the New York case commerce flowing into the state was involved. In regard to Illinois, Donnelly's expressed fears related to possible taxing of commerce moving out of the state. However, it was explained that the principle involved would be the same, because of the tax being applied on goods moving in interstate commerce.

Issue Up to Legislatures.

The report submitted by Fyffe & Clarke declares that the only ultimate means of avoiding increasing and multiple taxation of this kind seems now to lie in the realization by each state legislature that imposition of such taxes will bring retaliation from other states.

"It is not possible, at this time, to forecast what interpretative extensions the various states may make in the application of their existing tax statutes in the light of the decision," the Fyffe & Clarke report said. "Nor is it possible to forecast what new state taxing legislation may follow upon this opening up of the power of the states to tax transactions heretofore deemed beyond the power of the states to tax."

May Tax Trade Moving 2 Ways.

The report says that four states, including Illinois, have occupational retail sales taxes. It is quite possible, it continues, that each of these states will, in the light of the decision, either by interpretative or legislative extensions of the applications of their tax laws, impose these taxes upon interstate transactions in which goods enter the state, leave the state, or both.

The report finds the Supreme court decision may result in other problems affecting and complicating interstate commerce. Included, it said, will be the making of returns and reports covering transactions with customers located in many states.

Creation of Scrap Iron Futures Market Is Studied

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Governors of the Commodity Exchange, Inc., today appointed a committee to study the feasibility of establishing a futures market in scrap steel and iron. The committee is headed by Harold L. Bache, a partner in the stock exchange firm of J. S. Bache & Co. It was said that increased activity in spot scrap iron and steel and foreign inquiry incident to the war had heightened interest in establishment of a futures market.
